

Exercise Day For Guard

KINGSTON—The New York State Senate—59 strong, will return to Kingston the place of its birth Wednesday for a nostalgic visit to the building where the first Senate convened in 1777. They will arrive between 11-11:30 a.m.

They will gather in the old Senate House which originally accommodated only 13 members. The senators will convene in the spirit of the nation's Bicentennial to commemorate the wisdom of the state's founding fathers. Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupsak is expected to preside over the session.

Prior to the working session, a luncheon will be held and typical revolutionary era dishes will be served at the Colonade Restaurant in the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

The senators will then proceed to the churchyard of the Dutch Reformed Church where a wreath will be laid on the grave of New York's first governor, George Clinton.

The April 7 session will mark the second time the Senate has met in Kingston in recent years. In 1971, it gathered at the request of State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-39th Dist., to commemorate the birthday of the State Constitution.

This year's event has been planned by the official hosts for the day, State Senators Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-40th Dist., and Edwin E. Mason, R-48th Dist.

Kingston, once the third largest settlement in the state, is considered to be the birthplace of the New York State government. It was here on March 12, 1777 that the Committee on Government submitted to the Provincial Congress a draft of the state's first Constitution. The proposed document, largely the work of John Jay, Gouverneur Morris and Robert Livingston, was adopted on April 20, 1777. Because it was developed under the stress of war, it was not submitted to the public for ratification but was declared effective immediately. It was the feeling of the members of the Provincial Congress that the populace needed some measure of security in the form of a legal government, since at the time New York was politically adrift.

Two days later, Robert Benson, then a secretary to the Provincial Congress, read the new Constitution to the assembled citizens from atop a plank stretched across two beer barrels in front of the Ulster County Court House.

Kingston's Old Senate House was originally built in 1676 by Wessel Ten Broeck on a lot located in the city stockade area established by Dutch Gov. Peter Stuyvesant. The property passed from the Ten Broeck family to Abraham van Gasbeek through his marriage to Sarah Ten Broeck in 1751.

As the building stands today it is a mixture of 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th century construction. Portions of the foundation walls are attributed to the 17th century, while the 18th century claims sections of the external masonry. There are indications that the interior was rebuilt during the 19th century but, in general, the original spatial composition of the first floor has been retained. The finishing materials were changed again in the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Through these alterations the history of Kingston may be read as well as the lives of its many inhabitants.

Today the Senate House and the adjacent Senate House Museum may be viewed by all. The latter is a regional history museum with the largest single collection of paintings by John Vanderlyn a native of Kingston and a famous portrait and landscape artist. Visitation hours are 9 to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday. Tours are conducted at the Senate House every half hour.

Landfill Search in Rosendale

ROSENDALE—High Falls, Tillsen and Bloomington have been designated as areas most suitable for a new Town of Rosendale landfill, but the Rosendale Planning Board would like some suggestions and recommendations from the public before it narrows the list down to specific sites.

The planning board has been working since the start of the year to locate an acceptable and appropriate site for a new landfill. Chairman Lee Comar said recently that the board has tentatively settled on three general areas of the town, but has not identified specific sites within those areas.

The incentive for Rosendale's landfill search is a warning by the Department of Environmental Conservation that it will not re-certify the existing landfill on Whiteport Road when the permit expires this year. The landfill has been plagued with problems—most stemming from poor drainage and excess water—since the 1960's.

Comar said any site selected for landfill purposes must meet several criteria: it cannot be part of a flood plain, must be at least five feet above the water table, have adequate access roads and meet state requirements for soil conditions. The High Falls, Tillsen and Bloomington areas meet those general criteria; other areas of the town, such as Rifton and Binnewater, do not meet those criteria and therefore are not considered suitable areas for a landfill site.

Comar said the planning board expects to identify as many as 10 or 12 specific sites within those three general areas of the town; the list will then be narrowed down to the best three or four sites. The final decision will be made by the town board.

According to Comar, the planning board expects to complete its study, and forward its recommendations to the town board, within the next two months. The town board would likely hold several public hearings before settling on one specific site for the landfill.

Comar said the planning board does not expect to hold formal public hearings or informational meetings on its phase of the study, but would still like to hear from town residents on the subject. The planning board will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Clerk's office, and the chairman said that if people want to discuss the landfill situation at that time, the board will gladly comply.

"This is usually a very emotional issue," said Comar, "and we would like to know what the people feel about our plans. We don't want to submit our recommendations to the town board and then have people complain that we didn't give them a chance to express their feelings."

The town board would have the option of either acting on, or dismissing, the planning board's recommendations. If the town board does select a new landfill site, engineering and feasibility studies would have to be conducted, and DEC and Ulster County Health Department approval would have to be obtained.

Comar said it is up to the DEC when the current landfill will be closed for good, but there are indications that the department will be lenient if the town doesn't complete the selection process by the time the permit expires, as long as some progress is being made.

Egypt Splits Farther from Russia

PARIS — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says he has canceled the Soviet navy's right to use Egyptian ports and warns of "a dangerous situation" if the Soviets set up a base in neighboring Libya.

Sadat told members of the Egyptian community in Paris Sunday his order to cancel the use of the naval facilities resulted from his decision March 14 to end Egypt's friendship treaty with Russia.

Shoring Up Shaky Truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Pro-Syrian guerrillas, who leftwingers claim are Syrian troops in disguise, have seized a vital oil refinery and taken up key positions around Beirut to keep Lebanon's shaky truce from collapsing.

In parts of Lebanon, it was questionable whether the ceasefire, Lebanon's 27th since last April, had taken hold at all.

Another 48 persons were killed and 80 wounded Sunday in fighting in the countryside and in snipings and street slayings throughout the capital.

Hijacks Jet, Wants Asylum

LISBON, Portugal — A Cuban soldier stationed in Angola hijacked a Portuguese TAP jet airliner and forced the crew to fly him to Portugal where he has applied for political asylum, officials said today.

Government sources said the Cuban embassy has applied heavy pressure on the military to return the soldier who boarded the Boeing 707 Sunday while serving as a security guard at Luanda airport.

Callaghan Is Britain's PM

LONDON — James "Sunny Jim" Callaghan today won election as Britain's 69th prime minister and the man charged with pulling the nation out of its unprecedented economic decline.

Callaghan, foreign secretary since 1974, defeated Employment Secretary Michael Foot 176 to 137 in the third ballot by ruling Labor party's members of parliament since Harold Wilson announced his resignation March 16.

Truckers on the Road Again

WASHINGTON — Thousands of truckers have hit the road again, ending the first nationwide Teamsters strike and easing the economic impact of the three-day walkout.

"It would seem the majority of the drivers are back on the road," a Trucking Employers, Inc., spokesman said Sunday. "But there are pockets that are still out."

More than half of the 400,000 Teamsters settled Friday for a tentative three-year contract calling for a 30 per cent pay increase and unlimited cost of living raises. TEI, the largest employers group, held out until Saturday before reaching tentative accord with the final 175,000 Teamsters.

Prince Sihanouk Resigns

BANGKOK, Thailand — Prince Norodom Sihanouk has resigned as Cambodia's chief of state, official radio broadcasts said today.

Sihanouk stepped down Sunday, according to broadcasts monitored in Bangkok. In a farewell speech to the nation, the 53-year-old prince said "that everywhere and under all circumstances, I will remain a valiant supporter of the Cambodian people, the revolution ... and the splendid revolutionary army of Democratic Cambodia."

Deputy Prime Minister Khieu Samphan, in accepting the resignation, said Sihanouk will live forever in Cambodia, and a large statue of the prince will be erected, presumably in Phnom Penh.

Pope Vehemently Denies He Ever Had a 'Friend'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI says a magazine article calling him a homosexual is "a horrible and slanderous insinuation" devoid of truth.

The 78-year-old pontiff told about 80,000 persons in St. Peter's Square for his noon blessing Sunday "we know you have been asked to pray for our humble person, made the object of derision and of horrible and slanderous insinuations by a certain magazine irrespective of honesty and truth."

Italy's Roman Catholic bishops called for atonement prayers in all Italian churches because of the article.

"We thank all of you for such a demonstration of filial compassion and moral sensitiveness," the Pope said to loud applause.

French writer Roger Peyrefitte, a self-proclaimed homosexual, made the allegation in a Tempo magazine article attacking a recent Vatican document condemning homosexuality, masturbation and premarital sex.

"... It is well known that Paul VI had as a boyfriend a movie actor whose name I am not going to mention, but whom I recall very well," Peyrefitte wrote. He said this was "when our friend Paul was still named Msgr. Montini, archbishop of Milan," before his election to the papacy in 1963.

Coed Dies In Fire

SARATOGA SPRINGS (UPI) — One coed died and at least 40 more were injured early today in a smoky fire in a residence hall at Skidmore College.

The dead student was identified as Jody Smith, 20, of Harrisburg, Pa., a junior. Because of smoke-filled hallways, a number of students jumped from windows; others used bed sheets to lower themselves groundward. They were mainly clad in nightclothes and robes.

Listed in critical condition at Saratoga Hospital was Joanne Handler, 18, of Manhattan, a sophomore. Rosanne M. Miller, 18, a freshman from Newton Center, Mass., and two others, identified only as Susan Miller of Wayne, N.J., and Karen Lichtman of the Poughkeepsie area, were listed in serious condition.

A hospital spokesman said a total of 23 had been admitted, most for treatment of smoke inhalation. At least 70 persons had been examined for possible shock or smoke inhalation.

Earlier Sessions

OLIVEBRIDGE—Tuesday's meeting of the Olive Town Board will begin earlier than usual to make time for a presentation by Concerned Consumers of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

The organization will present a program dealing with municipal ownership and distribution of electrical power. The group will also petition the town board to conduct a feasibility study examining local alternatives in that direction.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the Olivebridge Fire House. Town board meetings usually begin at 7:30 p.m., with 30 minutes for questions and public discussion.

Not a Puppy Love

Love sparks eternal for 84-year-old Charles Langfield who feeds a traditional piece of wedding cake to his 89-year-old bride Delia Gertiser Sunday in Springfield, Ill. Married at the Ridgewood Manor Nursing Home where they reside, the couple asked that a double bed be put in their room but temporarily dropped plans for a honeymoon. Unemployment Rate Drops, But It's Hardly Ripple

KINGSTON—The songbirds may again be singing, but the long winter of unemployed discontent has not brought a song to the lips of the State Department of Labor, either in Albany or Kingston.

The state's unemployment rate dipped slightly in February to 10.9 per cent, down from the 11.1 per cent in January that was heralded as the highest unemployment rate in four decades.

Official statistics on Ulster County for February had 12.8 per cent unemployed, down slightly from 13 per cent in January, still the second worst figure in the state behind Buffalo.

According to a Labor Department spokesman in Albany, there are 8,300 county residents weathering the winter without jobs at the end of February, compared to 8,400 four weeks earlier.

Those actually receiving unemployment compensation benefits from the Kingston office numbered 6,344 the week ending Feb. 27. Weekly figures released since that time show fewer people picking up checks locally: March 5, 6,118; March 12, 5,854; March 19, 5,877; and March 26, 5,770.

A Kingston spokesman noted, however, that an increasing number of ex-workers are exhausting their unemployment benefits each week.

Statewide, the Labor Department added a few grim notes to its joyless proclamation that unemployment remained at the second highest level since the Great Depression of the 1930's: jobs in New York City had shrunk by Leap Year Day to an 18-year low, and "fewer New York State residents were employed in February than in any month since comparable data became available in 1970."

In February, there were 815,000 New Yorkers unemployed, down 14,600 from the January rolls. There were fewer employed statewide, also. In February some 6,655,000 people had jobs, down 5,600 from the previous month and 179,100 less than in Feb. 1975.

Non-farm jobs shrank from 6,617,000 in January to 6,611,800 in February, with all of the loss coming from the non-manufacturing sector, said the department, and most of the losses from New York City where almost half the people in the state are employed.

Taking the state by sections, it was noted that neighboring

Dutchess County, a traditional stronghold of low unemployment that has continuously been the state leader in that field, has now fallen victim to rising joblessness.

The Poughkeepsie metropolitan area was listed with 7.3 per cent unemployed, up from 7.1 per cent in January and from 6.0 per cent in February, 1975. As such, it now matches the job picture in suburban Nassau County, which dropped unemployment rate from 7.8 per cent in January to 7.3 per cent in February.

Some rates for other areas are: Buffalo (the highest rate), 14 per cent; Binghamton, 8.7 per cent; Elmira, 9.9 per cent; Rochester 8.7 per cent; Syracuse, 10.3 per cent; Utica, 12.3 per cent; New York City, 12 per cent; Suffolk, 9.1 per cent; Westchester, 9.9 per cent; Rockland, 9.3 per cent.

A trend analysis by the Department of Labor stated that "seasonal cutbacks in trade and construction were mainly responsible" for the February decline in non-manufacturing jobs, with smaller declines in finance, insurance, real estate and mining.

Employment was reported slightly higher in the education, trucking, and public utilities industries, the department said.

Government Stats Mirror Improvement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government statistics continued to show economic upswings as the second quarter began.

Jobs rose to record levels, although unemployment still was high. Wholesale prices in all but foods showed increases which will be passed to consumers. The housing industry got welcome news in family dwelling starts.

Here is a summary of the latest figures:

UNEMPLOYMENT: More Americans had jobs in March than ever before. The Labor Department said the unemployment rate fell 0.1 per cent, to 7.5 per cent, in February, lowest in more than a year. Total employed numbered 86.7 million, a record.

INFLATION: The Consumer Price Index, the measure of inflation, stood at 167.1 in February, meaning goods costing $100 in 1967 cost $167.10 now. The 0.1 per cent rise during February was the smallest since September, 1971. The inflation rate on an annual basis now stands at approximately 7 per cent.

WHOLESALE PRICES: The Wholesale Price Index stood at 179.8 per cent in March, 5.5 per cent higher than a year ago despite a decline in farm prices. This showed a resurgence of inflation in industrial and processed foods.

TRADE — The United States had its second straight monthly trade deficit in February, importing $140.8 million more than it exported.

INDICATORS: Index of leading business indicators rose 0.8 per cent in February, a substantial slowdown from January's revised increase of 1.5 per cent. The index, which charts the direction of the economy, has risen for four consecutive months but at 105.7 per cent remained far below its peak of 126.6 in mid-1973.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT: Production increased 0.6 per cent in February from the nation's mines, factories and utilities.

HOUSING: Starts of family dwellings were up a record 27 per cent over the previous month, welcome news for the hard-hit industry. February's starts were at 1.55 million, 63 per cent higher than a year ago and the largest one-month total in almost two years.

GNP: The Gross National Product rose 4.9 per cent in the last quarter of 1975 and stood at $1.216 trillion. Economists predict it will grow at 6 to 7 per cent most of 1976, enough to avert slipping back into recession.

County Election Center

KINGSTON—Election returns on Primary Day in Ulster County will be coordinated once again by the Board of Elections and county department heads Tuesday at the Ulster County Office Building.

Voting will take place throughout the county and the City of Kingston from noon to 9 p.m. as both major political parties field delegates to the national convention.

The Central Tabulation Center at the County Office Building, which has been recording election returns for the news media in the past several years, will begin operations at 8:30 p.m., according to Election Commissioners Edwin F. Callahan and John J. Hogan. County Public Relations Director Albert Cawein has been assigned to organize the operation in which the staff of the board of elections, county department heads and some county employees will volunteer their time.

They will take returns from election inspectors in the 150 election districts of the county.

Results will not be available to the public from the County Building during the hours that returns are being received. No one, other than members of the staff and the news media, will be permitted on the floors which will be occupied by the center during the evening.

All returns taken will be unofficial. Official returns will be available after the actual election inspector's reports are received and counted.

Boy Dies Trying to Save Pups

AVON, N.Y. (UPI) — A valiant effort to rescue a litter of puppies has cost a Livingston County boy his life.

Allen Pierson, 10, of Avon died in a fire Saturday, apparently while trying to save a litter of puppies inside a burning barn, police said.

The Pierson boy noticed a small fire in a barn at his family home and ran inside to rescue the dogs, officials theorized. He apparently became trapped inside when flames spread across the entrance.

His body was found by volunteer firemen after the blaze was extinguished in the 30-by-50 foot structure. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Three pigs, several dogs, some baled hay and straw also were lost in the blaze, officials said.

Climbing Aboard

Being a candidate isn't always easy as presidential aspirant Sen. Henry Jackson finds out as he gets hand at Madison Square Garden in boarding Republican Party symbol. The Democratic hopeful visited backstage at Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, where he took his son, Peter, to celebrate his 10th birthday on Saturday. (UPI)

National Guard Briefing Denied

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A spokesman for Gov. Hugh Carey has denied union charges that New York's chief executive has briefed the National Guard on a possible takeover of state prisons if center talks with prison guards break off.

"The governor has no plans for any such thing," the spokesman said Saturday, adding that the National Guard has not been prepared to assume prison guard duty.

Carl Gray, executive director of Council 82 of the Security and Law Enforcement Employees — the guards' union — had charged that the National Guard had been advised that it might be called on to replace his men.

"In briefing the National Guard and keeping the state militia on stand-by in the event of a bargaining breakdown, the governor is callously attempting to provoke a strike of corrections officers," the union leader said in a statement. Gray said the 25 union negotiators recessed the talks to return to their jobs and "help quell the unrest in the state's corrections facilities."

Officials at four prisons cited by Gray as facing serious disturbances denied that any major problems existed at the institutions.

The union has been talking with the state about a wage and increment reopening in their contract. Gray said union negotiators will return to the talks Tuesday.

Jackson Seeking New York Landslide

By U P I

Democratic candidates Jimmy Carter and Morris Udall searched out the last few undecided votes before Tuesday's primary in Wisconsin. Henry Jackson ignored Wisconsin to concentrate on the "landslide victory" he expected in New York.

The fourth major Democratic contender in Wisconsin, George Wallace, cut short his campaigning and appealed for votes from his home in Alabama.

President Ford rested at home Sunday after two days in the dairy state. Ronald Reagan's Wisconsin supporters used radio and television spots to promote their absent candidate, who was headed today for personal campaigning in Texas.

Carter spent Saturday night in Washington to attend the annual Gridiron dinner and roasting, at which Ford was guest of honor, then upstaged the President Sunday morning.

Out early, he said, to show his daughter the White House and the Washington Monument, Carter crossed in front of St. John's church minutes before the President was to arrive for services.

He distracted a share of the Ford spectators, reporters and photographers as he crossed to Lafayette Square and held an informal news conference.

When Ford arrived a reporter told him, "Jimmy Carter was just here." Ford replied, "Yes, I heard."

Carter told reporters he was happy with his showings in weekend party caucuses in Virginia and Kansas, where he ran behind uncommitted delegate candidates but well ahead of all others.

In Scoops Corner

KINGSTON — Members of the Kingston Democratic men's Club have voted to endorse Senator Henry Jackson for President in the April primary.

Frank DiPietro, a spokesman for the Men's Club, said "It is time to let Senator Jackson know that we believe in what he stands for." Jackson is an advocate of full employment and quality education and has a deep concern for the welfare of the elderly.

"Experience makes Senator Jackson our choice," continued DiPietro. "His more than 30 years in the House and Senate have brought him face to face with every major problem in the nation today. Problems that affect all of us and tear away at our nation's foundations. 'Scoop' Jackson is not only aware of these problems, but has definite plans for attacking them, not just lip service like the others," he concluded.

SOMETHING'S ALWAYS COOKIN' DOWN AT DUNKIN' DONUTS

Announcing ConRail.

A better way to run a railroad.

On April 1, six struggling railroads became a single, more efficient railroad, stretching from Boston to St. Louis. Purpose: to give shippers first-class service and become a profitable company.

IT'S GOING TO TAKE TIME. But we've got the people, the money, and the will to make it work.

And we've got to make it work. A big chunk of America is counting on us.

Our 17,000 miles of track cover an area with 100 million people and 55 percent of America's manufacturing plants. Including major automobile plants. ConRail serves so much of the auto industry that if we stopped hauling freight even for one day, 26,000 auto workers would be thrown out of work.

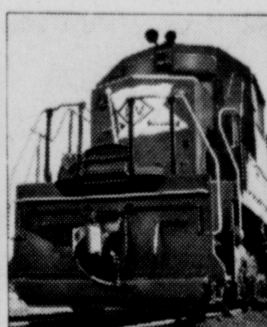

In business to make a profit

Don't confuse us with Amtrak—a Government-subsidized company responsible for intercity passenger service.

ConRail is a for-profit company—primarily a freight railroad. (Under contract to various agencies, ConRail also provides rate for lack of money. This slowed service and increased damage costs.

They had to absorb losses from their commuter lines. And also from unprofitable freight lines.

And, in some areas, they didn't have enough flexibility in assigning employees.

As you'll see below, the legislation that created ConRail specifically attacks each of these major problems.

Billions to improve roadbeds and equipment

In creating ConRail, Congress authorized the purchase of $2.1 billion in ConRail securities.

Importantly, ConRail doesn't have to pay interest or dividends in cash in the early years—which frees all the money for building a better railroad.

We'll use the $2.1 billion (as well as more billions from ConRail revenues) to replace over 4,000,000 ties and over 700 miles of track each year for the next 10 years. We'll also repair freight cars and locomotives—and buy new ones. Repair bridges and tunnels. Install and modernize signalling and traffic control systems.

This will mean fewer damage claims, faster service—increased earnings.

Unprofitable lines no longer a burden

Some freight lines that cannot be run at a profit have been dropped. Other freight lines will be kept running if ConRail is compensated for the difference between revenues and the cost of operation.

The compensation would come from the U.S. Government and states that want to keep the lines operating.

ConRail will continue to operate commuter lines so long as the difference between revenues and costs is made up by local and Federal funds. If no one wants these lines to operate (or is willing to pick up the tab), ConRail can drop the service after 180 days.

Support from the unions

The unions want ConRail to succeed, and have already agreed to more flexibility in assigning employees.

C. J. Chamberlain, Chairman, Railway Labor Executives Association, said, "The interest of the labor brotherhoods and the nation will best be served if ConRail becomes a strong viable company."

"We in labor will do everything we can to help ConRail reach that goal."

Consolidation saves money

We're consolidating many facilities and operations to cut costs. For example, in one city, we have already combined what used to be done by five offices into one office—under one general manager.

In many places, we're classifying cars one time instead of several. More savings.

We're scheduling more efficient train-size lots from original terminals. Still more savings. And the list of savings goes on.

Better service to shippers

From Day One, we've had faster run-through service. For example, we've lopped more than a full day off some shipments from New York to Chicago. (Some runs are already 12 to 15 hours faster.)

We've cut the number of people that shippers have to deal with—from as many as three down to one.

Another source of better service: We've got a huge data processing operation. Five giant computers, 83 high-speed tape drives, 107 on-line disc files.

Which means we can tell a customer, within minutes, exactly where his cars are—at any time. Any day of the week.

Headed for success

You never know what whims the economy might have up its sleeve. But we've got a lot going for us.

Better use of cars, plus other efficiencies, should bring our cost savings to about $300 million by 1980. Basic growth in freight volume should bring us additional revenues of $341.5 million by 1985.

We've got what it takes. The money, the people, and the will.

On that basis, our objective is to start making a profit by 1980.

The best alternative

Many observers agree that if ConRail can't make a go of it, the only alternative will be nationalization.

A bitter pill to swallow, as foreign taxpayers can testify. Taxpayers in some countries pay over $1 billion a year to cover the losses from railroads.

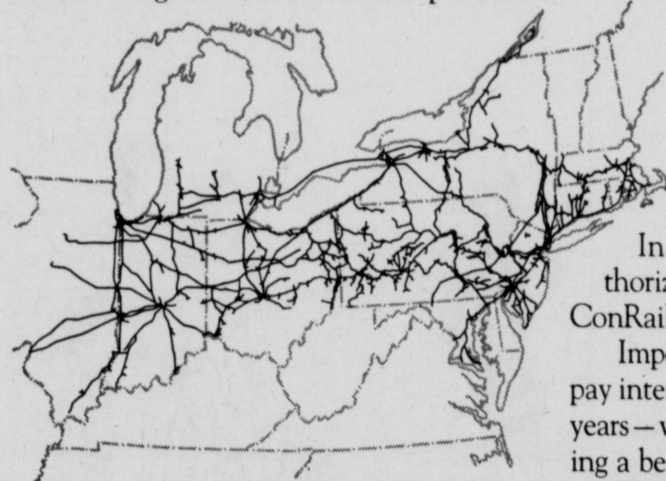

We'll do everything in our power not to let that happen. The last thing in the world America needs is more taxes.

We aren't promising miracles. We can't offset decades of neglect overnight.

But we have got a better way to run a railroad.

ConRail

Consolidated Rail Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.

ConRail blankets sixteen states with 17,000 miles of track.

tracks and operating personnel for passenger trains.)

The $2.1 billion we're getting from the Government (see right) comes as an investment that we are legally obligated to pay back.

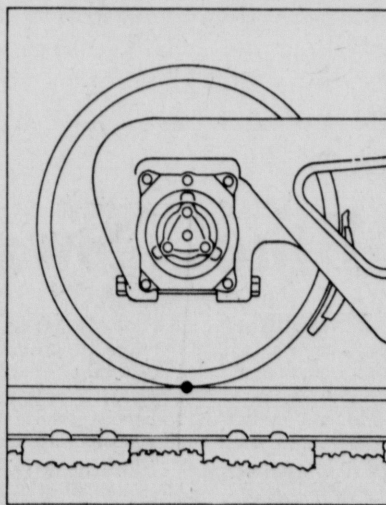

We're in business to improve service and make a profit. But why should we succeed when the six railroads we took over went bankrupt?

Old problems attacked head on

The Penn Central and other bankrupts had to watch roadbeds and equipment deteriorate.

ConRail is often the lowest cost way to move truck trailers between the East Coast and the Midwest.

For heavy freight over long hauls, trains use less energy than any other form of transportation. The reason: low friction. Each wheel rests on an area about the size of a dime.

An Important Conference

On Tuesday night at the Edson School two hours may make a world of difference for countless parents and children in Ulster County. The conference will address itself to the problems of working parents. Many parents work by choice. Others (male and female) have single parenthood thrust upon them by death, divorce, or circumstance. What they all have in common is the need to find adequate, moderately priced supervision for the youngsters while they are at their jobs. These people, working to pay their own way in society, deserve more light on the problems of day care. If you've been looking for a way to fill some idle hours and make a meaningful contribution to your community, attend the conference from 7 to 9 p.m. and see if you can help.

Hazardous Materials

Editor's note: The following letter was sent to the office of Hazardous Materials Operations in Washington by Joel Kobran, chairman of the Environmental Task Force of Ulster County. A copy of the letter is reprinted below.

Section of Dockets
Office of Hazardous Materials Operations
Department of Transportation
Washington, D.C. 20490

Dear Sirs:

The purpose of this letter is to comment on Hazardous Materials Regulations, Notice of Proposed Rule Making (Docket No. HM-134; Notice No. 76-2). The March 3rd issue of the Federal Register in which this appears was first brought to our attention last Friday evening, March 26th. Consequently, in the short time remaining for us to submit our comments, we have been unable to study Titles 14, 46, and 49 of the CFR, and we would appreciate your sending us copies for future reference.

However, at this time we would like to register some objections. The third paragraph begins: "Some of the provisions of the HMTA that more clearly reflect the declared policy accomplish the following," and in this list states: "3. Provide for Federal pre-emption of inconsistent state and local regulations and law." As stated, this is misleading, inasmuch as the part of the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act upon which this is based (Relationship To Other Laws) is mainly concerned with establishing when inconsistent state and local regulations and law are NOT Federally pre-empted: "(b) State Laws.—Any requirement, of a State or local subdivision thereof, which is not consistent with any requirement set forth in this title, or in a regulation issued under this title, is not pre-empted if, upon the application of an appropriate State agency, the Secretary determines, in accordance with procedures to be prescribed by regulation, that such requirement (1) affords an equal or greater level of protection to the public than is afforded by the requirements of this title or of regulations issued under this title and (2) does not unreasonably burden commerce." This is of no small concern to us, as your department intends to continue its court battle against the N.Y.C. Health Department, which has an inconsistent regulation which "affords an equal or greater level of protection to the public." (Regarding the transport of high level radioactive materials); and will no doubt take a like stand against any other community which attempts to implement a stricter regulation than yours, or exclude altogether, for reasons of health and safety, the transport of such materials.

Furthermore, since the proposed rulemaking is based on the HNTA, it is hardly surprising that we are led to express our dissatisfaction with the Act itself. Firstly, we do not think an unreasonable burden on commerce should outweigh the health and safety of a community through which hazardous material is to be transported. The stated purpose of the Act is to "protect the Nation adequately against the risks to life and property which are inherent in the transportation of hazardous materials in commerce," not to protect the interests of industry, etc.

Secondly, we do not think the health and safety of a community are amply considered merely because the Department of Transportation standards are being met. A community should have the right to establish higher standards for themselves and not have them preempted. It is fine for the N.R.C. to tell us their opinion of the probability of a nuclear holocaust from an accident in a nuclear plant; it is quite another that they can compel a community to live with this risk. Similarly, it is one thing for the D.O.T. to tell us the transportation of high level radioactive material, etc. through our community is safe, necessary for commerce, and so on; it is another when we are not permitted to live under our own interpretation of the facts.

Thirdly, we think the D.O.T. should be more interested in the fact that there is no permanent solution to the disposal of high level radioactive wastes. As long as this is so, it makes no sense to permit the transportation of such wastes to a destination where they will be stockpiled to create an increasing hazard.

Fourthly, although the N.R.C. claims there is no regulation prohibiting them from siting a commercial nuclear power plant in a large and densely populated city such as New York City, they have yet to do so. But, the proposed nuclear plant to be built by P.A.S.N.Y. at Cementon, Greene County, will primarily serve the electric demands of New York City. Thus, we can well imagine New York City succeeding in upholding its stricter regulations over the objections of the D.O.T., and then having the burden once again placed on those of us not living in such densely populated areas; i.e., all the high level radioactive materials will be shipped through our smaller communities. We will once again be asked to live with the risks attendant upon those who live near nuclear facilities, and it is not likely we will be able to argue our case as well as New York City can, merely because our communities are not densely populated. And should the Cementon plant be built, in any case high level radioactive materials will have to be transported through or by the smaller N.Y. State communities so that electricity can be generated for New York City.

Finally, we perceive a great threat to the "life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness" of the citizens of The United States of America when the power of the Federal government continues to grow at an alarming rate. Whatever the risks may be in transporting hazardous materials or in siting nuclear power plants, the final decision should be made by those being asked to take these risks, not by a central authority in Washington, D.C.

Respectfully,
JOEL KOBRAN
Chairman

Taxpayer Woes

Dear Editor,
An answer to Mr. Connelly regarding the Probation Department:

Despite the banner waving missive of praise for the merits of selfless dedication (A philosophical question at best); you missed the point!

First, you live in this county and pay taxes as we do.

Second, you live in this state and pay taxes in this state as we do.

Third, both county and state taxes are on the rise.

Are you sincerely saying that you like your tax dollars being spent on double salaries for one job? Certainly you must admit that the average Civil Service Worker is not overpaid. You of all people would know this as your wife works for the department which you so highly praise — a fact you neglected to mention in your letter. The majority of taxpayers, I believe, would like to see our Legislature do away with unnecessary expenditures without cutting out vital services necessary to the county in which we live.

In other words, Mr. Connelly, I believe that the average taxpayer including myself would like to see our tax dollars being spent in our county, to benefit the county and its residents first.

Then, if you feel like being benevolent and philanthropic, you can pay for selfless dedication to mankind out of your pocket — not ours.

Sincerely,
MRS. CARL KUHLMANN

The American Mikado

WASHINGTON - The New York Times reports students and other enthusiasts are failing to volunteer for this year's political campaigns by the thousands. Since the three immediate past presidents are widely seen as a satyromaniac, a megalomaniac and a kleptomaniac this outburst of indifference shouldn't surprise us.

But disillusioned people are vulnerable to manipulation. They still carry the faith within them, as they make clear when they say "if only" we had a candidate who was sincere, honest, courageous or the possessor of any number of other virtuous attributes.

These disillusioned Diogenes are relatively easy to trick. The original model went about with a lamp in the daylight looking for his honest man, meaning either that he claimed unique powers of moral perspicacity for himself or, as was the case, he was demonstrating there was no such person to be found.

'My Man'

Since, even if you could define it, there's no way in the world you can tell whether another person is sincere or unselfish or dedicated to the public interest, the game consists in figuring out what outward manifestation of behavior will sucker embittered idealists into imagining they have found their man. Will it be Gov. Jerry Brown, going home every night to his unfurnished apartment, his bowl of brown rice and his pallet of straw after 8 hours of work serving the people? Will it be Jimmy Peanut testifying that, as he prayed on his knees in the Georgia governor's office as William McKinley once did in the White House, he struck up a personal, even intimate relationship with his savior? Or will it be the thought of Jerry Ford overcoming every physical and mental handicap to attain the dignity and the fatherly judgment that comes to one whose Secret Service retinue is large enough and who appears nightly on the television in a dark suit next to the Great Seal of the Republic?

Jerry Ford has reminded us that praiseworthy character doesn't have much to do with anything in a president. Personal probity in high office gives us the same good feeling we have after we get our teeth cleaned. A madman in the White House might push the red button if his aides let him, but other men, who're adjudged quite sane, offer themselves as candidates and talk about the possibility of doing just that all the time.

We are so impressed by the power of the presidency it doesn't occur to us the office may dominate its occupant. The constant plaint of recent presidents is that they can't get much done, that the huge structures which they administer in law they don't administer in fact, that they are gulled, fooled, tricked, misled and misinformed by their subordinates, that their orders are ignored. In other contexts it's been frequently suggested that presidents gravitate toward the Pentagon because the military is the only chain of command that is the least bit responsive.

Strictly an Illusion

We might ponder how ceremonial and illusionary the office may have become. Is the president more of a good-looking corpse than a chief executive, an American Mikado whose omnipotence is limited by one proviso, that he never use his power? For a president to function as we've been taught to think he does, he would have to stage a sort of coup d'etat against his own government. If we set aside the appalling vision of government that Nixon nourished, we can see that what he was trying to do... function presidentially. In so doing he appeared to us to be a coupist, a man conspiring to sabotage his own government.

If Nixon failed to run the government for evil purposes or, to be fair, what many of us think are evil purposes - what makes us think that another man can run the government for better policies and directions over which he has no control and only marginal influence.

The failure of so many politicians to keep so many campaign promises can't be owing only to their rascality. There's no reason to think our generation of politicians are more corrupt and dishonest than they were in Grant's administration 100 years ago. If the crimes are bigger today, it's because the government's bigger. But the most troublesome figure isn't the crooked politician, it's the honest ones, the men and women elected to office who could not keep their promises, who failed.

They offer the best reason for not volunteering, not contributing money, not voting. When honest, energetic and intelligent people can't do the job, perhaps the fault is with the job. Then the wisest course is to stop electing people to these offices, to stop telling each other if only we could find the political equivalent of Jesus he'd pass a miracle and make the damn thing work. Apathy, laziness and disillusionment aren't the only reasons for refusing to vote. In certain circumstances abstention can be a powerful political statement much more powerful than participation.

Golden Age of Amtrak

WASHINGTON — The golden age of railroads is not yet over for the corporate moguls who run Amtrak. The evidence can be found in their expense accounts.

Congress established Amtrak in 1971 to manage the nation's passenger rail system. The original intent was to subsidize Amtrak for only five years. Thereafter, Amtrak was expected to break even.

At the end of the fifth year, however, the railroad is still deep in the red. Last year's loss was a painful $352 million. And just last week, Amtrak executives trekked up to Capitol Hill to ask for another $633 million subsidy.

Yet this staggering deficit, apparently, has had no restraining effect on the railroad bosses. They continue to squander the taxpayers' subsidies with reckless abandon.

They pamper themselves outrageously, using Amtrak funds to subsidize their lavish living habits. Here are the details from their expense vouchers: Amtrak's president, Paul H. Reistrup, draws an annual $85,000 salary. The 11 vice presidents are also paid an adequate $50,000 a year on the average. This ought to be enough for them to struggle along on.

Yet the railroad has just provided them with brand-new automobiles. Their business expenses hit $49,000 last year, most of it for food and liquor. Reistrup spent $576.12 in September, for example, on candles, flowers, food and booze for a staff party.

In fact, Amtrak sometimes picks up the tab when its executives simply go out for cocktails. A corporate vice president, Calvin Andringa, took Reistrup to a favorite pub. Another time, Andringa invited the vice chairman, Mary Mead, out for drinks. The bills were charged to Amtrak which pays them, of course, with taxpayers' money.

From the same bounteous source, the railroad also pays Reistrup's membership dues at various elegant clubs, including the Army-Navy Country Club and downtown Army-Navy Club in the Washington area and the Athletic Club in Chicago.

Last year, Amtrak shelled out $600 so that a vice president, Harold Graham, could belong to the posh Kenwood Country Club in the Washington suburbs.

Amtrak is trying to persuade the public to ride the rails, but its executives don't always heed their own advertising. Last year, the company laid out a startling $612,574 for air travel, even though its executives are entitled to ride the rails free of charge.

The general counsel, Nathaniel Goodrich, flew between Washington and New York, Washington and Pittsburgh, New York and Boston — which have excellent Amtrak service. A vice president, David Watts, also shuttled between Washington and New York by plane. We found vouchers, charging for first-class air fare from Washington to Norfolk, Va.

The wining and dining of government officials is a major industry in Washington. According to the vouchers, few favor-seekers entertain more generously than do the Amtrak crowd.

One vice president, Bruce Pike, turned in an expense account of $6,550.50 last year for entertaining Washington bigwigs. The names of his guests aren't listed, only the charges. Amtrak concedes that his "effectiveness would be impeded" if he disclosed the names of the federal officials he wines and dines.

The expense vouchers reveal, however, that Reistrup threw a brunch last December. Among the prominent guests was Federal Railroad Administration's chief, Asaph Hall, who helps decide how much government money Amtrak will get. Reistrup's invitation list also contains the names of two Congressmen, Silvio Conte, R-Mass., and Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who have an influential voice in transportation matters. Rooney said he didn't go; Conte didn't return our calls.

We found other names on Amtrak's expense accounts, including Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., Deputy Transportation Secretary John Barnum and Interstate Commerce Commissioner Charles Clapp.

The vouchers of Amtrak vice president Edwin Edel indicate that he entertained White House aide Russ Rourke on three separate occasions. Once, Edel ran up a $100 bill at the Annapolis Yacht Club supposedly entertaining Rourke, his wife and an Iranian diplomat.

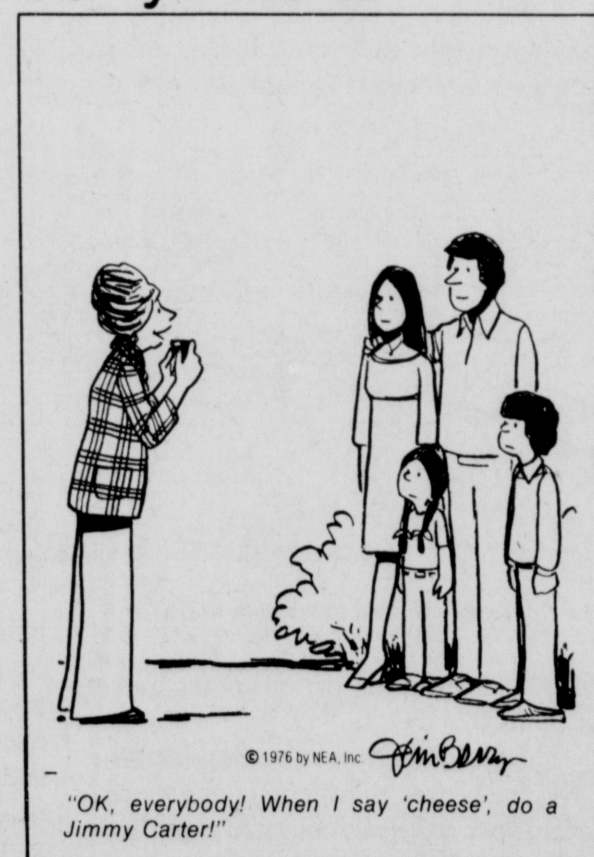

Yet the White House aide told us he never got any of the free entertainment. Edel blames his sloppy record-keeping for the erroneous vouchers, saying Rourke was invited but canceled out.

Last year, a group of congressional aides inspected Amtrak's operations. The railroad served them free dinner and cocktails. These favors for Washington bigwigs have been small — nothing so gross that the officials could be accused of being bribed.

It is the accumulation, rather than any single gift, that gradually obligates them.

Footnote: Amtrak officials, to their credit, cooperated with our investigation. A spokesman said the club memberships are given only to executives who need them for official entertaining. The expenditures for food, liquor and entertainment, the spokesman said, helped to increase communication. Reistrup paid one-third of the cost of his brunch out of his own pocket. The spokesman also said that Amtrak officials fly only when absolutely necessary.

Black Swans of the Classroom

The black swans of the classroom. They had neither feet nor legs. They floated silently, peering at students from behind white corrugations. The voices were clinical in detachment. Teaching nuns.

They were unpaid, bodiless creatures who mortgaged their souls in the task of taking heathens such as we and transmuting us into Christian gentlemen and ladies. They worked in miracles. I attended a Catholic primary school. It was a lesson in surviving fright. The teacher never had time to reserve love or compassion. The one she reserved for God, the second for the poor and the weak.

She was a cattle drover; a teacher; a judge; a passport to knowledge; the silent, lonely heart; the executioner. She seldom used a ruler to measure anything except the distance between a long overhand swing and a student's hand.

The difference between all of them was subtle. One was tall - like Agatha. Another was small, like Maria Alacoue. One was stout and red of face, like Alice Joseph. One was stately, like Helen Dolores. What they had in common was merciless devotion to teaching.

In a retrospect I suggest that 30 per cent of the time was given to discipline; 70 per cent to studies. There were no hoodlums nor disorderly persons in class, because the slightest sound or movement other than a cough courted a bird-like attention, which presaged minor mayhem.

The youngest students were taught to be clean and composed. For the girls, this meant hair combed and ribboned, a starched dress or a skirt and blouse. For the boys it meant a jacket, shirt and tie.

We were given lined pads and pens. We made endless circular tunnels on even lines. We executed slanted upright strokes. This was done to insure legible handwriting. It endured endlessly. We hated every moment of it.

There was no appeal. To be admonished, to be whacked with ruler or pointer was considered a matter of justice. Sometimes we ran home weeping.

There were two kinds of parents. Those who listened to the story and spanked the child for disobedience. And those who hurried to the teacher to complain. Sister Rose Patricia would explain the relationship between the laying on of hands and successful life to come. If that didn't work, she advised the parents to transfer the child to another school.

It became apparent in the third grade that there was nothing on earth powerful enough to stop the nuns from jamming lessons into our heads. We were going to learn to write legibly. We were going to learn to add and subtract small sums. We were going to learn to spell. We were going to understand that George Washington, with a rag-tag army of undernourished farmers, did indeed accept the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. We were given to understand that, no matter how we turned in the class aisle, Canada was north, Mexico south, Europe to the east and Asia to the west.

All they cared about were the fundamentals. We were taught our prayers, our religion, about sin, tolerance for others, and punishment. We were doomed if we did this, touched that, stole a trinket, or disobeyed our parents. It was a non-win situation lasting eight years.

The black swans expected, when they dumped us out in the direction of the nearest high school, that we would lead our classes. We were their blotters. They had broken their lives and their hearts on us, and our future as physicians and attorneys and engineers occasioned no surprise.

And yet, in a shy way, we became their men and women. Later in life, some returned to class reunions to say hello. In the interim, the nuns became smaller, diffident, murmuring, "Oh, my, oh, my," when they saw the student's children.

They were always sure of their reward. It was at the end of a long road of faith. They believed when the rest of us were doubting. And if they feared for our safety, they prayed for us and didn't mention it.

I grew up to love one. God knows - and He may be the only one - how old she is. She is Sister Maria Alacoue. She taught me in the third grade. A note arrived from her yesterday. She and seven others were astounded that I had a career, a calling. "Jim," she writes, "do keep up the good work. I love your writings on Big John. He was wonderful."

Forget the religious aspects. By God, they were teachers...

Ford's Popularity on Uptrend Since Dec. '75

By George Gallup
PRINCETON, N.J. — President Ford's job performance rating has increased to 50 per cent approval in the latest nationwide survey and is 11 points higher than his rating in December.

The uptrend in the President's approval score has coincided with growing public optimism regarding the economy. A recent nationwide survey shows 49 per cent of the public believing the economic situation will improve during the next six months, compared to 28 per cent who think it will worsen. These findings represent a nearly complete reversal of economic expectations since a survey conducted last fall.

In the December popularity measurement, a greater proportion disapproved (46 per cent) than approved (39 per cent). That approval figure was only two points above the President's low point to date — 37 per cent approval, recorded in January and March 1975.

In subsequent surveys in January of the current year, however, the weight of opinion shifted to the approval side. Here is the question asked since Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration to measure presidential popularity: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Here is the recent trend in Ford's popularity:

Solar Mirrors for Oil . . a Cooperative Venture

It's no secret that, to me, our vying with the Russians in mastering space flights has been an unholy waste. The hypothesis on which I based this reaction was, it was a military-inspired undertaking, disguised as a good fun competition in science to make the billions upon billions it cost more palatable to us voters.

Well, it was Darwin who said — and I once took for my motto — "I shall steadily endeavor to give up any hypothesis, however much beloved, once facts are shown to be opposed to it." And now I've come on the writings of one Gerald K. O'Neill, qualified as professor of physics at Princeton University who, making his case for the generation of energy in space, states it was fact that mirrors, orbiting to concentrate 24 hours a day of sunlight on thermal generators whatever they are) can transmit the energy they produce straight down to us on Earth, in the form of microwaves which can be converted economically to electricity.

What makes all this impressive is Professor O'Neill's calmly put statement that no new technology is needed to accomplish this miracle — which could provide the whole spinning world with enough pollution-free energy to fulfill all its needs — for as long as we and our mirror satellites orbit the Sun itself. So maybe a Darwinian advised re-thinking on the usefulness of space exploration is in order.

What dampens the sudden rush of optimism to the head about O'Neill's dizzying prospects is the scale of the effort involved in their accomplishment. It is so obviously of such magnitude that it would take not a whole country's — even ours or Russia's — but the whole civilized world's cooperation. If we are in grim short supply of energy, it seems right now that our shortage of freedom of thought and cooperation of effort to use it benignly is in even shorter. The more obvious the need, the less it seems to impress those whose understanding of it is the most vital. But if it is truly true that the energy from the sun can be concentrated by orbiting satellites — like those already in practical use in our communicating system — and transmitted by microwave, maybe — just maybe — as the inevitable energy crunch becomes even more obvious than it is, the human race will come to see that only cooperation can insure its survival.

Ron's Reviving Strength

The last radio news I caught before they hauled me off to the operating room for some minor surgery was that Ronald Reagan had won the Republican primary in North Carolina by a 52-46 per cent margin. It was a buoyant thought: The nice guy of the New Hampshire primary, who had let his opponent distort his stand on Social Security, had finally taken the gloves off and reversed what might have become a dangerous trend.

The vote caught the more careless and the better-known "experts" flat-footed. But it was not unforeseen: The day before the primary I talked with Tom Winter, the editor of the conservative Washington weekly Human Events. Tom, who knows a hawk from a handsaw, said he was extremely hopeful for Reagan in North Carolina.

Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser, who headed the Ford Committee, had taken it a bit easy. But Republican U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms had worked like a whole team of dogs for Reagan. Finding a great discrepancy between the words and deeds of the Ford Administration in foreign and military policy at a time when the Communists are threatening to dominate the entire continent of Africa, Reagan got himself what looks to become a really significant issue.

Reagan, distinctly, is not through. North Carolina proved that he has the "Southern strategy" working for him. Ostensibly this strategy failed him in Florida, but Florida has its "Northern" element, the old people, refugees from Michigan and Ohio winters who get nervous whenever Social Security is mentioned, even by critics whose aim is to save a faltering system from inflation and bankruptcy.

Speaker Needed

If Reagan had had a Sen. Helms in his corner in Florida to keep pointing out the fact that Castro, with a Soviet submarine base at his disposal and armies to throw about the world, was only 90 miles distant from Key West, Ford might not have drawn first blood in what the chic sociologists are now calling the Southern Rimland, which is the fastest growing section of the country. What is truly noteworthy is that North Carolina is a solid part of the Rimland that stretches from Norfolk, Va., all the way around to the Santa Clara region of California.

Reagan doesn't stand to do brilliantly in Wisconsin (though he may surprise some people there in a state that permits primary crossovers), and he is up against it in Nelson Rockefeller's home state of New York. But the big showdowns will come in Texas and in California, with their huge blocs of delegates and electoral votes. Then there are the smaller caucus states of the South and the Southwest.

Ford may squeak through, but he will have to do better than make a few speeches telling the country the U.S. is not really Number Two in military preparedness. The obvious truth is that we have slipped to Number Two insofar as an ability to wage conventional war is concerned. And it is this kind of war that counts in a world that is too fearful of atomic warfare to allow it to become unleashed.

Missing Policy

Ford is bound to have trouble in Texas because he hasn't been able to deliver an oil and gas policy that would make it profitable for drillers to go to work. On top of that, the whole of the Southern Rimland is more defense-minded than the Northeast and the Middle West. Finally, as Lee Edwards has pointed out in a recent issue of The Right Report, Texas' John Connally, though he has not endorsed Reagan, has been attacking Sen. John Tower for suggesting that Reagan should drop out of the race in the interests of Republican "harmony."

If Reagan stops, said Connally, "it will cast a pall on Republicans and all you'll hear for the next four months before the party conventions will be Democrats." If the "real peace through real strength" theme served Reagan so well in North Carolina, why doesn't Gov. George Wallace pick up the issue for himself in his future encounters with Jimmy Carter?

Carter was in Adm. Hyman Rickover's early atomic submarine program, but he seems ashamed to mention his naval career, probably fearing that he might estrange the McGovernites to his left in the Democratic Party.

Why doesn't Wallace ask Carter to come clean on his proposals, if any, for keeping America strong enough to force Castro's foreign legion to return home? If foreign and military policies are to be determining factors in the campaign, the medicine that revived Reagan might revive Wallace as well.

Cricket Cracks Conference

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Efforts by the newly independent English-speaking Caribbean nations to meet the world as a unified bloc have shattered on the shoals of Cuban intervention in Angola and policy toward African white supremacy governments.

A recent Commonwealth Caribbean summit conference in Port of Spain broke up in rancor after the heads of government could find no meeting of the minds on the foreign questions which currently carry the most emotional dynamite in the region.

The specific questions on the agenda were assistance to Mozambique to help weather the economic jolt of closing its borders with white-ruled Rhodesia; recognition of the Marxist government of Angola, and whether Commonwealth Caribbean citizens should be allowed to participate in sports in South Africa.

Observers said Jamaica and Guyana were pitted against Trinidad and Barbados, a brand-new alignment for the "big four" nations of the Caribbean Community and Common Market (Caroco), a two-year-old territorial pact which calls for a common foreign policy, among other unifying measures.

Jamaica and Guyana, which have already recognized the Soviet and Cuban supported government of Angola, declined to discuss the questions of aid to Mozambique and sports participation in South Africa as separate matters.

Jamaican Prime Minister Michael Manley and Guyana Prime Minister Forbes

Burnham insisted those topics must be included in an overall discussion of policy toward Africa, including recognition by Barbados and Trinidad of the Angola government.

Trinidad Prime Minister Eric Williams balked, declining to deviate from his government's policy of withholding recognition of any new government until it is recognized by the United Nations.

Williams and his Barbados counterpart, Errol Barrow, had both refused Cuba permission to use their territory to refuel planes carrying troops to Angola, although the Barbados government discovered what Cuba was up to only after a number of airlift planes already had refueled there over a period of several weeks.

Both nations based their refusal on their policies of neutrality among the various factions battling in Angola.

The Guyana government has denied that it has permitted Cuban troop planes to refuel there, but Burnham has said publicly that if Cuba asked for such permission, he would be sympathetic with the request.

Manley has also expressed sympathy for Cuban help to the Communist-backed faction in the Angola civil war.

These differences within the bloc were well known, but what surprised observers was that the heads of government allowed them to interfere with their traditional unity on the Mozambique question.

There has always been consensus among the leaders of the four nations that financial and material help must be given Mozambique to encourage it to cut off Rhodesia's trading routes with the outside world and help bring down the Ian Smith government. The Caribbean bloc led the successful campaign at last year's Commonwealth summit conference in Jamaica to get the entire 34-nation Commonwealth committed to the Mozambique aid policy.

But, observers said, the Mozambique question apparently was tainted with a bitterness which can only be aroused when it comes to sports, and particularly cricket.

A Barbados cricketer recently was refused permission to play in Guyana because he had played in South Africa. The Barbados team backed their player and went home, and the Barbados government backed the team.

The Commonwealth Caribbean had agreed some time ago to boycott sports events in South Africa and those in which South Africa participated. But the Barbados government took the position that the cricketer involved played there on his own behalf, not as a representative of Barbados, and that it would be an undue violation of his civil rights to bar him from playiong in the Caribbean. Jamaica backed the Guyana position that boycotts with exceptions are no boycotts at all.

In the final analysis, it was cricket, observers said, that sent the Commonwealth Caribbean heads of government storming home from the meeting and dealt a new blow to the region's march toward unity.

Ray Wants New Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—James Earl Ray flashed a trace of a smile when he was asked the question through the bars of a dark cell barely large enough to hold his slender frame.

Why was he willing to risk the electric chair in a new trial rather than hope for an early parole?

"You've never been in prison, have you?" replied the man serving a 99-year sentence for the 1968 sniper slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

If Ray merely serves out his term, he will be eligible for parole 22 years from now. His sentence officially is scheduled to end April 29, 1979.

Ray receives no special treatment in Tennessee State Penitentiary. He spends his days working in the laundry or lying silently in his dingy cell with his face toward the wall.

According to Memphis attorney Robert Livingston, Ray may be the target of violence from others secretly responsible for King's assassination. "I think he's in some danger," Livingston said recently. "Ray spoke up (about a conspiracy) in 1969, but they all chose to ignore him."

King was shot by a sniper as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis motel eight years ago. Ray originally pleaded guilty to the crime with the understanding he would escape the electric chair by doing so.

Now he claims lawyer Percy Foreman coerced him into the plea and that he did not pull the trigger on the rifle said to have been the murder weapon. Ray consistently has refused to talk with reporters. But one recent day he reluctantly interrupted a nap to discuss an upcoming ruling by Cincinnati's 6th Circuit Court of Appeals that could allow him to stand trial.

HSA Meet At UCCC

STONE RIDGE—There will be a meeting of the Hudson Valley Health Services Agency, Sub-Area Council, at 7 tonight in the Quimby Auditorium in John Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The public is invited to attend this meeting where officers will be elected and proposed by-laws will be discussed.

The council's membership is composed of consumers and provider of health services.

The council's temporary chairman is Robert T. Brown, president of UCCC, who is first vice-president of the 30-member Hudson Valley Health Systems Agency.

Seniors Screening

KINGSTON—There will be a senior citizens screening and counseling session for residents of Broadway East and Rondout Gardens Apartments and the surrounding Rondout and Ponkhockie neighborhoods Tuesday.

The session, from 9 to noon, will be sponsored by the Ulster County Health Department at the Rondout Gardens Administration Building.

Screening tests offered for senior citizens will be blood pressure, hemoglobin, and urine. Those coming for tests are requested to bring a urine specimen with them.

Rep. Fish Was There

WASHINGTON—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., R-25th Dist. was present and voting at 95.6 per cent of all recorded votes in the House of Representatives in 1975, it was announced recently.

The Millbrook lawmaker, who spends nearly every weekend in his congressional district is ranked among the high-attendance representatives.

BEING the same premises conveyed to Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, the parties of the first part hereto, by Charles Muller and Adele Muller, by deed bearing date September 23, 1947 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on September 9, 1949 in Book No. 743 of Deeds at page 453.

Parcel II above described ajoin's Parcel I on the north-easterly corner and together they form one parcel of land. The seventh course of Parcel I above described as 590.78 feet is the same as the fourth course of Parcel II and is described in Parcel II as 589.96 feet. The difference in the measurement appears to arise by reason of an error in one of the surveys. The difference in bearings arises from the fact that the descriptions are taken from different surveys.

Parcel I above described is shown on a survey and map made by Boyd F. Allen, dated June 1956, as revised July 15, 1957, entitled "Herman Karl Knaust, Saugerties, Ulster County, New York", which map is herewith filed, and Parcels I and II are shown on a composite map entitled, "Map of 'Stroomzeil', Herman & Catherine Knaust (formerly J.G.M. Hilton), Saugerties, N.Y.", which map is herewith filed.

SUBJECT, however, to the rights granted to Charles Muller to the use of the aforementioned 20 foot road described in Parcel I and as set forth in a deed given by Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, to Charles Muller, bearing date September 23, 1947 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office October 4, 1949 in Book No. 746 of Deeds at page 88.

RESERVING, however, to the parties of the first part, their heirs and assigns, the right to use the 20 foot road described in Parcel I for all purposes of ingress and egress to and from the premises of the first part, including the right to use the same for the installation of utility services.

BEING the same premises conveyed by Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, to Herman Karl Knaust and Elizabeth L. Knaust, his wife by deed dated July 22, 1957 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on July 26, 1957 in Book 1007 of Deeds at page 596.

A Surprise For Everyone Except Catfish

By UPI

Jim Hunter, the New York Yankees' $2.8-million pitcher, looks ready to "go long" despite the short training season.

Hunter surprised just about everybody except himself Sunday when he allowed one run and six hits in seven innings as the Yankees bombed Jim Palmer and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 9-3.

He is slated to pitch the Yankees' opening game of the American League season on April 8 and is physically able to pitch nine innings despite the shortened training program created by the dispute between the clubowners and the Major League Players Association.

"There's really no secret about it," Hunter said Sunday revealing his secret. "I worked out at home for the first time in my career. Usually I don't pick up a ball between the end of one season and the start of spring training."

"But," he went on, "this spring was something different. I knew I'd have to do something on my own if I was to be ready for the opener."

Hunter, who had a 23-14 record in the first year of his record five-year contract with the Yankees last season, walked none and struck out four. Both he and the Yankees were most pleased with the pinpoint control—the key to his pitching success—which he displayed.

The Orioles weren't unduly concerned with the poor effort by 23-game winner Palmer, who was tagged for 14 hits and seven runs in six innings, because he pitched with a knot in his side.

"I was willing to take him out at any time," said Manager Earl Weaver. "But we weren't worried about the fact he was being hit. We just wanted him to get in his pitching time and he did."

Mickey Rivers, the former California Angel who is enjoying a fine spring, led the Yankees with four hits and a sacrifice fly while Roy White, Oscar Gamble, Ron Blomberg, Willie Randolph and Jim Mason had two hits each.

On other fronts:

Nolan Ryan struck out eight batters in six innings, allowing five hits and three runs in the Angels' 3-3 tie with the Los Angeles Dodgers. Tommy John, attempting a comeback with the Dodgers, allowed one run and five hits in six innings. John Mayberry and Fran Healy had three hits each as the Kansas City Royals whipped the Atlanta Braves 8-3.

Denny Doyle's two-run single in the seventh inning snapped a 5-5 tie and led the Boston Red Sox to an 11-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Deron Johnson and Fred Lynn hit two-run homers for the Red Sox. Bobby Tolan, Mike Schmidt and Garry Maddox each hit a two-run homer for the Philadelphia Phillies in a 15-9 triumph over the Detroit Tigers. J.R. Richard, Jose Sosa and Ken Forsch combined in a two-hitter as the Houston Astros beat the Minnesota Twins 3-0.

Buddy Bradford and Bob Coluccio homered and Jorge Orta had a two-run double in the Chicago White Sox' 16-1 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals. Del Unser and Joe Torre had three hits each to lead the New York Mets to a 10-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The San Diego Padres pounded out 16 hits in defeating the Chicago Cubs 13-3. Gary Matthews and Von Joshua hit two-run homers as the San Francisco Giants beat the Oakland A's 5-3, despite homers by Joe Rudi and Billy Williams. Nate Colbert hit a two-run homer and Pepe Mangual a three-run shot pacing the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 win over the Texas Rangers.

Lee Trevino (L) congratulates Al Geiberger

Al Nearly Forgot He Was Ahead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — With Lee Trevino making a furious charge and the gallery cheering him on, Al Geiberger felt like he was trailing when "Super Mex" pulled within one stroke at the 14th hole in the Greater Greensboro Open's final round.

"I had to talk to myself then and say, 'Hey, you're the leader, you're one stroke ahead, settle down,'" said Geiberger.

The tactic worked. On No. 16, the former PGA champion hit a two iron shot to within five feet and sank the putt for a birdie two. Trevino carded a par and that clinched it as both had pars on their last two holes.

Geiberger finished the final round with a three-under-par 68 and ended the tournament $46,000 richer, compliments of his 72-hole total of 268, 16 under par on the 6,643-yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course.

Trevino, who has won 18 tournaments and more than a million dollars in golf, was two strokes back at 270. He finished with a six-under-par 65.

"Lee really put a round to me," said Geiberger, who was playing in the same threesome as Trevino. "He just kept doing it hole after hole."

"I was surprised I held up as well as I did," he said.

Geiberger, who won the PGA championship in 1966 and pushed his career tournament victory total to eight with a couple of victories last season, said he did not play as well Sunday as he did Saturday when he carded his second straight 65. The reason was obvious.

"I was not as loose as I was then," he said. "You tell yourself not to look at the other guy, but when you're right there with him, how can you help it?"

Geiberger, a 38-year-old Californian, also overcame a gallery that seemed strongly in favor of Trevino.

"When they cheered my bogey at No. 8, I knew I was in trouble," he joked. "Lee's fans were loud. I'm sure I have fans out there, but they were quiet ones."

Veteran Miller Barber, a million-dollar winner who celebrated his 45th birthday Wednesday, finished alone in third place after a birdie on 18 gave him a final round 67 and a total of 271, 10 under par.

Reigning U.S. Open champion Lou Graham shot a final round 69 to finish in a tie with George Burns for fourth place at 273. Burns shot a 66 in Sunday's round. Tom Weiskopf, who won the 1975 GGO with Geiberger as runnerup, joined Bob Menne and Eddie Pearce at 274. Weiskopf and Menne had final 69s while Pearce wound up with a 65.

Dave Stockton was alone at 275 after a 68. At 276 were Gene Littler, Victor Regalado, Ron Cerrudo, Stan Lee, Mark Hayes and Mike Hill. Hill had begun the final round in a tie with Barber for runnerup at nine-under-par, but slumped out of contention with a 72.

Geiberger said his iron shot on 16 that set up a birdie was "probably my shot of the tournament," considering the way Trevino was pressing. But his round included some other shining birdies.

He had five birdies and two bogeys in the round. Trevino had five birdies and an eagle against one bogey.

A Proud Moment For Judy Rankin

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — "My son," Judy Rankin said, "used to say that Sandra Haynie was the greatest player in the world and maybe I was next. We'll see what he says now."

Tuey Rankin, 7, was back home at Midland, Tex., Sunday and missed the proudest moment of his mommy's distinguished golfing career.

The former Judy Torluemke walked off with the LPGA's biggest prize—$32,000 and a new car—by rallying from three shots off the pace to win the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Colgate Winners Circle Tournament.

After it was over, Mrs. Rankin nearly broke into tears.

"It really got to me as I was walking off the course," she said. "I guess I cry at happy things sometimes and this was the biggest win of my life. I've been working at golf for 25 years and this was a terrific day."

In her 17th year on the pro golf trail, Mrs. Rankin notched her 17th career win and second of the year to vault to the top of the 1976 LPGA money list with $42,891.

She turned in a four-under-par 68 on a cold and blustery day in the desert and finished three shots ahead of runnerup Betty Burfeindt, who earned $21,000.

In a sport where most of her competition is single, Mrs. Rankin has been able to combine golf and motherhood. Her husband, Walter, who was on hand to see her premier victory, is in the insurance business. Tuey Rankin is their only child.

"It's not always easy being both," she admitted. "But I sort of look at things in a certain order. My family is my forever. That's not to say I don't love what I'm doing and I want to keep doing it."

"But my husband and son are my forever thing. Golf is my work."

The Rankins took their son out of school to accompany them to the first four tour events this year.

"Traveling is the biggest problem, of course," Mrs. Rankin said. "It wasn't a problem until my son got into school, but it will be a problem from now on."

"I'll just have to skip a few tournaments and Tuey will have to miss a little school. I missed him this week, though. I called him every night on the phone."

Mrs. Rankin said she feels marriage has made her a better player and the statistics back her up. Fifteen of her wins have been recorded since 1970.

"My life is difficult at times," she explained. "But it's more settled this way. I feel my life has a plan. It's decided. When you're young and single, you worry about what you're going to do that evening. I don't worry."

The LPGA trail now is idle until the $80,000 Karsten-King Open at Phoenix, Ariz., April 15-17. A new $200,000 tournament to be played at Calabasas Park Country Club near Los Angeles Sept. 23-26 will be announced at New York today.

Andy Is Shopping

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Andy Messersmith, who may wind up a pitcher without a team when the baseball season opens this week, is currently talking with the San Diego Padres, California Angels and a third unnamed club, but he would most like to hear from a fourth, his agent indicated Sunday.

"We wouldn't mind hearing from Peter O'Malley (Dodger president)," Herb Osmond said in an interview. "The Dodgers would like me to contact them but I haven't done that. We're waiting to hear from them."

"We've had good talks with other teams. Everything is still open."

Messersmith, a 30-year-old righthander who is one of the few pitchers to boast 20-win seasons in both the American and National Leagues while playing with the Angels and Dodgers, was declared a free agent last Dec. 23.

He returned to his Newport Beach home this weekend following a near contract signing with the New York Yankees in an affair that turned into an embarrassment for both New York and Messersmith.

"Andy is back to his one-man spring training camp at home," Osmond said. "He's glad to be free from the New York situation. He'll just be happy when he gets signed with a team."

The agent confirmed he had been in contact with Padres' President E.J. "Buzzie" Bavasi during the weekend, as well as the California Angels.

"I had a call from Osmond today and we discussed terms," said California General Manager Harry Dalton. "But there was nothing really definite. I hope to hear from Osmond again Monday."

In a taped interview on ABC's World of Sports, Bavasi said the Padres were prepared to offer Messersmith "a better deal than anyone in the majors" but would only do so after the all-star pitcher passes a physical examination.

The concern about Messersmith's health apparently stemmed from a report from two scouts, acting independently, who reported to their employers that Messersmith's arm may not be sound.

"There is absolutely no basis in fact for that story," Osmond said. "The last time anybody saw Andy pitch was on Sept. 26, 1975 when he gave up one unearned run and that's where it stands now."

"For someone to say now there is suspicion about the soundness of his arm, one has to suspect that the story was planted. We're trying to run down the sources of that report now. Andy himself says 'there's not a person alive who can say there is something wrong with my arm.'"

Lafleur Returns Ross Trophy to Montreal

By UPI

In 1961, Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion scored 50 goals for the only time in his life and added 45 assists to win the only Art Ross scoring title of his career.

After a 15-year lapse, another member of the high-scoring Montreal Canadiens has won the National Hockey League scoring crown—but it took him a few more points.

Guy Lafleur brought the Art Ross Trophy back to Montreal Sunday when he scored one goal and one assist to boost his season total to 125 points and win the scoring title by six points over Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia.

Lafleur, who is gradually breaking all the club scoring records set by fellow right wings Geoffrion and Maurice "Rocket" Richard, provided the game winning goal in a 4-3 victory over the Washington Capitals when he scored 24 seconds after Yvon Lambert tied the game with 2:17 remaining.

Not only did Lafleur's goal win the game for Montreal, it gave the Canadiens an NHL record 58 victories for the season and, correspondingly, a league record 127 points.

The 127 points assures Montreal the ultimate home ice advantage in the playoffs.

But Montreal will join Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago in taking a week's vacation before beginning the playoffs—a reward for winning their respective divisions. Chicago was the last of the four to clinch its title, beating St. Louis 7-2 Sunday to win the Smythe Division by one point over Vancouver.

In other games, the New York Rangers blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Vancouver downed Kansas City 5-2, Buffalo defeated Toronto 5-2, Pittsburgh nipped Detroit 6-5, Atlanta clipped the New York Islanders 5-2, Boston tied Minnesota 2-2 and California topped Los Angeles 5-2.

The eight other postseason qualifiers will open Stanley Cup play Tuesday night in best-of-three series, being paired by order of points: the most versus the least, second most versus second least and so on.

St. Louis will play at Buffalo, Vancouver will travel to the New York Islanders, Atlanta will be at Los Angeles and Pittsburgh will journey to Toronto.

If a third game is needed in a series, it will be played either Friday or Saturday, depending on the amount of travel time needed by the two paired teams. Two of the series involve coast-to-coast travel, New York-Vancouver and Atlanta-Los Angeles.

The survivors of those encounters plus the four division winners will comprise the quarterfinal round with the pairings again being based on total points.

In the World Hockey Association, Quebec beat Toronto 5-4, Cleveland dropped Cincinnati 6-3, Indianapolis dumped New England 4-2, Houston tripped San Diego 5-2 and Edmonton belted Winnipeg 5-2.

A Mellow Ending For Lowly Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers Sunday finished the season-long celebration of their 50th anniversary—and it was anything but golden.

It was hollow—an empty feeling from an empty season. The Rangers, for the first time in 10 years, failed to qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs, thus ending the longest active string of Cup appearances by any National Hockey League team.

Sunday's wrap-up was a mellow 2-0 victory over the defending Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, who used two goaltenders and every possible line combination in what appeared as much a casual skate as a season finale.

Despite the victory, the Rangers finished in last place of the Patrick Division, 51 points back of Philadelphia. The 29 victories marked the first time since the 1965-66 season New York has won less than 30 games.

The 333 goals this year were the most the Rangers have ever given up and the 262 goals scored were their lowest total since 1970-71.

"I guess if you wanted some consolation for the season, today's game wasn't bad," said New York goaltender John Davidson, who kicked out 38 shots, including 20 in the second period, to record his third shutout of the year.

"But that's all the game was—a small consolation."

The dismal play by the Rangers this season insured another anniversary that the New York team would just as soon forget: it has been 37 seasons since the Rangers last won the Stanley Cup, the longest span of futility by any team.

"A game like this won't affect my plans any," said New York General Manager-Coach John Ferguson, refusing to be snowed into believing he can actually go somewhere next season with the same team.

"I know what I need to win hockey games. It's not a lack of talent. We need a little extra ingredient. Philadelphia, for one, has that ingredient."

insure Kansas City its NHL record 27th consecutive game without a victory. The Scouts won just one game in 1976.

Sabres 5, Maple Leafs 2

Danny Gare scored the hat trick to reach the 50-goal plateau while Buffalo team mate Richard Martin, who was shooting for his third consecutive 50-goal season, was frustrated by Toronto and finished with 49.

Penguins 5, Red Wings 4

Flames 5, Islanders 2

The line of Tom Lysiak, Curt Bennett and Hilliard Graves scored three goals to lift Atlanta past the Islanders and snap a string of four straight ties between the two teams.

Bruins 2, North Stars 2

Ken Hodge's goal at 6:52 of the third period capped a two-goal rally and provided Boston the third best record in the league with 113 points.

Black Hawks 7, Blues 2

Golden Seals 5, Kings 2

Rookie Dennis Maruk scored his 29th and 30th goals of the year to give California its 27th victory of the season, the Seals most since 1969-70.

WHA

Marc Tardif scored his 70th goal as Quebec eliminated Toronto from the playoffs. Jim Harrison scored two goals as Cleveland secured a playoff spot for itself by eliminating Cincinnati. Don Larway scored his 30th to lead Houston past San Diego. Michel Parizeau provided the game-winner as Indianapolis downed New England. Edmonton scored three second period goals after Coach Bill Hunter was ejected to dump Winnipeg.

Making Plans

What goalie John Garrett and defenseman Jim Turkiewicz of the Toronto Toros are saying to each other during the WHA game is unknown, but since their 5-4 loss to the Quebec Nordiques wiped out the Toros playoff hopes, perhaps they are making plans for their summer vacation that will begin sooner than they would like it to. End of a Rainbow

Joseph Roglieri of Kingston, who is known as Rainbow Joe among area anglers, displays a beautiful 24 1/2-inch, 5 1/2-pound Rainbow trout he hooked in the Ashokan Reservoir using salmon eggs. His admiring son, Michael (9) looks on approvingly at the weigh-in at Spada's Sport Shop. (Freeman Photo by Kruh)

Jasmine Barmin Winner

MONTICELLO—Jasmine Barmin came from behind to squeeze past Lonero and win the $6,000 feature handicap at Monticello Raceway Sunday in 2:03.2.

John Gilmour booted he winner to payoffs of $41.40, $12.20 and $5.60. Drum Major N was third. It was the fourth win of the year for Jasmine Barmin who surprised its backers with mutual returns. In the daily double, a 3-2 combination paid $33.60. A crowd of 5,233 bet $527,084. Joseph Green drove Drum Major to the front early cutting out a :29 3/5 quarter and went to the half in 1:00 3/5, but failed to hold off the furious assault in the final strides. The matinee 3-5 daily double was made up of Valet Hanover (5.80) and Drums Echo (8.60) combining. The third race trifecta saw We Do Romeo ($6.60) lead home Trotwood Bud and Golden Dreamer for a 4-7-1 triple that cashed in for $300,000.

John Meehan added 17 and Vlad Hoyt 13 to the winning total. Five of the Motormen scored in double figures, with Mike Palladino rimming 26, Jon Tucker 20 (with 12 rebounds) Jim Ferraro 18, Ed Priest 13 and Mike Colao 11. Giustino's Market, leading 62-49 after three quarters, held off Doc Smith's fourth quarter surge for a 74-71 victory. Ben Hamilton led the Market with 22 points. Bruce Jerry potted 17, Gary Chambers 13 and Cliff Schoonmaker added 16 points and 12 rebounds. Bill Welch contributed 19 points and 12 rebounds.

Wood's 44 Points Pace Lakers' Overtime Win

KINGSTON—Ted Wood racked up 44 points and Joyous Lake needed every one of them in a spectacular double overtime 97-96 squeaker over DeMico Motors in the A division of the YMCA Basketball League. DeMico's rallied with a 23-20 edge in the fourth quarter to tie the regulation contest at 80-80. Each team scored 10 points in the first overtime period but Joyous Lake ground out a tough 7-6 margin in the second overtime to notch the victory. Wood hauled in 16 rebounds in addition to his 44 points.

Top Prospect

BERLIN (UPI) — Diminutive Russian electrician Alexander Voronin has emerged as a top prospect for Olympic weight lifting laurels in the flyweight category by setting two world records Saturday night at the European weight lifting championships in East Berlin. Voronin, 25, who only stands 4 feet 9 1/2 inches in his shoes, won the allround flyweight title —snatch and clean-and-jerk combined—with a total of 528 pounds to come within 5.5 pounds of his own world record of 533.5 pounds he set last year. In addition he later posted world records in the two individual events of 238.7 pound in the snatch and 309.1 pound in the clean-and-jerk.

Clarkstown North Wins Section 9 Volleyball

NEW PALTZ—Clarkstown North High School girls volleyball team climaxed a perfect 24-0 season by defeating James I. O'Neill of Highland Falls 15-4, 5-15, 15-8 to capture the 1976 Section Nine Tournament championship at New Paltz High.

The Rockland PSAL champions advanced to the finals by trouncing Port Jervis 15-1 and 15-6 in the quarter finals and Red Hook of the UCL 15-5, 15-11 in the semifinals.

O'Neill, the Orange County League champions, eliminated Fallsburgh 15-6, 10-15 and 15-8 before topping Onteora 15-13 and 15-4 to move into the championship finals.

In Saturday's second round action, Onteora eliminated Marlboro 15-8, 15-4 in an all-UCAL encounter, while Red Hook took out Clarkstown South 13-15, 15-11 and 15-11.

Clarkstown North jumped to a 7-1 lead over sixth-seeded O'Neill in the championship finals but the Highland Falls team rallied to tie the score at 8-8. O'Neill lost its serve and Clarkstown reeled off six straight points to go ahead 14-8. the clincher was provided when Co-Captain Clare Kirby, unaware that O'Neill had used up its two allotted timeouts per match, signaled for a timeout and that cost O'Neill a point and ended the match.

The teams traded decisive wins in the first two games. O'Neill finished its season with a 16-2 record.

Judy Linn, 131 Average, Rolls Career First 603

KINGSTON Judy Linn, a 131 average bowler in the Thursday Afternoon League, wasn't thinking of 600 when she launched her weekly set. After all, 486 had been her highest series to date.

Her first game was a whopping 226. Then came a 201 and it was 427 after two. By that time, she must have had 600 on her mind and knew that it took 176 to do it. She continued right on marking and barely, but barely, spared on the 6-pin in the 10th frame for a career first 603. Of course, she is still looking for that first 500!

Betty Ann Eaton powered 213-577 for second place. Don Minkler powered 649 with 220-231 to lead he Saugerties Rollers where Joe Notarnicola had 221-603. Ted Wiands' 214-629 Percy Russell's 245-620 and Mike Dobbs' 222-609 were tops in Mannie's Barber Shop League.

Jake Crosswell decked 233, 236-651 in the Overlook League at Woodstock Lanes.

Marion Sherman powered 220-553 in the Ladies Independent and Anneliese Kime registered 213-585 in the Thursday Matinee.

There were some hefty totals in the women's Tri Major where Lorraine Ferraro toppled 212-597, Anne Hinckley 201-577, Betty Ann Eaton 203-575 and Arlene Wilson 209-544.

Anne Hinkley unloaded 572 in the Bowlerama Quads, as Barbara Van Keuren added 2-4-563, Karen Woodvine 559 and Gloria Nagele 212-557.

Marianne Szymanski led the women's Junior Major with 210-531.

Upset Winner

ADENAU, West Germany (UPI) — Reinhold Joest of West Germany, at the wheel of an old Porsche 908 Turbo, Sunday became the upset winner of the Adenau auto race, counting towards the world sports car championship, on the Nuerburging speed circuit.

Joest, unattached, covered the 156.8 miles at an average speed of 90.3 mph and secured the victory after two of his closest rivals, Patrick Depailler and Jean-Pierre Jabouille, were forced out by mechanical defects.

Upcoming Bus Tour Geared for Train-watching Buffs

BRIDGE 48 ARKVILLE

MIDDLETOWN—If 1974 was a good year for lovers of leisurely railroad travel, 1976 will be a good year for train-watching. And, if it has been a long time since the last steam locomotive of the old O & W Railway puffed its majestic way across our area and out of the world of practical transportation, an upcoming Bus Tour will recall that time.

Gone forever are the days when every little boy's dream was to grow up to be Casey Jones, the man behind the iron horse. The magnetism of those powerful locomotives is gone—but the romance lingers on.

To recall the years of belching clouds of black smoke, wailing whistles, and cinders, the Middletown based Ontario & Western Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society invites one and all to climb aboard its bus tour of the Northern Division of the old O & W Railway on Saturday, April 24. The tour will cover the entire Northern Division in New York from Norwich to Oswego, including the Utica Branch.

To jog memories, the tour will visit all station, creamery and bridge sites, the Pecksport Loop, and the existing terminal sites in Oswego. Both scenic and historic, the trip will feature photo stops, live commentary, and a look at the old right-of-way.

Life

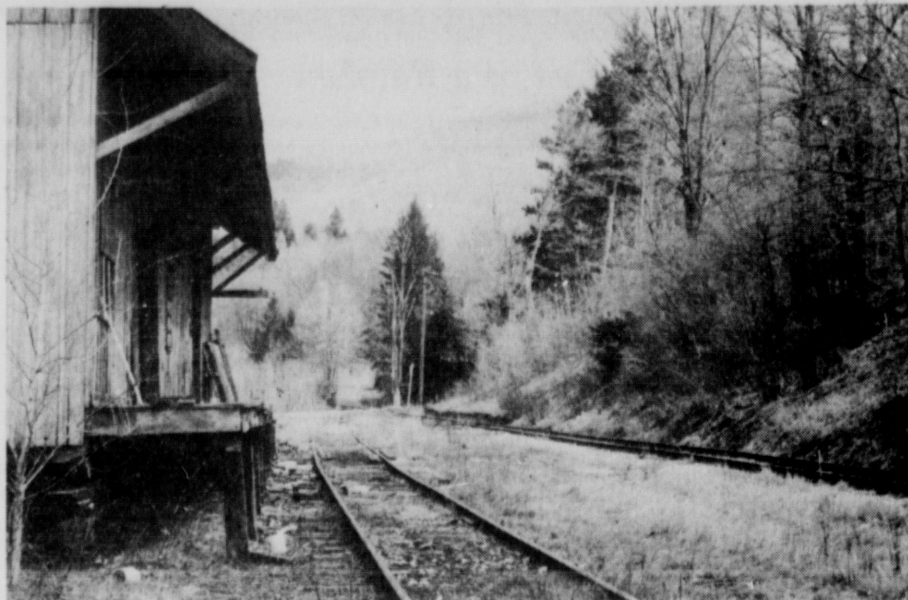

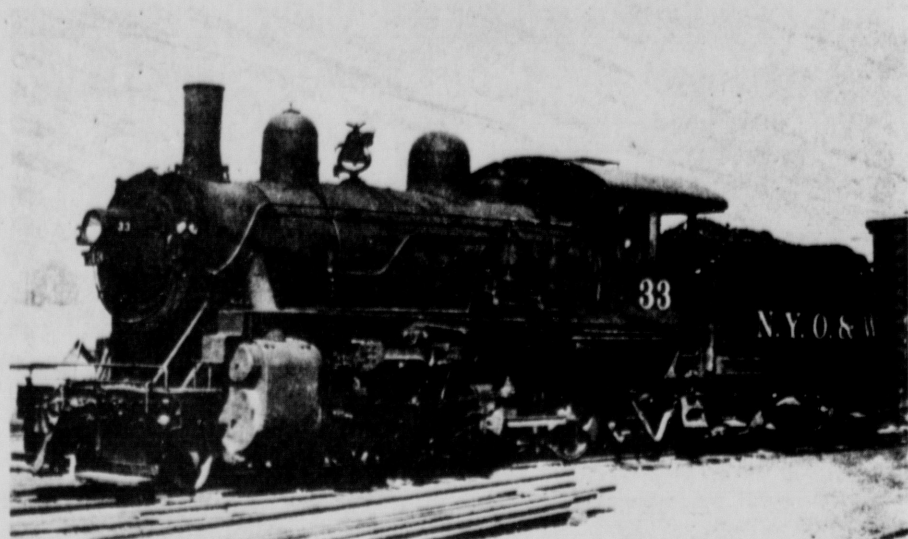

The all-day tour will depart from Norwich's Chenango Inn parking lot at 9 a.m., rain or shine. It will end Saturday evening with an "O & W Nite" for bus trippers at the Chenango County Historical Society building back in Norwich, where slides and films covering the entire O & W Railroad will be shown.

Those who take the trip should also be interested in the "O & W Day" festivities slated for the following day, Sunday, April 25. The day is being sponsored by the Chenango County Historical Society at their headquarters at Norwich. During the day, the O & W Museum will be open; there will be a dedication of two O & W Historical plaques at Norwich to commemorate the ground-breaking ceremonies of the old Oswego & Midland (the O & W's predecessor) more than 100 years ago in Norwich in 1868.

Round trip tickets for the motor bus tour (for which as many sections as needed will be run) are $16 each. Deadline for reservations on the first bus is April 17, and anyone interested should make checks or money orders payable to: O & W Chapter, Inc., N.R.H.S., P.O. Box 713, Middletown, N.Y. 10940.

The tour is the sixth in a series run by the railroad historical group. A previous tour brought bus trippers into the Kingston area when participants visited the Port Jervis, Monticello and Kingston Branch.

FLEISCHMANN'S FREIGHT HOUSE

Fund Raising Project Set To Feed and Clothe Orphans

NEW PALTZ—For the past four years, a group has been working to help feed and clothe children housed in the orphanage co-founded by Dr. Thomas A. Dooley III and Madame Vu Thi Ngai, directors, in South Korea. Known as An Lac Supporters, they will continue to assist the Tom Dooley Heritage, Inc., in New York, but under a new name—the New Paltz Chapter of Tom Dooley Heritage, Inc. The An Lac orphanage closed in April of last year.

The Dooley organization funded An Lac and several other orphanages in South Vietnam. Now the emphasis of the organization will be to raise funds for a hospital to be built as a living memorial to Dr. Dooley.

Dr. Dooley's short life was spent serving the people of Southeast Asia. In 1945 he was involved in the Passage to Freedom when the Geneva Conference allowed people to leave North Vietnam at the close of the Indochina War.

A Navy man, he was chosen for the assignment because he was fluent in French. Before the program was finished, he was in complete charge of setting up facilities to handle the refugees and give them medical assistance. At the close of his introduction to a mass of humanity who, as one of his corpsmen put it, "ain't got it so good," Dr. Dooley decided he would return to Southeast Asia and take "19th Century medicine to a 15th Century area"—the upper reaches of Laos near the Chinese border. Dr. Dooley worked in the area until he died in 1961. He was only 34 years old.

The new hospital will not have all the trappings of an American hospital but it will be adequate and will be what Dr. Dooley would have wanted, the local committee indicates. Site location will be announced.

The first fund raising project for the New Paltz Chapter will be the sale of luncheon napkins. Details may be obtained from Mrs. Sandi DiDonna in the Kingston area, and Mrs. Maureen Burke in New Paltz.

world's starving peoples, and at the same time, how to get good quality protein from non-meat sources. The film features Author F.M. Lappe and Dr. Kendall King, nutritionist/biochemist.

In the film, three main topics will be explored: 1) the nutrition of protein: what it is, why we need it, and how we can get it. 2) the ecological cost of meat protein: the U.S. and Europe as a protein drain. 3) cooking with complementary proteins, preparation of dishes that exemplify the three main combinations of non-meat foods which produce high quality complete protein.

"Diet for a Small Planet" shows audiences who wish to explore the world of non-meat foods that an exciting culinary adventure lies ahead of them, one that will save them money and at the same time make better use of the earth's bountiful harvest.

The film is in color and is 28 minutes long. All are invited. There is no admission charge.

In New Paltz, the film "Diet for a Small Planet" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building, Room 418, on the college campus. The film is presented as a public service by the Real Food Store, under the sponsorship of the Student Christian Center.

"Diet for a Small Planet," based on the best-selling book of the same name by Frances Moore Lappe, is a film about one of the most important topics of our time, the need to reduce our meat intake in order to free more protein for the

Local LWV Participates In Conference

SAUGERTIES — Delegates from the Saugerties League of Women Voters attended the recent 38th Annual Legislative Conference in Albany, heard Governor Hugh L. Carey address the opening session, met with Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, and heard an explanation from Dr. Donna Shalala of Columbia University on Municipal Assistance Corp., (Big Mac).

Representing the local group were Mrs. Joseph LaSusa, Mrs. Roy Ohno and Mrs. Robert Finger. More than 400 delegates from various parts of New York State attended the two-day conference.

In his address, Gov. Carey dealt with his budget which reflected an indirect attempt to influence the legislators who were considering it, according to one of the delegates. He described it as being "not a budget any longer but a prospectus," needed to impress the investment community whose cooperation is necessary to the State's economic recovery. In Carey's view, the budget is a document providing long overdue retrenchment accompanied by "reorganization to provide better delivery of services."

Carey said local governments should be prepared to provide their own share of such retrenchment in order for the State to regain a sound financial base.

Dr. Shalala, who is associate professor of politics and education at Columbia, gave background information on New York City's fiscal crisis as well as the State's current situation and its implications for human services. She emphasized "the new era of scarcity and the accompanying politics of scarcity." She stated "if new programs are wanted, we must be willing to delete some of the old programs."

Senator Edwyn Mason was unable to meet with the delegates but Assemblyman Hinchey discussed LWV concerns that are immediately before the Legislature.

These issues included legislation which would allow the appearance on the primary ballot of the presidential preferences of candidates for delegates; maintenance in the budget of present levels for home relief recipients; and opposition to attempts at rescission of New York's ratification of the Federal Equal Rights Amendment.

The League also expressed strongly its support for prompt implementation of the provisions of the State Environmental Quality Review Act.

Saugerties LWV delegates also learned more about legislative procedures and how they really work when Al Abrams, secretary to the Senate since 1963, and Peg Breen, reporter for the weekly television program, "Inside Albany," addressed everyone at dinner.

To Avoid Tennis Elbow

To avoid "tennis elbow," use a steel or aluminum racket and develop a two-handed backhand stroke, according to James D. Priest, MD.

In a study of 231 "average-caliber" players at the Palo Alto Tennis Club, in California, of the more than half who exhibited symptoms, 75 per cent were using rackets made of wood at the onset. Eleven players who were free of symptoms used the two-handed backhand stroke. One player who had had typical tennis elbow when doing the backhand one-handed switched to two hands and the problem disappeared.

Dr. Priest, now practicing in Minneapolis, points out that these results will have to be confirmed in a larger sample of players.

Talk of the Town

Film Discussion Scheduled

NEW PALTZ—A program of film and discussion will be featured at the first April event of the Tuesday Evening Concert Series at State University College at New Paltz. Music from Europe: Past and Present will be presented in the multi-purpose room of the Student Union Building at 8:30 p.m. on April 6.

The films are about Ludwig von Beethoven and the iconoclastic contemporary composer Karlheinz Stockhausen. The film about Beethoven is an amusing commemoration of the 200th anniversary of his birth. Stockhausen will be represented by a film of one of his most important works, Momente.

Composers Richard Wilson of Vassar College and Gundaris Pone of New Paltz will share their insights about Beethoven, Stockhausen and related topics. Lance Premezzi will act as moderator, and participation of the audience is invited.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Recital Wednesday at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE—Dutch Soprano Elly Ameling, with Dalton Baldwin at the piano, will give a recital in Skinner Recital Hall, Vassar College Wednesday, April 7 at 8:30 p.m.

Since her American debut at Lincoln Center in 1968, Miss Ameling has made annual tours of this country and Canada. In New York City, she has appeared in Lincoln Center's Mostly Mozart Festival in Alice Tully Hall and in concert at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Pianist Baldwin studied at the Oberlin Conservatory and the Juilliard School of Music. He has been Miss Ameling's accompanist since 1970.

Open House at Nursery School

KINGSTON—Open house at Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School was held today from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and will also take place Monday April 12 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Parents and children are invited to tour the school and learn about creative programs-in-action. The school will be offering both morning and afternoon three day sessions for the 1976-77 school year.

Mrs. Sharon Slotnick, teacher, heads the cooperative school which offers non-sectarian enrollment for three and four year olds. Visitors are welcome any time classes are in session.

Detailed information may be obtained by contacting Suzanne Eichhorn or Tom Phillips.

Bicentennial Quilt Slides

ROSENDALE—A slide program highlighting the Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt is scheduled to be shown in St. Peter's School on April 28.

Mrs. Hildegard Pleva, one of 42 women who created the quilt, will narrate the presentation in colonial costume.

The presentation was prepared with an aim to appeal to school, civic and social groups interested in meaningful, grassroots efforts to celebrate America's birthday.

During the month of May, the quilt will be exhibited along with an outstanding collection of antique and modern quilts in the Visual Arts Gallery, Vanderlyn Hall, Ulster County Community College.

Histroical Tour Scheduled

ROSENDALE—The Woman's Club of Rosendale is planning a historical tour October 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Planned in cooperation with the Historical Preservation Group of Rosendale, the tour will include old homes, Andrew Synder plants and historical sites in the area.

Buses will leave from Sportsmen's Park to the various locations. Public is invited to participate.

Members on the arrangements include Joan Zackeo, chairman, Emma Pezzello, president, Mrs. Bernadette Rabuffo, vice president.

A meeting of the club has been called for April 8.

DAR Rummage Sale

KINGSTON—Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, is planning to sponsor a rummage sale at the Crown Street Chapter House.

Sale dates will be: Wednesday, April 7, 5:30-8:30 p.m.; Thursday, April 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Friday, April 9, 9:30 a.m. to 12 o'clock.

Hamlet Theatre Sets Auditions

WEST HURLEY—The Hamlet Theatre on Route 28A, West Hurley, will hold open auditions for its June production of "The Painting" by Eugene Ionesco and "Picnic on the Battlefield" by Fernando Arrabal, during the week of April 5. Roles are available for two actresses and five actors. Those interested in auditioning should contact the theatre.

Classic Play at Paltz

NEW PALTZ—"Waiting for Godot," Samuel Beckett's classic play, will be presented at SUNY Sunday, April 11 at 8 p.m. Directed by Frank Kraat of the New Paltz Theatre Arts Department, the play is an important addition to the series of events at the college attending the 70th birthday of the Nobel Prize winning playwright.

Two films on Beckett's works, "The Goad," a mime for two players, and "Beginning to End," a dramatic interpretation of writings by him, will be seen on Monday, April 12.

"Eh Joe," the film rendition of a play originally written for BBC television, Beckett's only venture into film, starring Buster Keaton, and "Waiting for Godot," can be seen on Tuesday, April 13.

Both film offerings begin at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Center 100. There is no admission charge.

Garage, Plant Sale

RED HOOK—The Red Hook Chapter of American Field Service International Scholarships will hold a garage and plant sale Saturday, May 8 at the home of Mal Field, Route 9 North, Red Hook.

Funds raised at his sale will be used to bring a foreign student to Red Hook for the 1976-77 school year.

Cheese, Wine and Fun At Grist Mill Benefit

SAUGERTIES—It was cheese, wine and fun recently at the fourth annual fund raising event given by Little Sawyer Association for the restoration of the Grist Mill.

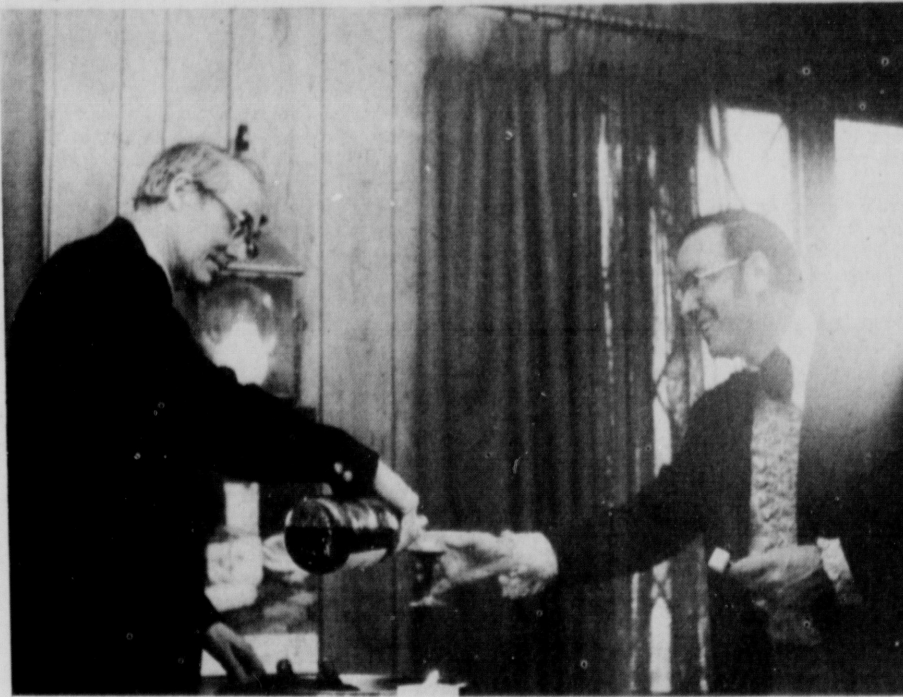

More than 200 gathered for the event made complete with colorful fruits, variety of breads, crackers and the music of Chuck Misasi of "Taste of

Honey."

Acting wine steward was William Ashmore, chairman of the event, while John Schauer assisted and Edward and Karen Jabs took care of the cheese board.

Little Sawyer Association members assisting with the event were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braitling, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cyr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fous, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greco, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Helmsmoortel, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Loop, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaSusa, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McColl, Mrs. James Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Redder, the Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy Seuss and the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Shepherd.

Rev. Shepherd pours for William Ashmore, chairman of the fund raiser for the past four years.

Foreign Language Week Set

KINGSTON—Governor

Hugh L. Carey has officially proclaimed the week of April 4-10 as Foreign Language Week and Charles H. Beckwith, supervisor of foreign languages at Kingston School consolidated, is coordinating the program for the Hudson Region which includes Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Sullivan, Columbia, Greene, and Ulster Counties.

The national observance is sponsored here by the New York State Association of Foreign Language Teachers and this year's theme is: "Cultural Pluralism: The Strength of our Nation."

Foreign language students will be coordinating programs at Kingston High School and Myron J. Michaels, to include food tasting projects; plays, fairs, exhibits, folk dancing among others.

Posters have been distributed throughout the schools and NYSFLT has provided a light touch in one of them. It features King Kong cradling an anguished Faye Wray who is saying, "If only I could speak your language!" The poster is also being used to call attention to individual schools' Foreign Language Week activities.

Bumper stickers, also being sorted around the state, bear the message "Kiss me, I'm bilingual."

Foreign Language Week is sponsored nationally by Alpha Mu Gamma, the national collegiate foreign-language honor society.

Spring Concert

Kingston High School Orchestra presents its Annual Spring Concert Tuesday, April 6 at 8 p.m. in the school's auditorium. Featured during the musical evening will be the Kingston High School String Quartet, composed of violinists Barbara Barz and Betty Larvasso; cellist Elissa Johanson; and Greg Barz, viola. Tickets are available to the public from all orchestra members in advance or at the door the night of the concert.

Palm Sunday Concert Slated

KINGSTON—The Mid-Hudson Madrigal Society, Inc., and a guest orchestra composed of local musicians, under the direction of Dr. Richard Olsen, will bring a memorable program of seasonal music to Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston, this Palm Sunday, April 11, at 3 p.m.

Works will include two pieces by Heinrich Schutz, a Kyrie by J.C. Bach, two movements from a Haydn symphony, featuring flautist Melissa Sweet, and a Handel trio sonata with oboists

Martin Leskow and Kathy Karlens, cellist Clare Meher, and harpsichordist Barbara Pickhardt.

J.S. Bach's Canata No. 4, "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison," begins with a driving first verse, features a haunting duet between soprano and alto sections in the second verse, and moves on to an affirmative choral conclusion, in spirit with approaching Easter.

Tickets are available in advance from Madrigal Society members and Holy Cross Church, or may be purchased at the door.

Arts Program Cut—But Not Crippled

NEW YORK—When the ax finally fell, it was not with the devastating whack many had feared. Still, it was more than just a glancing blow—and, as a result of the slash, both the New York State Council on the Arts and local arts groups will have to "tighten their belts."

The State Legislature had been expected to cut the State Council on the Arts' budget from $30 million to $20 million. The $10 million slash would have had a crippling impact, since a record number of arts groups are expected by the Council to request state aid by the April 19 deadline for 1976-77 applications. Instead, during the fiscal year that began April 1, the men in Albany voted a grants budget to the Council of $27,350,000, a decrease of $2,650,000 from the $30 million recommended by Gov. Hugh

L. Carey. Additionally, the Council's administrative budget was cut nearly 10 percent from $1,513,000 to $1,373,000, with seven professional jobs cited for elimination.

Notes Joan K. Davidson, Council chairman, "The 1976-77 grants budget is $5.7 million less than the budget of the year just ending (1975-76) and $6.8 million less than that of two years ago (1974-75)."

Mrs. Davidson considers the cut "a significant reduction in our appropriation," says her group is "at work on an intensive study of how best to distribute our diminished funds during the 1976-77 fiscal year."

Adds Mrs. Davidson, "Things cannot be the same as they were—either for the Council or for the hundreds of arts groups around the state whose financial needs and expectations now must inevitably be disappointed."

Among those groups are a considerable number in Ulster County, to which more than $130,000 was appropriated during 1975-76.

The Council is endeavoring, says Mrs. Davidson, "to figure out the most responsible and effective way of using our scaled-down appropriation to sustain the state's cultural resources." She notes that any policy changes resulting from the study will be made public as soon as the full Council has determined them.

"Rising costs and increased demand beset arts groups across the state," Mrs. Davidson says. "Established institutions are in financial straits and so are small and medium-sized groups in all disciplines. Sadly, the astonishing growth of the arts throughout the state—exemplified by the local arts council movement—was not reflected in the growth of state aid for the coming fiscal year." (Ulster County recently established its own local arts council with a grant of $18,000.)

In addition to its grants budget, other elements of the Council's 1976-77 legislation call for distribution of 55 cents per person in each county, down from 75 cents per person in 1975-76. The legislation continues to mandate 50 percent of all Council funds to be given to "primary organizations."

"While the Council will have far less money next year, its concern for artists and arts organizations will remain as strong as ever," Mrs. Davidson said. "The agency will stretch its funds, continue to provide technical assistance, and help in all ways possible to preserve the arts' contribution to the state's economy and to its spirit."

Paltz Dancer-Writer's Letters in New Volume

NEW PALTZ—Many readers of this paper may remember seeing Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and their Denishawn Dancers back in the twenties when these pioneers brought the first American "modern" dance to audiences across the U.S. They may therefore be interested to learn that now one of the few living Denishawn Dancers has written a book about her experiences fifty years ago as a member of that word-famous group.

Entitled Soring: The Diary and Letters of A Denishawn Dancer in the Far East: 1925-1926, it is by Jane Sherman, wife of retired schoolteacher and composer Ned Lebac of New Paltz. Awarded the de la Torre Bueno Prize as the best unpublished book in the field of the dance for 1974-1975, the work has just been published by Wesleyan University Press, a firm that specializes in books on the dance and the theatre.

Jane Sherman was a girl of seventeen in the fall of 1925 when she joined the Denishawn dance company for their fifteen-month tour of the Orient, the first serious American dancers ever to appear here. She was by far the youngest member of the troupe which included Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman who later became famous in their own right. (The title, Soring, is borrowed from one of Doris Humphrey's most successful dance creations. Another, her extraordinary "Hoop Dance," was first performed at the Academy of Music in Newburgh on October 6, 1924.)

Miss Sherman wrote voluminous letters to her family and kept both a photographic record and a detailed diary of her adventures, impressions, and thoughts. They are set in an atmosphere that has vanished forever, and reveal a young girl's dilemmas, doubts, and growth to maturity under the most unusual and trying circumstances. These documents were fortunately preserved through the years. They form the major portion of a story that is a vivid and often amusing description of Japan, China, India, Burma, Java, and Ceylon half a century ago.

(Imagine, if you can, what it must have been like to travel perform, study, and sightsee for almost a year and a half in temperatures over 100 degrees with NO air-conditioning or passenger airplanes, permanent waves or bobbie pins, nylons or zippers, Kleenex or wash 'n' wear, antibiotics or anti-cholera inoculations, TV, radio, ball pens, paperbacks, or air mail!)

After she stopped dancing, Jane Sherman published poetry, short stories, and many children's books, and she continues to write. But she feels that Soring is perhaps the culmination of her twin careers.

Art 'Our Town' At SUNY

"Our Town", the final production of the 1975-76 Season by the Department of Theatre Arts at New Paltz, opens April 7 at 8:30 p.m. for five performances: April 7 through 10 at 8:30 p.m. and April 11 at 2:00 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Box Office in McKenna Theatre, (914) 257-2192. Special rates are available for High School students and Senior Citizens.

"Our Town", Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize winning play, about the deep value of the smallest and most ordinary aspects of everyday life, is set in the small town of Grover's Corners, which is similar to any small town in this area. The play was first produced on Broadway in 1938 and was hailed as being revolutionary in its style because of its realistic, relaxed nature and the use of minimal scenery.

The Department of Theatre Arts Chairman, John C. Morrow, is the director of this New Paltz production of "Our Town", which is the last in a series of four distinguished American plays being produced in honor of the Bicentennial Year.

Lee Myczkowski

Artist Fungus

WOODSTOCK—Multi-talented Woodstock Artist, Lee Myczkowski, will demonstrate etching and painting on "Artist Fungus" for the Ulster County Art Association on Tuesday, April 6th, at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA on Kingston's Clinton Avenue.

This is a return visit for Myczkowski who gave an interesting and informative watercolor demonstration last year including painting, mounting and matting the finished piece.

Myczkowski has been working and experimenting with "Artist Fungus" for over a year and has developed many unusual effects and techniques. "When I first started scratching on the surface," Myczkowski comments, "I thought it was a fantastic and innovative Art form that I had discovered but much to my surprise I researched it and found several old drawings done on the same 'Art Fungus' dating back over one hundred years." Researching further Myczkowski discovered that our early Dutch settlers also used the same materials for keeping family records and they called them "Tree Shells," a name Myczkowski uses when exhibiting his "Artist Fungus." I originally called them "Mushroom Etchings," then several botanists informed me that although they can loosely be included in the wild mushroom variety they are not a true mushroom.

"Although Art is my first love, History is my second and I have put together a collection of etchings and paintings done on my 'Tree Shells' including maps of the major Revolutionary battles and portraits of some of the famous leaders of that time of which I'm particularly proud." I have an exhibit scheduled in late spring in the Schenectady Museum and hope to have some of them on display in the Smithsonian Institute. My problem is transporting them to Washington, D.C.

Myczkowski is a native New Yorker who started drawing and painting at an early age on the family farm in Satatoga. He studied watercolor with Evelyn DeQuilfield on Long Island. Myczkowski is a member of several Art Leagues including the Woodstock Artists Association, Flushing Art League, American Watercolor Society and the youngest member of the Salmagundi Club of New York City. He has won many awards and his work hangs in many prominent Art Collections in the country and abroad. Recently, Myczkowski had three of his pieces accepted by the Albany Museum of History and Art.

THE ALVIN AILEY REPERTORY WORKSHOP will perform at the Poughkeepsie High School on Saturday, April 24 at 8 p.m. The young company was established in 1974 by the American Dance Center, the official school for the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Center, to develop and use the talents of its young dancers and choreographers. The Ailey "second" company has met with unanimous critical acclaim wherever it has performed, including an appearance on national television in a salute to Duke Ellington, and has recently been signed by Columbia Artists Management. The 14 dancers, under the artistic direction of Sylvia Waters, a former Ailey soloist, perform works from the Ailey repertoire as well as those of Gus Solomon and Donald McKayle. The Ailey concert is the last performance of the dance series presented this season by the Performing Arts Festival, a cooperative venture of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and the Poughkeepsie Ballet Theatre, aimed at bringing professional dance to the Mid Hudson region. Tickets may be ordered from the Hudson Valley Philharmonic box office.

'Of Thee I Sing' at RVHS

ROUNDOUT VALLEY—A play described as "the happiest and most successful native music-stage lampoon that has thus far come the way of the American theatre," will be staged April 8-10 in the auditorium of Rondout Valley High School by the Teachers Association.

It is "Of Thee I Sing" with Jeanne O'Donnell as director, Phyllis Rose, producer, Kathy Thomas, vocal director and Jean Randau, art director.

The story follows John P. Wintergreen's campaign for President using the winning slogan "Put Love in the White House."

Hal Ross, who is taking the comic part of Alexander, vice presidential candidate, appeared in the first Rondout Valley Teachers Association production in 1962 and last year re-created his role of hatchet-man Dirk Sneath in the melodrama "Love Rides the Rails" or "Will the Mail Train Run Tonight."

Tom Sheldon is in the role of presidential candidate. In the play it is decided he shall marry the winner of a beauty contest after proposing to her in every state in the Union. He falls in love with the pretty and demure Mary Turner, played by Mary Gardner, and it all causes international complications.

Other members of the cast are Wendell Rapp, Richard Murphy, Linda Resney, Robert Kuster, Roland Mayberry, Gus Constantinou, Gary Bartie, Rosemary Rydant, Eleanor Knudsen, Larry Skalla and Al Favata and Elaine Decker

Also: Peter Gaspar, Barry Green, Jay Martin, Steve Sage, Ralph Swanson, Harriet Miller, Julie Maceo, Carol Schleiter, Sandra Zerbe, Marilyn Eldridge, Alice Johnson, Jackie Kottie, Austie Mayberry, Linda Resney and Wendy Rose.

Working on the production also are Wendell Rapp, poster design; Sue Aube, graphics;

Vince Fisher, scenery, Toland Mayberry and Rod Basten, tickets. In charge of props are Barbara Ross, Pat Berlanga, Ruth Marshall, Mike Polcari and Nancy Sack.

Handling publicity are Peggy Carro, Trudy Rapp, Elaine Decker, Michele Palmer, Lee Previll, Judy Rockefeller, Marie Roosa, Ruth Stubbins, Pat Sullivan, Austie Mayberry.

Details about ticket reservations may be obtained by contacting Roland Mayberry at the school.

PAW: 'Reynard the Fox'

WOODSTOCK—Scheduled for a mid-April opening on the Town Hall stage is "Reynard the Fox," the latest production of Performing Arts of Woodstock. Translated from the French original, "Reynard" is a children's fantasy centered on the misadventures of mischievous Reynard, the king's own knight and a practical joker extraordinary.

The foxy knight barely avoids the hangman's noose on a charge of treachery and finds himself in disrespect throughout the corrupt kingdom. But wily Reynard wins his freedom when he saves the king's life.

Michael Cruickshank of PAW will direct the cast of seven young people in the play and will also design its sets. Among youthful thespians involved are Hilliard MacDonald as Tielin, the Crow; Michael Norden as Brun, the Bear; Ken White as Ysengrin, the Wolf; and Paul Washington in the title role. Washington is no newcomer to PAW; previously appeared in "A Month in the Country" for the group last spring.

Others in the cast are: Scott Gagnon as Reverend Epinar, the Hedgehog; Bryce Manieri as Noble, the Lion; and Hillary Weinig as Lendore, the Marmot.

DEAR SORRY: Forget it. You acted on impulse.
DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for the mother of that nut who is suing her for $100,000 for his circumcision. She should countersue for back womb rent.

Dear Abby

The Right to Die

By Abigail VanBuren
DEAR READERS: As I have stated in a previous column, I have signed The Living Will. It is simply a document that a person signs stating that he does not want to have his life prolonged artificially after his physician decides that there is no reasonable hope for recovery. I have given copies of this document to my physician, lawyer, clergyman and to members of my family.

On February 23rd I published the official Jewish view on the right to die with dignity submitted by Rabbi Bernard S. Raskas. On March 15th I published a statement from the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale concerning the Protestant view.

The following letter was received from the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen:

"My dear Abby: What a joy it was to hear from you, having not had the pleasure of seeing you for such a long while!

In answer to your question, "What is the official Catholic view on the right to die with dignity?" it is not necessary to use extraordinary, artificial means to keep a person alive.

Wishing you every blessing, and with the warmest of personal greetings, I am,

Sincerely yours in our Lord,
—FULTON J. SHEEN

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and considered very pretty. I am going steady with a great guy who is 32. We really love each other, and he wants to marry me. The problem is, he is very bald and my mother told me that bald men are always unfaithful to their wives.—HEIDI

DEAR HEIDI: If you love him—marry him. Most bald men started fooling around when they HAD hair.

DEAR ABBY: Last weekend I was a bridesmaid at the wedding of a close friend.

When it came time for the bride to throw her bouquet, the photographer lined up all the bridesmaids for a picture of the memorable moment. Well, the bride threw her bouquet directly to her younger sister (the maid of honor), and dumb me reached in front of her and intercepted it! Everyone was horrified—especially the bride and her sister.

I suppose I should have known better, but I honestly did it without thinking.

Abby, if the bride wants a certain person to have the bouquet, why bother tossing it? Why not just hand it to her?

I've been severely criticized for what I did, but I honestly did it without thinking. Was I wrong?—SORRY IN ALABAMA

Your Horoscope

By Jean Adams

Your birthday today: Self-reliance is essential as demands for your personal efforts and additional skills increase. Thrift is urgent; spend every cent carefully. A quiet spell at year's end brings a respite from major ventures. Old ties become stronger; new ones result in overcommitments. Today's natives excel at sharp distinctions. Many are known in the sciences or some form of the popular arts.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Nobody is gratuitously going to help in the things you can do for yourself. Improve desired relationships; resist breaking off annoying ties prematurely.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Avoid unnecessary changes and shortcuts in your work. Communication channels to far places are open; use them. Add to your savings.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: If you think that people are impulsive or erratic, consider how you appear to others. Correspondence is important; a lively letter brings excellent results.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You explain where no explanation is called for. Come to terms with technical experts early in the day. Recent influences pep up home life.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Be cooperative, since individual enterprises thrive along with group and corporate programs. Notebooks are in order as you take in interesting details.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Meet business competition with vigor. Inspiration shows how to protect financial prospects. Be sure your work is seen in true perspective.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Following a natural course finds you doing things a little differently. Personal goals and romance compete against necessary routine.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Today is great for settling accounts and making long-awaited purchases. Quit on time. Skip shoptalk tonight; see what you can do for your home.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Switch schedules early, and substitute for friends socially. Clear off outstanding routines. An urgent opportunity is near; be free to respond.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Listen to someone who is trying to tell you something. Cooperation is at hand; attend to business, it's your initiative that makes the difference.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Stop, look, listen. When you have the latest word, decide what you're after. Balance work with efforts to get what you really want. Avoid promises.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Accept skepticism in others as a natural phenomenon. You needn't explain what you're doing. Complete some long-drawn-out unsatisfying deal.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

DIFFERENT: (Q.) I was going with a foreign guy. (I am American). But everyone told me that he's no good, so I don't go with him anymore. I think people are people and should live together like people and not bother about colors and accents. I know I can't make people stop talking about it, but I think people shouldn't have a prejudiced attitude. I still love him and he loves me. What should I do? He is 20 years old and I am 13 years old. I don't look my age. I look older.—Sad in Pennsylvania

(A.) You have a positive attitude about people in general. But you give two details about yourself and your friend that I think are important.

First you say he is 20 and you are 13. Even if he lived across the street from you and lived the same kind of life you live and talked as you talk and had the same skin color, I would advise you that he is much too old for you.

Second, you say that everyone told you he is no good. You do not deny this, so apparently you agree with these people. A person with your own background can be no good. Or a person with a different background can be no good. Either way, you would be wise to avoid being too close to such a person.

Continue to avoid this man.

CHOICE: (Q.) I'm 13 and I'm going out with Mark, who is 13 too. I like him, but not a lot. I really like Rob. He's 14 and in ninth grade. He's really cute, and nice too.

His sister said he likes me but can't ask me out because two of his friends don't like me and if he asked me out they would rank him out. What should I do?—Unhappy in Connecticut

(A.) I do not know why Bob's friends don't like you. But I do know that they have no right to dictate to him that he must not like you or see you.

If he does genuinely like you and wants to be with you, and if he is as decent as you seem to think he is, I believe he will find a way.

Continue to be friendly with him.

Jim: "The reason for the play is that if East had held both the ace and the king, he might well have won the first spade with the ace. In other words, the king was an automatic play from king-10. It wouldn't have been automatic from ace-king."

Intrastate 'Fratricide' Deplored by FitzPatrick

POTSDAM (UPI) — James A. FitzPatrick, chairman of the State Power Authority, says "upstate versus downstate" bickering is hampering efforts to ease a statewide shortage of electricity.

"I have grown weary of bickering, of mistrust, and of demagogic appeals to intrastate fratricide," FitzPatrick said Saturday. He was sharply critical of "sectionalism, divisiveness and upstate versus downstate" attitudes.

The state's electric system is interconnected and there are plans requiring all parts of the state to share an electrical deficiency in any other section, he said.

"If the lights go out in New York City, it won't be long before Ogdensburg, Massena, Canton and Potsdam are plunged into darkness as well," he said.

FitzPatrick addressed the annual dinner of the St. Lawrence County Chamber of Commerce here.

The county, he said, can guarantee its prosperity and progress by helping to ensure an adequate supply of electricity through New York State.

The chairman asked for co-operation from that area in the authority's efforts to build a 765,000-volt transmission line from Massena to Marcy, near Utica.

"Each year's delay in completion of the line will cost New York State consumers more than $60 million," he said. The estimated cost of the project is about $200 million.

U.S. Energy Use Drops Once More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American energy use dropped in 1975 for the second straight year — the first two-year downturn since 1945-46, according to new government figures.

Assistant Interior Secretary William L. Fisher attributed the downturn to high prices, a mild winter, conservation efforts and a state economy, which offset slight increases in energy use for electric utilities and transportation.

Bureau of Mines statistics said overall demand for heat, light and power dropped 2.5 per cent from the 1974 total of 72,880 trillion British thermal units. The biggest reduction — 6 per cent — was in industrial energy use, the bureau said. Per capita consumption fell 2 per cent.

While net imports of all fuels actually declined 4.4 per cent last year from 1974 totals, imports still represented 16.1 per cent of all the energy used in the United States, the Mining Bureau said.

PINE HILL—A young Pine Hill man faces a possible life prison sentence following his arrest early Sunday for the sale of cocaine to an Ulster County Sheriff's Department detective.

Charged with third degree criminal sale of a controlled substance was Ronald Dunham, 22.

Detectives said they began an investigation in the Pine Hill area after obtaining information that cocaine was being sold. Dunham was arrested immediately after making the sale in a local tavern in the Pine Hill area, detectives said.

The charge of third degree criminal sale of a controlled substance carries a mandatory prison sentence with a minimum term of one year to life upon conviction.

Arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Richard Albersstadt, Dunham was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bail pending further court action.

Burned Down

Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a one-story residence off Elting Road in the Town of Rosendale early today.

Rosendale firemen were dispatched to the Grover Dunn residence shortly before 12:30 a.m. after a neighbor called Ulster County Control headquarters, fire officials said.

When firemen reached the scene two walls of the house were already down and flames had burned through the roof, firemen said.

Rosendale GOP to Elect

ROSENDALE — William Curran, chairman of the Town of Rosendale Republican Club, reports that a meeting of the club will be held Thursday, April 8, 7:30 p.m. at the Community Building, Old Maple Hill School, LeFever Falls Road.

Curran reports that the purpose of the meeting is to draft a new constitution, by-laws and elect new officers.

The district GOP committee and committeewomen and the nominating committee members are hopeful of a large turnout of both young and old Republicans.

Police Beat

Fire officials said no one was home when the blaze broke out.

Fire officials said winds fanned the flames and started a brush fire nearby. Bloomington and Tillson volunteers assisted Rosendale firemen at the scene.

No injuries were reported. Fire fighters remained at the scene of the blaze until nearly 6:30 a.m. today.

Young Burglars

Ulster County Sheriff's Department detectives arrested two Tillson teenagers on Saturday and Sunday in connection with a burglary last Wednesday at a Springtown Road house.

According to detectives, about $300 in cash taken in the burglary was not recovered.

Arrested were a 13-year-old and a 14-year-old who were not identified because of their ages. Both will be petitioned into family court.

Back to Court

Kingston attorney and Special City Judge George A. Beck was scheduled to be arraigned today in U.S. District Court in Albany, where charges have been filed against him by the U.S. Attorney's office for four counts of willful failure to file federal income tax returns on income of nearly $200,000 for the years 1969-72.

Each count of the misdemeanor charge is punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000 and a one-year prison term.

Three members of a Kingston family were treated and released at Kingston Hospital Sunday night after their car slammed into a parked car on Hasbrouck Avenue after reportedly being forced off the road by an unknown oncoming car.

Taken to the hospital were the driver, John V. Quick, 29; Christine Quick, 22; and Heidi Quick, 3, all of Rondout Gardens.

No tickets were issued to Quick by Kingston Police fol-

Adjudged

A case against Robert Medley, 21, of 19 Hone Street, Kingston, who was charged with attempted burglary, was adjudged Friday in City Court for six months in contemplation of dismissal. Such an adjudgment means that if Medley gets in no trouble during the six-month period the charge will be dismissed.

Medley was charged Feb. 8 with attempting to break into the Yacht Club Restaurant, 334 Abeel Street.

Picking Careers

STONE RIDGE—More than 400 students and faculty members at Ulster County Community College will participate in a Career Information Days program Tuesday and Wednesday at the Stone Ridge campus.

The featured speaker will be Dr. Joseph W. Fordyce, a career information expert with a national reputation, who will talk at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the College Lounge.

School district superintendents from throughout Ulster County and a group from Dutchess Community College will be among those hearing the talk by Dr. Fordyce, a consultant on Community College Relations at the College Entrance Examination Board and former President of Santa Fe Junior College in Florida.

Business and industry leaders from the local area also will speak at the two-day program to provide up-to-date information on career education. Many of those speaking on business topics are members of the Business Studies Advisory Council at the college.

The two-day program is being coordinated by the Office of Placement and Office of the Associate Dean of Faculty at the college in consultation with the Business Studies Advisory Council and the International Women's Year Committee.

KINGSTON—The New York State Senate—59 strong, will return to Kingston the place of its birth Wednesday for a nostalgic visit to the building where the first Senate convened in 1777. They will arrive between 11-11:30 a.m.

They will gather in the old Senate House which originally accommodated only 13 members. The senators will convene in the spirit of the nation's Bicentennial to commemorate the wisdom of the state's founding fathers. Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupask is expected to preside over the session.

Prior to the working session, a luncheon will be held and typical revolutionary era dishes will be served at the Colonnade Restaurant in the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

The senators will then proceed to the churchyard of the Dutch Reformed Church where a wreath will be laid on the grave of New York's first governor, George Clinton.

The April 7 session will mark the second time the Senate has met in Kingston in recent years. In 1971, it gathered at the request of State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-39th Dist., to commemorate the birthday of the State Constitution.

This year's event has been planned by the official hosts for the day, State Senators Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-40th Dist., and Edwyn E. Mason, R-48th Dist. Kingston, once the third largest settlement in the state, is considered to be the birthplace of the New York State government. It was here on March 12, 1777 that the Committee on Government submitted to the Provincial Congress a draft of the state's first Constitution. The proposed document, largely the work of John Jay, Gouverneur Morris and Robert Livingston, was adopted on April 20, 1777. Because it was developed under the stress of war, it was not submitted to the public for ratification but was declared effective immediately. It was the feeling of the members of the Provincial Congress that the populace needed some measure of security in the form of a legal government, since at the time New York was politically adrift.

Two days later, Robert Benson, then a secretary to the Provincial Congress, read the new Constitution to the assembled citizens from atop a plank stretched across two beer barrels in front of the Ulster County Court House.

Kingston's Old Senate House was originally built in 1676 by Wessel Ten Broeck on a lot located in the city stockade area established by Dutch Gov. Peter Stuyvesant. The property passed from the Ten Broeck family to Abraham van Gaasbeek through his marriage to Sarah Ten Broeck in 1751.

As the building stands today it is a mixture of 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th century construction. Portions of the foundation walls are attributed to the 17th century, while the 18th century claims sections of the external masonry. There are indications that the interior was rebuilt during the 19th century but, in general, the original spatial composition of the first floor has been retained. The finishing materials were changed again in the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Through these alterations the history of Kingston may be read as well as the lives of its many inhabitants.

Today the Senate House and the adjacent Senate House Museum may be viewed by all. The latter is a regional history museum with the largest single collection of paintings by John Vanderlyn, a native of Kingston and a famous portrait and landscape artist. Visitation hours are 9 to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday. Tours are conducted at the Senate House every half hour.

Landfill Search in Rosendale

ROSENDALE—High Falls, Tillson and Bloomington have been designated as areas most suitable for a new Town of Rosendale landfill, but the Rosendale Planning Board would like some suggestions and recommendations from the public before it narrows the list down to specific sites.

The planning board has been working since the start of the year to locate an acceptable and appropriate site for a new landfill. Chairman Lee Comar said recently that the board has tentatively settled on three general areas of the town, but has not identified specific sites within those areas.

The incentive for Rosendale's landfill search is a warning by the Department of Environmental Conservation that it will not re-certify the existing landfill on Whiteport Road when the permit expires this year. The landfill has been plagued with problems—most stemming from poor drainage and excess water—since the 1960's.

Comar said any site selected for landfill purposes must meet several criteria: it cannot be part of a flood plain, must be at least five feet above the water table, have adequate access roads and meet state requirements for soil conditions. The High Falls, Tillson and Bloomington areas meet those general criteria; other areas of the town, such as Rifton and Binnewater, do not meet those criteria and therefore are not considered suitable areas for a landfill site.

Comar said the planning board expects to identify as many as 10 or 12 specific sites within those three general areas of the town; the list will then be narrowed down to the best three or four sites. The final decision will be made by the town board.

According to Comar, the planning board expects to complete its study, and forward its recommendations to the town board, within the next two months. The town board would likely hold several public hearings before settling on one specific site for the landfill.

Comar said the planning board does not expect to hold formal public hearings or informational meetings on its phase of the study, but would still like to hear from town residents on the subject. The planning board will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Clerk's office, and the chairman said that if people want to discuss the landfill situation at that time, the board will gladly comply.

"This is usually a very emotional issue," said Comar, "and we would like to know what the people feel about our plans. We don't want to submit our recommendations to the town board and then have people complain that we didn't give them a chance to express their feelings."

The town board would have the option of either acting on, or dismissing, the planning board's recommendations. If the town board does select a new landfill site, engineering and feasibility studies would have to be conducted, and DEC and Ulster County Health Department approval would have to be obtained.

Comar said it is up to the DEC when the current landfill will be closed for good, but there are indications that the department will be lenient if the town doesn't complete the selection process by the time the permit expires, as long as some progress is being made.

Jackson Concentrates on N.Y.

NEW YORK—Henry Jackson has ignored Wisconsin and is concentrating on a Primary Day landslide for himself in New York on Tuesday.

Egypt Splits Farther from Russia

PARIS — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says he has canceled the Soviet navy's right to use Egyptian ports and warns of "a dangerous situation" if the Soviets set up a base in neighboring Libya.

Sadat told members of the Egyptian community in Paris Sunday his order to cancel the use of the naval facilities resulted from his decision March 14 to end Egypt's friendship treaty with Russia.

Shoring Up Shaky Truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Pro Syrian guerrillas, who leftwingers claim are Syrian troops in disguise, have seized a vital oil refinery and taken up key positions around Beirut to keep Lebanon's shaky truce from collapsing.

In parts of Lebanon, it was questionable whether the ceasefire, Lebanon's 27th since last April, had taken hold at all.

Another 48 persons were killed and 80 wounded Sunday in fighting in the countryside and in snippings and street slayings throughout the capital.

Hijacks Jet, Wants Asylum

LISBON, Portugal — A Cuban soldier stationed in Angola hijacked a Portuguese TAP jet airliner and forced the crew to fly him to Portugal where he has applied for political asylum, officials said today.

Government sources said the Cuban embassy has applied heavy pressure on the military to return the soldier who boarded the Boeing 707 Sunday while serving as a security guard at Luanda airport.

Callaghan Is Britain's PM

LONDON — James "Sunny Jim" Callaghan today won election as Britain's 69th prime minister and the man charged with pulling the nation out of its unprecedented economic decline.

Callaghan, foreign secretary since 1974, defeated Employment Secretary Michael Foot 176 to 137 in the third ballot by ruling Labor party's members of parliament since Harold Wilson announced his resignation March 16.

Truckers on the Road Again

WASHINGTON — Thousands of truckers have hit the road again, ending the first nationwide Teamsters strike and easing the economic impact of the three-day walkout.

"It would seem the majority of the drivers are back on the road," a Trucking Employers, Inc., spokesman said Sunday. "But there are pockets that are still out."

More than half of the 400,000 Teamsters settled Friday for a tentative three-year contract calling for a 30 per cent pay increase and unlimited cost of living raises. TEL, the largest employers group, held out until Saturday before reaching tentative accord with the final 175,000 Teamsters.

Prince Sihanouk Resigns

BANGKOK, Thailand — Prince Norodom Sihanouk has resigned as Cambodia's chief of state, official radio broadcasts said today.

Sihanouk stepped down Sunday, according to broadcasts monitored in Bangkok. In a farewell speech to the nation, the 53-year-old prince said "that everywhere and under all circumstances, I will remain a valiant supporter of the Cambodian people, the revolution and the splendid revolutionary army of Democratic Cambodia."

Deputy Prime Minister Khieu Samphan, in accepting the resignation, said Sihanouk will live forever in Cambodia, and a large statue of the prince will be erected, presumably in Phnom Penh.

Pope Vehemently Denies He Ever Had a 'Friend'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI says a magazine article calling him a homosexual is "a horrible and slanderous insinuation" devoid of truth.

The 78-year-old pontiff told about 80,000 persons in St. Peter's Square for his noon blessing Sunday "we know you have been asked to pray for our humble person, made the object of derision and of horrible and slanderous insinuations by a certain magazine irrespective of honesty and truth."

Italy's Roman Catholic bishops called for atonement prayers in all Italian churches because of the article.

"We thank all of you for such a demonstration of filial compassion and moral sensitiveness," the Pope said to loud applause.

French writer Roger Peyrefitte, a self-proclaimed homosexual, made the allegation in a Tempo magazine article attacking a recent Vatican document condemning homosexuality, masturbation and premarital sex.

"... It is well known that Paul VI had as a boyfriend a movie actor whose name I am not going to mention, but whom I recall very well," Peyrefitte wrote. He said this was "when our friend Paul was still named Msgr. Montini, archbishop of Milan," before his election to the papacy in 1963.

Coed Dies In Fire

SARATOGA SPRINGS (UPI) — One coed died and at least 40 more were injured early today in a smoky fire in a residence hall at Skidmore College.

The dead student was identified as Jody Smith, 20, of Harrisburg, Pa., a junior.

Because of smoke-filled hallways, a number of students jumped from windows; others used bed sheets to lower themselves groundward. They were mainly clad in nightclothes and rubes.

Listed in critical condition at Saratoga Hospital was Joanne Handler, 18, of Manhattan, a sophomore. Rosanne M. Miller, 18, a freshman from Newton Center, Mass., and two others, identified only as Susan Miller of Wayne, N.J., and Karen Lichtman of the Poughkeepsie area, were listed in serious condition.

A hospital spokesman said a total of 23 had been admitted, most for treatment of smoke inhalation. At least 70 persons had been examined for possible shock or smoke inhalation.

Earlier Sessions

OLIVEBRIDGE—Tuesday's meeting of the Olive Town Board will begin earlier than usual to make time for a presentation by Concerned Consumers of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

The organization will present a program dealing with municipal ownership and distribution of electrical power. The group will also petition the town board to conduct a feasibility study examining local alternatives in that direction.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the Olivebridge Fire House. Town board meetings usually begin at 7:30 p.m., with 30 minutes for questions and public discussion.

Not a Puppy Love

Love sparks eternal for 84-year-old Charles Langfield who feeds a traditional piece of wedding cake to his 89-year-old bride Delia Gertiser Sunday in Springfield, Ill. Married at the Ridgewood Manor Nursing Home where they reside, the couple asked that a double bed be put in their room but temporarily dropped plans for a honeymoon. Nursing home officials indicated that one of the couples biggest enjoyments is drinking a quart and a half of beer while watching night time television. (UPI)

Unemployment Rate Drops, But It's Hardly Ripple

KINGSTON—The songbirds may again be singing, but the long winter of unemployed discontent has not brought a song to the lips of the State Department of Labor, either in Albany or Kingston.

The state's unemployment rate dipped slightly in February to 10.9 per cent, down from the 11.1 per cent in January that was heralded as the highest unemployment rate in four decades.

Official statistics on Ulster County for February had 12.8 per cent unemployed, down slightly from 13 per cent in January, still the second worst figure in the state behind Buffalo.

According to a Labor Department spokesman in Albany, there are 8,300 county residents weathering the winter without jobs at the end of February, compared to 8,400 four weeks earlier.

Those actually receiving unemployment compensation benefits from the Kingston office numbered 6,344 the week ending Feb. 27. Weekly figures released since that time show fewer people picking up checks locally: March 5, 6,118; March 12, 5,854; March 19, 5,877; and March 26, 5,770.

A Kingston spokesman noted, however, that an increasing number of ex-workers are exhausting their unemployment benefits each week.

Statewide, the Labor Department added a few grim notes to its joyless proclamation that unemployment remained at the second highest level since the Great Depression of the 1930's: jobs in New York City had shrunk by Leap Year Day to an 18-year low, and "fewer New York State residents were employed in February than in any month since comparable data became available in 1970."

In February, there were 815,000 New Yorkers unemployed, down 14,600 from the January rolls. There were fewer employed statewide, also. In February some 6,655,000 people had jobs, down 5,600 from the previous month and 179,100 less than in Feb. 1975.

Non-farm jobs shrank from 6,617,000 in January to 6,611,800 in February, with all of the loss coming from the non-manufacturing sector, said the department, and most of the losses from New York City where almost half the people in the state are employed.

Taking the state by sections, it was noted that neighboring

Dutchess County, a traditional stronghold of low unemployment that has continuously been the state leader in that field, has now fallen victim to rising joblessness.

The Poughkeepsie metropolitan area was listed with 7.3 per cent unemployed, up from 7.1 per cent in January and from 6.0 per cent in February, 1975. As such, it now matches the job picture in suburban Nassau County, which dropped unemployment rate from 7.8 per cent in January to 7.3 per cent in February.

Some rates for other areas are: Buffalo (the highest rate), 14 per cent; Binghamton, 8.7 per cent; Elmira, 9.9 per cent; Rochester 8.7 per cent; Syracuse, 10.3 per cent; Utica, 12.3 per cent; New York City, 12 per cent; Suffolk, 9.1 per cent; Westchester, 9.9 per cent; Rockland, 9.3 per cent.

A trend analysis by the Department of Labor stated that "seasonal cutbacks in trade and construction were mainly responsible" for the February decline in non-manufacturing jobs, with smaller declines in finance, insurance, real estate and mining.

Employment was reported slightly higher in the education, trucking, and public utilities industries, the department said.

Government Stats Mirror Improvement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government statistics continued to show economic upswings as the second quarter began.

Jobs rose to record levels, although unemployment still was high. Wholesale prices in all but foods showed increases which will be passed to consumers. The housing industry got welcome news in family dwelling starts.

Here is a summary of the latest figures:

UNEMPLOYMENT: More Americans had jobs in March than ever before. The Labor Department said the unemployment rate fell 0.1 per cent, to 7.5 per cent, in February, lowest in more than a year. Total employed numbered 86.7 million, a record.

INFLATION: The Consumer Price Index, the measure of inflation, stood at 167.1 in February, meaning goods costing $100 in 1967 cost $167.10 now. The 0.1 per cent rise during February was the smallest since September, 1971. The inflation rate on an annual basis now stands at approximately 7 per cent.

WHOLESALE PRICES: The Wholesale Price Index stood at 179.8 per cent in March, 5.5 per cent higher than a year ago despite a decline in farm prices. This showed a resurgence of inflation in industrial and processed foods.

TRADE — The United States had its second straight monthly trade deficit in February, importing $140.8 million more than it exported.

INDICATORS: Index of leading business indicators rose 0.8 per cent in February, a substantial slowdown from January's revised increase of 1.5 per cent. The index, which charts the direction of the economy, has risen for four consecutive months but at 105.7 per cent remained far below its peak of 126.6 in mid-1973.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT: Production increased 0.6 per cent in February from the nation's mines, factories and utilities.

HOUSING: Starts of family dwellings were up a record 27 per cent over the previous month, welcome news for the hard-hit industry. February's starts were at 1.55 million, 63 per cent higher than a year ago and the largest one-month total in almost two years.

GNP: The Gross National Product rose 4.9 per cent in the last quarter of 1975 and stood at $1.216 trillion. Economists predict it will grow at 6 to 7 per cent most of 1976, enough to avert slipping back into recession.

County Election Center

KINGSTON—Election returns on Primary Day in Ulster County will be coordinated once again by the Board of Elections and county department heads Tuesday at the Ulster County Office Building.

Voting will take place throughout the county and the City of Kingston from noon to 9 p.m. as both major political parties field delegates to the national convention.

The Central Tabulation Center at the County Office Building, which has been recording election returns for the news media in the past several years, will begin operations at 8:30 p.m. according to Election Commissioners Edwin F. Callahan and John J. Hogan.

County Public Relations Director Albert Cawein has been assigned to organize the operation in which the staff of the board of elections, county department heads and some county employees will volunteer their time.

They will take returns from election inspectors in the 130 elector districts of the county.

Results will not be available to the public from the County Building during the hours that returns are being received. No one other than members of the staff and the news media will be permitted on the floors which will be occupied by the center during the evening.

All returns taken will be unofficial. Official returns will be available after the actual election inspectors' reports are received and counted.

Boy Dies Trying to Save Pups

AVON, N.Y. (UPI)—A valiant effort to rescue a litter of puppies has cost a Livingston County boy his life.

Allen Pierson, 10, of Avon, died in a fire Saturday apparently while trying to save a litter of puppies inside a burning barn, police said.

The Pierson boy noticed a small fire in a barn at his family home and ran inside to rescue the dogs, officials charged. He apparently became trapped inside when flames spread across the entrance.

His body was found by volunteer firemen after the blaze was extinguished in the 30-by-50-foot structure. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Three pups, several dogs, some baled hay and straw also were lost in the blaze, officials said.

Climbing Aboard

Being a candidate isn't always easy as presidential aspirant Sen. Henry Jackson finds out as he gets hand at Madison Square Garden in boarding Republican Party symbol. The Democratic hopeful visited backstage at Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, where he took his son, Peter, to celebrate his 10th birthday on Saturday. (UPI)

National Guard Briefing Denied

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A spokesman for Gov. Hugh Carey has denied union charges that New York's chief executive has barred the National Guard from a possible strike at state prisons if center talks with prison guards break off.

The governor has no plans to deny such talks, the spokesman said Saturday and Sunday. He said the National Guard is not permitted to strike or to picket.

Gov. Carey's executive order, issued last week, said the security of the state must be maintained. The order also said that the National Guard and been advised that they should not replace striking guards.

In briefing the National Guard and keeping the state militia on stand-by in the event of a bargaining breakdown, the governor is callously attempting to provoke a strike of corrections officers, the union leader said in a statement.

Gray said the 20 union negotiators recessed the talks to return to their jobs and help quell the unrest in the state's corrections facilities.

Outraged at four prisoners cited by Gray as facing serious disturbances, denied that any major problems exist at the institutions.

The union has been talking with the state about a wage and increment reopening in their contract. Gray said union negotiators will return to the talks Tuesday.

Jackson Seeking New York Landslide

By UPI
Democratic candidates Jimmy Carter and Morris Udall searched out the last few undecided votes before Tuesday's primary in Wisconsin. Henry Jackson ignored Wisconsin to concentrate on the "landslide victory" he expected in New York.

The fourth major Democratic contender in Wisconsin, George Wallace, cut short his campaigning and appealed for votes from his home in Alabama.

President Ford rested at home Sunday after two days in the dairy state. Ronald Reagan's Wisconsin supporters used radio and television spots to promote their absent candidate, who was headed today for personal campaigning in Texas.

Carter spent Saturday night in Washington to attend the annual Gridiron dinner and roasting, at which Ford was guest of honor, then upstaged the President Sunday morning.

Out early he said to show his daughter the White House and the Washington Monument, Carter crossed in front of St. John's church minutes before the President was to arrive for services.

He distracted a share of the Ford spectators, reporters and photographers as he crossed to Lafayette Square and held an informal news conference. When Ford arrived a reporter told him, "Jimmy Carter was just here." Ford replied, "Yes, I heard."

Carter told reporters he was happy with his showings in weekend party caucuses in Virginia and Kansas, where he ran behind uncommitted delegate candidates but well ahead of all others.

In Scoops Corner

KINGSTON — Members of the Kingston Democratic men's Club have voted to endorse Senator Henry Jackson for President in the April primary.

Frank DiPietro, a spokesman for the Men's Club, said "It is time to let Senator Jackson know that we believe in what he stands for." Jackson is an advocate of full employment and quality education and has a deep concern for the welfare of the elderly.

Experience makes Senator Jackson our choice, continued DiPietro. "His more than 30 years in the House and Senate have brought him face to face with every major problem in the nation today. Problems that affect all of us and tear away at our nation's foundations." "Scoop" Jackson is not only aware of these problems, but has definite plans for attacking them, not just lip service like the others," he concluded.

Announcing ConRail.

A better way to run a railroad.

On April 1, six struggling railroads became a single, more efficient railroad, stretching from Boston to St. Louis. Purpose: to give shippers first-class service and become a profitable company.

IT'S GOING TO TAKE TIME. But we've got the people, the money, and the will to make it work.

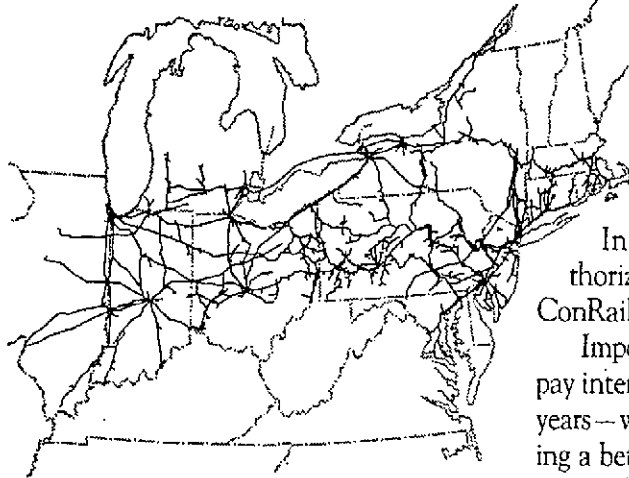

And we've got to make it work. A big chunk of America is counting on us.

Our 17,000 miles of track cover an area with 100 million people and 55 percent of America's manufacturing plants. Including major automobile plants. ConRail serves so much of the auto industry that if we stopped hauling freight even for one day, 26,000 auto workers would be thrown out of work.

In business to make a profit

Don't confuse us with Amtrak—a Government-subsidized company responsible for intercity passenger service.

ConRail is a for-profit company—primarily a freight railroad. (Under contract to various agencies, ConRail also provides tracks and operating personnel for passenger trains.)

ConRail blankets sixteen states with 17,000 miles of track.

The $2.1 billion we're getting from the Government (see right) comes as an investment that we are legally obligated to pay back.

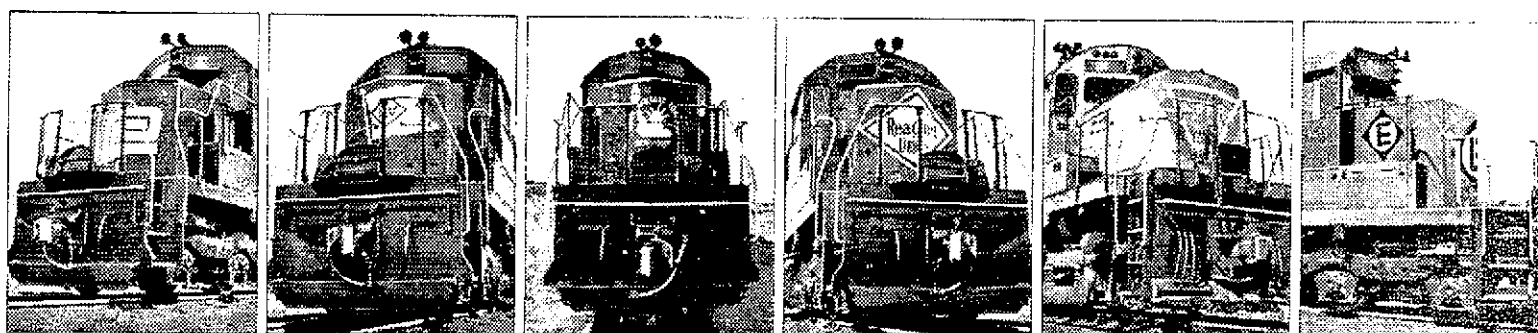

We're in business to improve service and make a profit. But why should we succeed when the six railroads we took over went bankrupt?

Old problems attacked head on

The Penn Central and other bankrupts had to watch roadbeds and equipment deteriorate

ConRail is often the lowest cost way to move truck trailers between the East Coast and the Midwest.

Now we're one dynamic new company—formed from six old railroads.

rate for lack of money. This slowed service and increased damage costs.

They had to absorb losses from their commuter lines. And also from unprofitable freight lines.

And, in some areas, they didn't have enough flexibility in assigning employees.

As you'll see below, the legislation that created ConRail specifically attacks each of these major problems.

Billions to improve roadbeds and equipment

In creating ConRail, Congress authorized the purchase of $2.1 billion in ConRail securities.

Importantly, ConRail doesn't have to pay interest or dividends in cash in the early years—which frees all the money for building a better railroad.

We'll use the $2.1 billion (as well as more billions from ConRail revenues) to replace over 4,000,000 ties and over 700 miles of track each year for the next 10 years. We'll also repair freight cars and locomotives—and buy new ones. Repair bridges and tunnels. Install and modernize signalling and traffic control systems.

This will mean fewer damage claims, faster service—increased earnings.

Unprofitable lines no longer a burden

Some freight lines that cannot be run at a profit have been dropped. Other freight lines will be kept running if ConRail is compensated for the difference between revenues and the cost of operation.

The compensation would come from the U.S. Government and states that want to keep the lines operating.

ConRail will continue to operate commuter lines so long as the difference between revenues and costs is made up by local and Federal funds. If no one wants these lines to operate (or is willing to pick up the tab), ConRail can drop the service after 180 days.

Support from the unions

The unions want ConRail to succeed, and have already agreed to more flexibility in assigning employees.

C. J. Chamberlain, Chairman, Railway Labor Executives Association, said, "The interest of the labor brotherhoods and the nation will best be served if ConRail becomes a strong viable company."

"We in labor will do everything we can to help ConRail reach that goal."

Consolidation saves money

We're consolidating many facilities and operations to cut costs. For example, in one city, we have already combined what used to be done by five offices into one office—under one general manager.

In many places, we're classifying cars one time instead of several. More savings.

We're scheduling more efficient train-size lots from original terminals. Still more savings. And the list of savings goes on.

Better service to shippers

From Day One, we've had faster run-through service. For example, we've lopped more than a full day off some shipments from New York to Chicago. (Some runs are already 12 to 15 hours faster.)

We've cut the number of people that shippers have to deal with—from as many as three down to one.

Another source of better service: We've got a huge data processing operation. Five giant computers, 83 high-speed tape drives, 107 on-line disc files.

Which means we can tell a customer,

within minutes, exactly where his cars are—at any time. Any day of the week.

Headed for success

You never know what whims the economy might have up its sleeve. But we've got a lot going for us.

Better use of cars, plus other efficiencies, should bring our cost savings to about $300 million by 1980. Basic growth in freight volume should bring us additional revenues of $341.5 million by 1985.

We've got what it takes. The money, the people, and the will.

On that basis, our objective is to start making a profit by 1980.

The best alternative

Many observers agree that if ConRail can't make a go of it, the only alternative will be nationalization.

A bitter pill to swallow, as foreign taxpayers can testify. Taxpayers in some countries pay over $1 billion a year to cover the losses from railroads.

We'll do everything in our power not to let that happen. The last thing in the world America needs is more taxes.

We aren't promising miracles. We can't offset decades of neglect overnight.

But we have got a better way to run a railroad.

An Important Conference

On Tuesday night at the Edison School two hours may make a world of difference for countless parents and children in Ulster County. The conference will address itself to the problems of working parents. Many parents work by choice. Others (male and female) have single parenthood thrust upon them by death, divorce, or circumstance. What they all have in common is the need to find adequate, moderately priced supervision for the youngsters while they are at their jobs. These people, working to pay their own way in society, deserve more light on the problems of day care. If you've been looking for a way to fill some idle hours and make a meaningful contribution to your community, attend the conference from 7 to 9 p.m. and see if you can help.

Hazardous Materials

Editor's note. The following letter was sent to the office of Hazardous Materials Operations in Washington by Joel Kobran, chairman of the Environmental Task Force of Ulster County. A copy of the letter is reprinted below.

Section of Dockets
Office of Hazardous Materials Operations
Department of Transportation
Washington D.C. 20490
Dear Sirs:

The purpose of this letter is to comment on Hazardous Materials Regulations. Notice of Proposed Rule Making (Docket No. HM-134, Notice No. 76-2). The March 3rd issue of the Federal Register in which this appears was first brought to our attention last Friday evening, March 26th. Consequently, in the short time remaining for us to submit our comments we have been unable to study Titles 49, 46 and 49 of the CFR and we would appreciate your sending us copies for future reference.

However at this time we would like to register some objections. The third paragraph begins: "Some of the provisions of the HMTA that more clearly reflect the declared policy accomplish the following and in this list states: 3. Provide for Federal pre-emption of inconsistent state and local regulations and law. As stated this is misleading inasmuch as the part of the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act upon which this is based (Relationship To Other Laws) is mainly concerned with establishing when inconsistent state and local regulations and law are NOT Federally pre-empted."

(b) State Laws. Any requirement of a state or local subdivision thereof which is not consistent with any requirement set forth in this title or in a regulation issued under this title is not pre-empted if upon the application of an appropriate state agency the Secretary determines in accordance with procedures to be prescribed by regulation that such requirement (1) affords an equal or greater level of protection to the public than is afforded by the requirements of this title or of regulations issued under this title and (2) does not unreasonably burden commerce. This is of no small concern to us as your department intends to continue its court battle against the N.Y.C. Health Department, which has an inconsistent regulation which affords an equal or greater level of protection to the public.

(Regarding the transport of high level radioactive materials) and will no doubt take a like stand against any other community which attempts to implement a stricter regulation than yours, or exclude altogether for reasons of health and safety the transport of such materials.

Furthermore, since the proposed rulemaking is based on the HMTA, it is hardly surprising that we are led to express our dissatisfaction with the Act itself. Firstly, we do not think an unreasonable burden on commerce should outweigh the health and safety of a community through which hazardous material is to be transported. The stated purpose of the Act is to protect the Nation adequately against the risks to life and property which are inherent in the transportation of hazardous materials in commerce, not to protect the interests of industry, etc.

Secondly, we do not think the health and safety of a community are amply considered merely because the Department of Transportation standards are being met. A community should have the right to establish higher standards for themselves, and not have them pre-empted. It is fine for the DOT to tell us their opinion of the probability of a nuclear holocaust from an accident in a nuclear plant; it is quite another that they can compel a community to live with this risk. Similarly, it is one thing for the DOT to tell us the transportation of high level radioactive material, etc. through our community is safe, necessary for commerce and so on; it is another when we are not permitted to live under our own interpretation of the facts.

Thirdly, we think the DOT should be more interested in the fact that there is no permanent solution to the disposal of high level radioactive wastes. As long as this is so, it makes no sense to permit the transportation of such wastes to a destination where they will be stockpiled to create an increasing hazard.

Fourthly, although the NRC claims there is no regulation prohibiting them from siting a commercial nuclear power plant in a large and densely populated city such as New York City, they have yet to do so. But the proposed nuclear plant to be built by P.A.S.N.Y. at Cementon (Greene County) will primarily serve the electric demands of New York City. Thus we can well imagine New York City succeeding in upholding its stricter regulations over the objections of the DOT, and then having the burden once again placed on those of us not living in such densely populated areas: i.e. all the high level radioactive materials will be shipped through our smaller communities. We will once again be asked to live with the risks attendant upon those who live near nuclear facilities, and it is not likely we will be able to argue our case as well as New York City can, merely because our communities are not densely populated. And should the Cementon plant be built in any case, high level radioactive materials will have to be transported through or by the smaller N.Y. State communities so that electricity can be generated for New York City.

Finally, we perceive a great threat to the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness of the citizens of The United States of America when the power of the Federal government continues to grow at an alarming rate. Whatever the risks may be in transporting hazardous materials or in siting nuclear power plants, the final decision should be made by those being asked to take these risks, not by a central authority in Washington D.C.

Respectfully,
JOEL KOBRA
Chairman

Willing to Help

Dear Editor:
Please send this letter of mine to the representative in Albany and also put this in the Freeman, the Daily Freeman, that is.

Our basic rights under law is write to our Ulster County Legislator if he doesn't do anything for us on taxes or anything else. Write to our member of Assembly Mr. Emeel S. Betros, 99th Albany, N.Y.

Taxpayer Woes

Dear Editor:
An answer to Mr. Connelly regarding the Probation Department.

Despite the banner waving missive of praise for the merits of selfless dedication (A philosophical question at best), you missed the point!

First, you live in this county and pay taxes as we do.

Second, you live in this state and pay taxes in this state as we do.

Third, both county and state taxes are on the rise.

Are you sincerely saying that you like your tax dollars being spent on double salaries for one job? Certainly you must admit that the average Civil Service Worker is not overpaid. You of all people would know this as your wife works for the department which you so highly praise — a fact you neglected to mention in your letter. The majority of taxpayers, I believe, would like to see our Legislature do away with unnecessary expenditures without cutting out vital services necessary to the county in which we live.

In other words, Mr. Connelly, I believe that the average taxpayer including myself would like to see our tax dollars being spent in our county, to benefit the county and its residents first.

Then, if you feel like being benevolent and philanthropic, you can pay for selfless dedication to mankind out of your pocket — not ours.

Sincerely,
MRS. CARL KUHLMANN

Let's Blame the Democrats

Nicholas Von Hoffman

The American Mikado

WASHINGTON - The New York Times reports students and other enthusiasts are failing to volunteer for this year's political campaigns by the thousands. Since the three immediate past presidents are widely seen as a satyromaniac, a megalomaniac and a kleptomaniac, this outburst of indifference shouldn't surprise us.

But disillusioned people are vulnerable to manipulation. They still carry the faith within them, as they make clear when they say "if only" we had a candidate who was sincere, honest, courageous or the possessor of any number of other virtuous attributes.

These disillusioned Diogenes are relatively easy to trick. The original model went about with a lamp in the daylight looking for his honest man, meaning either that he claimed unique powers of moral perspicacity for himself or, as was the case, he was demonstrating there was no such person to be found.

'My Man'

Since even if you could define it, there's no way in the world you can tell whether another person is sincere or unselfish or dedicated to the public interest, the game consists in figuring out what outward manifestation of behavior will sucker embittered idealists into imagining they have found their man. Will it be Gov. Jerry Brown going home every night to his unfurnished apartment, his bowl of brown rice and his pallet of straw after 8 hours of work serving the people? Will it be Jimmy Peanut testifying that as he prayed on his knees in the Georgia governor's office as William McKinley once did in the White House, he struck up a personal, even intimate relationship with his savior? Or will it be the thought of Jerry Ford overcoming every physical and mental handicap to attain the dignity and the fatherly judgment that comes to one whose Secret Service retinue is large enough and who appears nightly on the television in a dark suit next to the Great Seal of the Republic?

Jerry Ford has reminded us that praiseworthy character doesn't have much to do with anything in a president. Personal probity in high office gives us the same good feeling we have after we get our teeth cleaned. A madman in the White House might push the red button if his aides let him, but other men who are adjudged quite sane offer themselves as candidates and talk about the possibility of doing just that all the time.

We are so impressed by the power of the presidency it doesn't occur to us the office may dominate its occupant. The constant plaint of recent presidents is that they can't get much done that the huge structures which they administer in law they don't administer in fact: that they are gulled, fooled, tricked, misled and misinformed by their subordinates; that their orders are ignored. In other contexts it's been frequently suggested that presidents gravitate toward the Pentagon because the military is the only chain of command that is the least bit responsive

We might ponder how ceremonial and illusory the office may have become. Is the president more of a good-looking corpse than a chief executive? An American Mikado whose omnipotence is limited by one proviso, that he never use his power? For a president to function as we've been taught to think he does, he would have to stage a sort of coup d'etat against his own government. If we set aside the appalling vision of government that Nixon nourished, we can see that is what he was trying to do: function presidentially. In so doing he appeared to us to be a coupist, a man conspiring to sabotage his own government.

If Nixon failed to run the government for evil purposes or to be fair, what many of us think are evil purposes, what makes us think that another man can run the government for better policies and directions over which he has no control and only marginal influence?

The failure of so many politicians to keep so many campaign promises can't be owing only to their rascality. There's no reason to think our generation of politicians are more corrupt and dishonest than they were in Grant's administration 100 years ago. If the crimes are bigger today, it's because the government's bigger. But the most troublesome figure isn't the crooked politician; it's the honest ones, the men and women elected to office who could not keep their promises, who failed.

They offer the best reason for not volunteering, not contributing money, not voting. When honest, energetic and intelligent people can't do the job, perhaps the fault is with the job. Then the wisest course is to stop electing people to these offices, to stop telling each other if only we could find the political equivalent of Jesus he'd pass a miracle and make the damn thing work. Apathy, laziness and disillusionment aren't the only reasons for refusing to vote. In certain circumstances abstention can be a powerful political statement much more powerful than participation.

Golden Age of Amtrak

WASHINGTON — The golden age of railroads is not yet over for the corporate moguls who run Amtrak. The evidence can be found in their expense accounts.

Congress established Amtrak in 1971 to manage the nation's passenger rail system. The original intent was to subsidize Amtrak for only five years. Thereafter, Amtrak was expected to break even.

At the end of the fifth year, however, the railroad is still deep in the red. Last year's loss was a painful $352 million. And just last week, Amtrak executives trekked up to Capitol Hill to ask for another $633 million subsidy.

Yet this staggering deficit, apparently, has had no restraining effect on the railroad bosses. They continue to squander the taxpayers' subsidies with reckless abandon.

They pamper themselves outrageously, using Amtrak funds to subsidize their lavish living habits. Here are the details from their expense vouchers: Amtrak's president, Paul H. Reistrup, draws an annual $85,000 salary. The 11 vice presidents are also paid an adequate $50,000 a year on the average. This ought to be enough for them to struggle along on.

Yet the railroad has just provided them with brand new automobiles. Their business expenses hit $49,000 last year, most of it for food and liquor. Reistrup spent $576.12 in September, for example, on candles, flowers, food and booze for a staff party.

In fact, Amtrak sometimes picks up the tab when its executives simply go out for cocktails. A corporate vice president, Calvin Andringa, took Reistrup to a favorite pub. Another time, Andringa invited the vice chairman, Mary Mead, out for drinks. The bills were charged to Amtrak, which pays them, of course, with taxpayers' money.

From the same bounteous source, the railroad also pays Reistrup's membership dues at various elegant clubs, including the Army-Navy Country Club and downtown Army-Navy Club in the Washington area and the Athletic Club in Chicago.

Last year, Amtrak shelled out $600 so that a vice president, Harold Graham, could belong to the posh Kenwood Country Club in the Washington suburbs. Amtrak is trying to persuade the public to ride the rails, but its executives don't always heed their own advertising. Last year, the company laid out a startling $612,574 for air travel even though its executives are entitled to ride the rails free of charge.

The general counsel, Nathaniel Goodrich, flew between Washington and New York, Washington and Pittsburgh, New York and Boston — which have excellent Amtrak service. A vice president, David Watts, also shuttled between Washington and New York by plane. We found vouchers, charging for first class airfare from Washington to Norfolk, Va.

The winning and dining of government officials is a major industry in Washington. According to the vouchers, few favor seekers entertain more generously than do the Amtrak crowd.

One vice president, Bruce Pike, turned in an expense account of $6,550.50 last year for entertaining Washington bigwigs. The names of his guests aren't listed, only the charges. Amtrak concedes that his "effectiveness would be impeded" if he disclosed the names of the federal officials he wines and dines.

The expense vouchers reveal, however, that Reistrup threw a brunch last December. Among the prominent guests was Federal Railroad Administration's chief, Asaph Hall, who helps decide how much government money Amtrak will get. Reistrup's invitation list also contains the names of two Congressmen, Silvio Conte, R-Mass., and Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who have an influential voice in transportation matters. Rooney said he didn't go, Conte didn't return our calls.

We found other names on Amtrak's expense accounts, including Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., Deputy Transportation Secretary John Barnum and Interstate Commerce Commissioner Charles Clapp.

The vouchers of Amtrak vice president Edwin Edel indicate that he entertained White House aide Russ Rourke on three separate occasions. Once, Edel ran up a $100 bill at the Annapolis Yacht Club supposedly entertaining Rourke, his wife and an Iranian diplomat.

Yet the White House aide told us he never got any of the free entertainment. Edel blames his sloppy record keeping for the erroneous vouchers, saying Rourke was invited but canceled out.

Last year, a group of congressional aides inspected Amtrak's operations. The railroad served them free dinner and cocktails. These favors for Washington bigwigs have been small — nothing so gross that the officials could be accused of being bribed.

It is the accumulation rather than any single gift, that gradually obligates them. Footnote: Amtrak officials, to their credit, cooperated with our investigation. A spokesman said the club memberships are given only to executives who need them for official entertaining. The expenditures for food, liquor and entertainment, the spokesman said, helped to increase communication. Reistrup paid one-third of the cost of his brunch out of his own pocket. The spokesman also said that Amtrak officials fly only when absolutely necessary.

Black Swans of the Classroom

Jim Bishop

The black swans of the classroom. They had neither feet nor legs. They floated silently peering at students from behind white corrugations. The voices were clinical in detachment. Teaching nuns.

They were unpaid, bodiless creatures who mortgaged their souls in the task of taking heathens such as we and transmitting us into Christian gentlemen and ladies. They worked in miracles. I attended a Catholic primary school. It was a lesson in surviving fright. The teacher never had time to exude love or compassion. The one she reserved for God, the second for the poor and the weak.

She was a cattle drover, a teacher, a judge, a passport to knowledge, the silent lonely heart, the executioner. She seldom used a ruler to measure anything except the distance between a long overhand swing and a student's hand.

The difference between all of them was subtle. One was tall like Agatha. Another was small, like Maria Alacocque. One was stout and red of face, like Alice Joseph. One was stately, like Helen Dolores. What they had in common was merciless devotion to teaching.

In a retrospect I suggest that 30 per cent of the time was given to discipline, 70 per cent to studies. There were no hoodlums nor disorderly persons in class, because the slightest sound or movement other than a cough courted a bird-like attention which presaged minor mayhem.

The youngest students were taught to be clean and composed. For the girls, this meant hair combed and ribboned, a starched dress or a skirt and blouse. For the boys it meant a jacket, shirt and tie.

We were given lined pads and pens. We made endless circular tunnels on even lines. We executed slanted upright strokes. This was done to insure legible handwriting. It endured endlessly. We hated every moment of it.

There was no appeal. To be admonished to be whacked with ruler or pointer was considered a matter of justice. Sometimes we ran home weeping.

There were two kinds of parents. Those who listened to the story and spanked the child for disobedience. And those who hurried to the teacher to complain. Sister Rose Patricia would explain the relationship between the laying on of hands and successful life to come. If that didn't work, she advised the parents to transfer the child to another school.

It became apparent in the third grade that there was nothing on earth powerful enough to stop the nuns from jamming lessons into our heads. We were going to learn to write legibly. We were going to learn to add and subtract small sums. We were going to learn to spell. We were going to understand that George Washington, with a rag tag army of undemourished farmers, did indeed accept the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. We were given to understand that, no matter how we turned in the class aisle, Canada was north, Mexico south, Europe to the east and Asia to the west.

All they cared about were the fundamentals. We were taught our prayers, our religion, about sin, tolerance for others, and punishment. We were doomed if we did this, touched that, stole a trinket, or disobeyed our parents. It was a non-win situation lasting eight years.

The black swans expected, when they dumped us out in the direction of the nearest high school, that we would lead our classes. We were their blotters. They had broken their lives and their hearts on us, and our future as physicians and attorneys and engineers occasioned no surprise.

And yet, in a shy way, we became their men and women. Later in life, some returned to class reunions to say hello. In the interim, the nuns became smaller, diffident, murmuring, "Oh, my, oh, my," when they saw the student's children.

They were always sure of their reward. It was at the end of a long road of faith. They believed when the rest of us were doubting. And if they feared for our safety, they prayed for us and didn't mention it.

I grew up to love one. God knows, and He may be the only one — how old she is. She is Sister Maria Alacocque. She taught me in the third grade. A note arrived from her yesterday. She and seven others were astounded that I had a career, a calling, "Jim," she writes, "do keep up the good work. I love your writings on Big John. He was wonderful!"

Forget the religious aspects. By God, they were teachers.

Ford's Popularity on Uptrend Since Dec. '75

By George Gallup
PRINCETON, N.J. — President Ford's job performance rating has increased to 50 per cent approval in the latest nationwide survey and is 11 points higher than his rating in December.

The uptrend in the President's approval score has coincided with growing public optimism regarding the economy. A recent nationwide survey shows 49 per cent of the public believing the economic situation will improve during the next six months, compared to 28 per cent who think it will worsen. These findings represent a nearly complete reversal of economic expectations since a survey conducted last fall.

In the December popularity measurement, a greater proportion disapproved (46 per cent) than approved (39 per ent). That approval figure was only two points above the President's low point to date — 37 per cent approval, recorded in January and March 1975.

In subsequent surveys in January of the current year, however, the weight of opinion shifted to the approval side. Here is the question asked since Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration to measure presidential popularity: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Here's the recent trend in Ford's popularity:

| Ford Popularity | Disapprove | Approve | No Opinion |
|----------------------|------------|---------|------------|

The latest results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,262 adults, 18 and older, in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Feb. 27-March 1.

Solar Mirrors for Oil . . a Cooperative Venture

It's no secret that, to me, our vying with the Russians in mastering space flights has been an unholy waste. The hypothesis on which I based this reaction was, it was a military-inspired undertaking, disguised as a good fun competition in science to make the billions upon billions it cost more palatable to us voters.

Well, it was Darwin who said — and I once took for my motto — "I shall steadily endeavor to give up any hypothesis, however much beloved, once facts are shown to be opposed to it."

And now I've come on the writings of one Gerald K. O'Neill, qualified as professor of physics at Princeton University who, making his case for the generation of energy in space, states it was fact that mirrors, orbiting to concentrate 24 hours a day of sunlight on thermal generators whatever they are) can transmit the energy they produce straight down to us on Earth, in the form of microwaves which can be converted economically to electricity.

What makes all this impressive is Professor O'Neill's calmly put statement that no new technology is needed to accomplish this miracle — which could provide the whole spinning world with enough pollution-free energy to fulfill all its needs — for as long as we and our mirror satellites orbit the Sun itself.

So maybe a Darwinian advised re-thinking on the usefulness of space exploration is in order.

What dampens the sudden rush of optimism to the head about O'Neill's dizzying prospects is the scale of the effort involved in their accomplishment. It is so obviously of such magnitude that it would take not a whole country's — even ours or Russia's — but the whole civilized world's cooperation. If we are in grim short supply of energy, it seems right now that our shortage of freedom of thought and cooperation of effort to use it benignly is in even shorter. The more obvious the need, the less it seems to impress those whose understanding of it is the most vital.

But if it is truly true that the energy from the sun can be concentrated by orbiting satellites — like those already in practical use in our communicating system — and transmitted by microwave, maybe — just maybe — as the inevitable energy crunch becomes even more obvious than it is, the human race will come to see that only cooperation can insure its survival.

Ron's Reviving Strength

The last radio news I caught before they hauled me off to the operating room for some minor surgery was that Ronald Reagan had won the Republican primary in North Carolina by a 52-46 per cent margin. It was a buoyant thought: The nice guy of the New Hampshire primary, who had let his opponent distort his stand on Social Security, had finally taken the gloves off and reversed what might have become a dangerous trend.

The vote caught the more careless and the better-known "experts" flat-footed. But it was not unforeseen: The day before the primary I talked with Tom Winter, the editor of the conservative Washington weekly Human Events. Tom, who knows a hawk from a handsaw, said he was extremely hopeful for Reagan in North Carolina.

Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser, who headed the Ford Committee, had taken it a bit easy. But Republican U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms had worked like a whole team of dogs for Reagan. Finding a great discrepancy between the words and deeds of the Ford Administration in foreign and military policy at a time when the Communists are threatening to dominate the entire continent of Africa, Reagan got himself what looks to become a really significant issue.

Reagan, distinctly, is not through. North Carolina proved that he has the "Southern strategy" working for him. Ostensibly this strategy failed him in Florida, but Florida has its "Northern" element, the old people, refugees from Michigan and Ohio winters who get nervous whenever Social Security is mentioned, even by critics whose aim is to save a faltering system from inflation and bankruptcy.

Speaker Needed

If Reagan had had a Sen. Helms in his corner in Florida to keep pointing out the fact that Castro, with a Soviet submarine base at his disposal and armies to throw about the world, was only 90 miles distant from Key West, Ford might not have drawn first blood in what the chic sociologists are now calling the Southern Rimland, which is the fastest growing section of the country. What is truly noteworthy is that North Carolina is a solid part of the Rimland that stretches from Norfolk, Va., all the way around to the Santa Clara region of California.

Reagan doesn't stand to do brilliantly in Wisconsin (though he may surprise some people there in a state that permits primary crossovers), and he is up against it in Nelson Rockefeller's home state of New York. But the big showdowns will come in Texas and in California, with their huge blocs of delegates and electoral votes. Then there are the smaller caucus states of the South and the Southwest.

Ford may squeak through, but he will have to do better than make a few speeches telling the country the U.S. is not really Number Two in military preparedness. The obvious truth is that we have slipped to Number Two insofar as an ability to wage conventional war is concerned. And it is this kind of war that counts in a world that is too fearful of atomic warfare to allow it to become unleashed.

Missing Policy

Ford is bound to have trouble in Texas because he hasn't been able to deliver an oil and gas policy that would make it profitable for drillers to go to work. On top of that, the whole of the Southern Rimland is more defense-minded than the Northeast and the Middle West. Finally, as Lee Edwards has pointed out in a recent issue of The Right Report, Texas' John Connally, though he has not endorsed Reagan, has been attacking Sen. John Tower for suggesting that Reagan should drop out of the race in the interests of Republican "harmony."

If Reagan stops, said Connally, "it will cast a pall on Republicans and all you'll hear for the next four months before the party conventions will be Democrats." If the "real peace through real strength" theme served Reagan so well in North Carolina, why doesn't Gov. George Wallace pick up the issue for himself in his future encounters with Jimmy Carter?

Carter was in Adm. Hyman Rickover's early atomic submarine program, but he seems ashamed to mention his naval career, probably fearing that he might estrange the McGovernites to his left in the Democratic Party.

Why doesn't Wallace ask Carter to come clean on his proposals, if any, for keeping America strong enough to force Castro's foreign legion to return home? If foreign and military policies are to be determining factors in the campaign, the medicine that revived Reagan might revive Wallace as well.

Cricket Cracks Conference

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Efforts by the newly independent English-speaking Caribbean nations to meet the world as a unified bloc have shattered on the shoals of Cuban intervention in Angola and policy toward African white supremacy governments.

A recent Commonwealth Caribbean summit conference in Port of Spain broke up in rancor after the heads of government could find no meeting of the minds on the foreign questions which currently carry the most emotional dynamite in the region.

The specific questions on the agenda were assistance to Mozambique to help weather the economic jolt of closing its borders with white-ruled Rhodesia; recognition of the Marxist government of Angola, and whether Commonwealth Caribbean citizens should be allowed to participate in sports in South Africa.

Observers said Jamaica and Guyana were pitted against Trinidad and Barbados, a brand-new alignment for the "big four" nations of the Caribbean Community and Common Market (Carco), a two-year-old territorial pact which calls for a common foreign policy, among other unifying measures.

Jamaica and Guyana, which have already recognized the Soviet and Cuban supported government of Angola, declined to discuss the questions of aid to Mozambique and sports participation in South Africa as separate matters.

Jamaican Prime Minister Michael Manley and Guyana Prime Minister Forbes

Burnham insisted those topics must be included in an overall discussion of policy toward Africa, including recognition by Barbados and Trinidad of the Angola government.

Trinidad Prime Minister Eric Williams balked, declining to deviate from his government's policy of withholding recognition of any new government until it is recognized by the United Nations.

Williams and his Barbados counterpart, Errol Barrow, had both refused Cuba permission to use their territory to refuel planes carrying troops to Angola, although the Barbados government discovered what Cuba was up to only after a number of airlift planes already had refueled there over a period of several weeks.

Both nations based their refusal on their policies of neutrality among the various factions battling in Angola.

The Guyana government has denied that it has permitted Cuban troop planes to refuel there, but Burnham has said publicly that if Cuba asked for such permission, he would be sympathetic with the request.

Manley has also expressed sympathy for Cuban help to the Communist-backed faction in the Angola civil war.

These differences within the bloc were well known, but what surprised observers was that the heads of government allowed them to interfere with their traditional unity on the Mozambique question.

There has always been consensus among the leaders of the four nations that financial and material help must be given Mozambique to encourage it to cut off Rhodesia's trading routes with the outside world and help bring down the Ian Smith government. The Caribbean bloc led the successful campaign at last year's Commonwealth summit conference in Jamaica to get the entire 34-nation Commonwealth committed to the Mozambique aid policy.

But, observers said, the Mozambique question apparently was tainted with a bitterness which can only be aroused when it comes to sports, and particularly cricket.

A Barbados cricketer recently was refused permission to play in Guyana because he had played in South Africa. The Barbados team backed their player and went home, and the Barbados government backed the team.

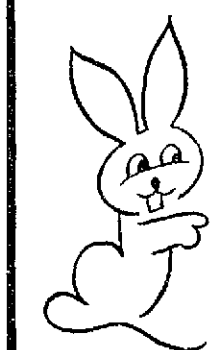

The Commonwealth Caribbean had agreed some time ago to boycott sports events in South Africa and those in which South Africa participated. But the Barbados government took the position that the cricketer involved played there on his own behalf, not as a representative of Barbados, and that it would be an undue violation of his civil rights to bar him from playing in the Caribbean. Jamaica backed the Guyana position that boycotts with exceptions are no boycotts at all.

In the final analysis, it was cricket, observers said, that sent the Commonwealth Caribbean heads of government storming home from the meeting and dealt a new blow to the region's march toward unity.

Ray Wants New Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—James Earl Ray flashed a trace of a smile when he was asked the question through the bars of a dark cell barely large enough to hold his slender frame.

Why was he willing to risk the electric chair in a new trial rather than hope for an early parole?

"You've never been in prison, have you?" replied the man serving a 99-year sentence for the 1968 sniper slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

If Ray merely serves out his term, he will be eligible for parole 22 years from now. His sentence officially is scheduled to end April 29, 1979.

Ray receives no special treatment in Tennessee State Penitentiary. He spends his days working in the laundry or lying silently in his dingy cell with his face toward the wall.

According to Memphis attorney Robert Livingston, Ray may be the target of violence from others secretly responsible for King's assassination. "I think he's in some danger," Livingston said recently. "Ray spoke up (about a conspiracy) in 1969, but they all chose to ignore him."

King was shot by a sniper as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis motel eight years ago. Ray originally pleaded guilty to the crime with the understanding he would escape the electric chair by doing so.

Now he claims lawyer Percy Foreman coerced him into the plea and that he did not pull the trigger on the rifle said to have been the murder weapon.

Ray consistently has refused to talk with reporters. But one recent day he reluctantly interrupted a nap to discuss an upcoming ruling by Cincinnati's 6th Circuit Court of Appeals that could allow him to stand trial.

HSA Meet At UCCC

STONE RIDGE—There will be a meeting of the Hudson Valley Health Services Agency, Sub-Area Council, at 7 tonight in the Quimby Auditorium in John Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The public is invited to attend this meeting where officers will be elected and proposed by-laws will be discussed.

The council's membership is composed of consumers and provider of health services. The council's temporary chairman is Robert T. Brown, president of UCCC, who is first vice-president of the 30-member Hudson Valley Health Systems Agency.

Seniors Screening

KINGSTON—There will be a senior citizens screening and counseling session for residents of Broadway East and Rondout Gardens Apartments and the surrounding Rondout and Ponkhookie neighborhoods Tuesday.

The session, from 9 to noon, will be sponsored by the Ulster County Health Department at the Rondout Gardens Administration Building.

Screening tests offered for senior citizens will be blood pressure, hemoglobin, and urine. Those coming for tests are requested to bring a urine specimen with them.

Rep. Fish Was There

WASHINGTON—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., R-25th Dist. was present and voting at 95.6 per cent of all recorded votes in the House of Representatives in 1975, it was announced recently.

The Millbrook lawmaker, who spends nearly every week-end in his congressional district is ranked among the high-attendance representatives.

BEING the same premises conveyed to Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, the parties of the first part here to, by Charles Muller and Adele Muller, by deed bearing date September 23, 1947 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on September 9, 1949 in Book No. 743 of Deeds at page 453.

Parcel II above described abjoins Parcel I on the north-easterly corner and together they form one parcel of land. The seventh course of Parcel I above described as 590.78 feet is the same as the fourth course of Parcel II and is described in Parcel II as 589.96 feet. The difference in the measurement appears to arise by reason of an error in one of the surveys. The difference in bearings arises from the fact that the descriptions are taken from different surveys.

Parcel I above described is shown on a survey and map made by Boyd E. Allen, dated June 1956, as revised July 15, 1957, entitled "Herman Karl Knaust, Saugerties, Ulster County, New York", which map is herewith filed, and Parcels I and II are shown on a composite map entitled, "Map of 'Stroomzeil', Herman & Katharine Knaust (formerly J.G.M. Hillon), Saugerties, N.Y.", which map is herewith filed.

SUBJECT: however, to the rights granted to Charles Muller the use of the aforementioned 20 foot road described in Parcel I and as set forth in a deed given by Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, to Charles Muller, bearing date September 23, 1947 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office October 4, 1949 in Book No. 746 of Deeds at page 88.

RESERVING, however, to the parties of the first part, their heirs and assigns, the right to use the 20 foot road described in Parcel I for all purposes of ingress and egress to other lands of said parties of the first part, including the right to use the same for the installation of utility services.

BEING the same premises conveyed by Herman Knaust and Katharine M. Knaust, his wife, to Herman Karl Knaust and Elizabeth L. Knaust, his wife by deed dated July 22, 1957 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on July 26, 1957 in Book 1007 of Deeds at page 596.

A Surprise For Everyone Except Catfish

By UPI

Jim Hunter, the New York Yankees' $2.8-million pitcher, looks ready to "go long" despite the short training season.

Hunter surprised just about everybody except himself Sunday when he allowed one run and six hits in seven innings as the Yankees bombed Jim Palmer and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 9-3.

He is slated to pitch the Yankees' opening game of the American League season on April 8 and is physically able to pitch nine innings despite the shortened training program created by the dispute between the clubowners and the Major League Players Association.

"There's really no secret about it," Hunter said Sunday revealing his secret. "I worked out at home for the first time in my career. Usually I don't pick up a ball between the end of one season and the start of spring training."

"But," he went on, "this spring was something different. I knew I'd have to do something on my own if I was to be ready for the opener."

Hunter, who had a 23-14 record in the first year of his record five-year contract with the Yankees last season, walked none and struck out four. Both he and the Yankees were most pleased with the pinpoint control — the key to his pitching success — which he displayed.

The Orioles weren't unduly concerned with the poor effort by 23-game winner Palmer, who was tagged for 14 hits and seven runs in six innings, because he pitched with a knot in his side.

"I was willing to take him out at any time," said Manager Earl Weaver. "But we weren't worried about the fact he was being hit. We just wanted him to get in his pitching time and he did."

Mickey Rivers, the former California Angel who is enjoying a fine spring, led the Yankees with four hits and a sacrifice fly while Roy White, Oscar Gamble, Ron Blomberg, Willie Randolph and Jim Mason had two hits each.

On other fronts:

Nolan Ryan struck out eight batters in six innings, allowing five hits and three runs in the Angels' 3-3 tie with the Los Angeles Dodgers. Tommy John, attempting a comeback with the Dodgers, allowed one run and five hits in six innings...John Mayberry and Fran Healy had three hits each as the Kansas City Royals whipped the Atlanta Braves 8-3.

Denny Doyle's two-run single in the seventh inning snapped a 5-5 tie and led the Boston Red Sox to an 11-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Deron Johnson and Fred Lynn hit two-run homers for the Red Sox...Bobby Tolan, Mike Schmidt and Garry Maddox each hit a two-run homer for the Philadelphia Phillies in a 15-9 triumph over the Detroit Tigers...J.R. Richard, Jose Sosa and Ken Forsch combined in a two-hitter as the Houston Astros beat the Minnesota Twins 3-0.

Buddy Bradford and Bob Coluccio homered and Jorge Orta had a two-run double in the Chicago White Sox' 16-1 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals...Del Unser and Joe Torre had three hits each to lead the New York Mets to a 10-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds...The San Diego Padres pounded out 16 hits in defeating the Chicago Cubs 13-3...Gary Matthews and Von Joshua hit two-run homers as the San Francisco Giants beat the Oakland A's 5-3, despite homers by Joe Rudi and Billy Williams...Nate Colbert hit a two-run homer and Pepe Mangual a three-run shot pacing the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 win over the Texas Rangers.

Al Nearly Forgot He Was Ahead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — With Lee Trevino making a furious charge and the gallery cheering him on, Al Geiberger felt like he was trailing when "Super Mex" pulled within one stroke at the 14th hole in the Greater Greensboro Open's final round.

"I had to talk to myself then and say, 'Hey, you're the leader, you're one stroke ahead, settle down,'" said Geiberger.

The tactic worked. On No. 16, the former PGA champion hit a two iron shot to within five feet and sank the putt for a birdie two. Trevino carded a par and that clinched it as both had pars on their last two holes.

Geiberger finished the final round with a three-under-par 68 and ended the tournament $46,000 richer, compliments of his 72-hole total of 268, 16 under par on the 6,643-yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course.

Trevino, who has won 18 tournaments and more than a million dollars in golf, was two strokes back at 270. He finished with a six-under-par 65.

"Lee really put a round to me," said Geiberger, who was playing in the same threesome as Trevino. "He just kept doing it hole after hole."

"I was surprised I held up as well as I did," he said.

Geiberger, who won the PGA championship in 1966 and pushed his career tournament victory total to eight with a couple of victories last season, said he did not play as well Sunday as he did Saturday when he carded his second straight 65. The reason was obvious.

"I was not as loose as I was then," he said. "You tell yourself not to look at the other guy, but when you're right there with him, how can you help it?"

Geiberger, a 38-year-old Californian, also overcame a gallery that seemed strongly in favor of Trevino.

"When they cheered my bogey at No. 8, I knew I was in trouble," he joked. "Lee's fans were loud. I'm sure I have fans out there, but they were quiet ones."

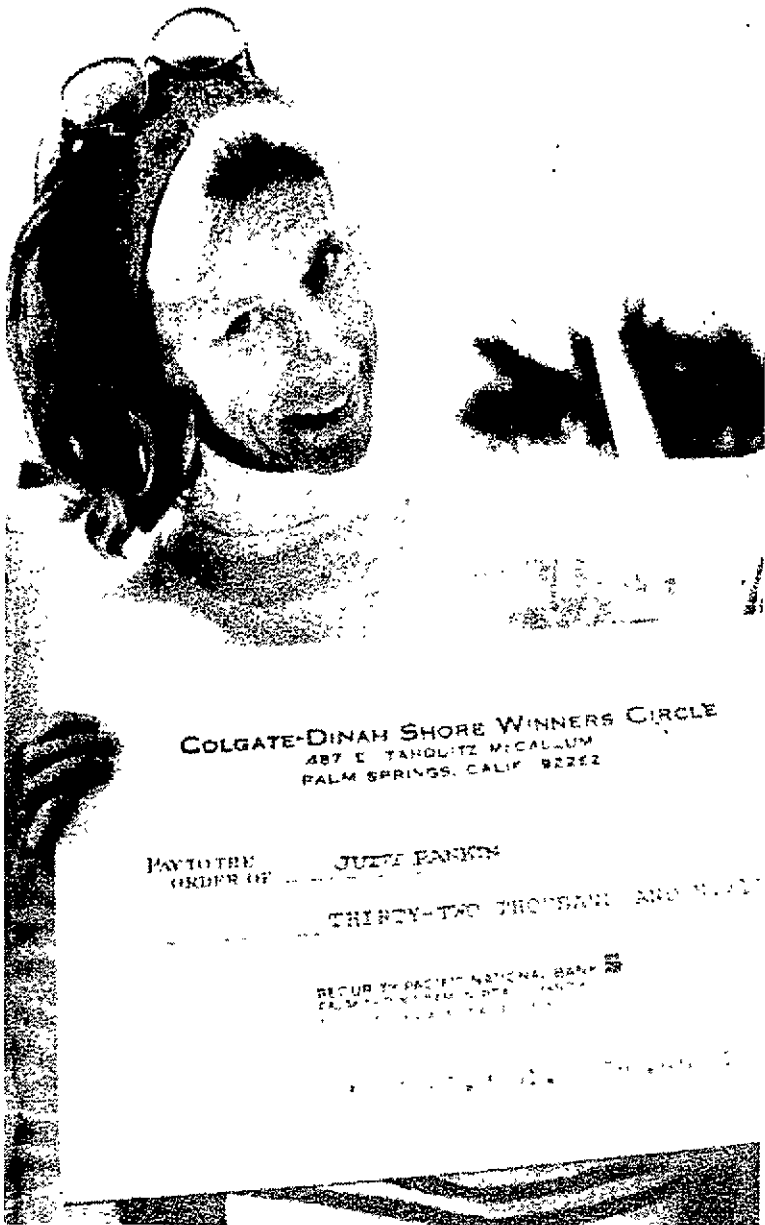

Veteran Miller Barber, a million-dollar winner who celebrated his 45th birthday Wednesday, finished alone in third place after a birdie on 18 gave him a final round 67 and a total of 271, 10 under par.

Reigning U.S. Open champion Lou Graham shot a final round 69 to finish in a tie with George Burns for fourth place at 273. Burns shot a 66 in Sunday's round. Tom Weiskopf, who won the 1975 GGO with Geiberger as runnerup, joined Bob Menne and Eddie Pearce at 274. Weiskopf and Menne had final 69s while Pearce wound up with a 65.

Dave Stockton was alone at 275 after a 68. At 276 were Gene Littler, Victor Regalado, Ron Cerrudo, Stan Lee, Mark Hayes and Mike Hill. Hill had begun the final round in a tie with Barber for runnerup at nine-under-par, but slumped out of contention with a 72.

Geiberger said his iron shot on 16 that set up a birdie was "probably my shot of the tournament," considering the way Trevino was pressing. But his round included some other shining birdies.

He had five birdies and two bogeys in the round. Trevino had five birdies and an eagle against one bogey.

A Proud Moment For Judy Rankin

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — "My son," Judy Rankin said, "used to say that Sandra Haynie was the greatest player in the world and maybe I was next. We'll see what he says now."

Tuey Rankin, 7, was back home at Midland, Tex., Sunday and missed the proudest moment of his mommy's distinguished golfing career.

The former Judy Torluenke walked off with the LPGA's biggest prize—$32,000 and a new car—by ralling from three shots off the pace to win the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Colgate Winners Circle Tournament.

After it was over, Mrs. Rankin nearly broke into tears.

"It really got to me as I was walking off the course," she said. "I guess I cry at happy things sometimes and this was the biggest win of my life. I've been working at golf for 25 years and this was a terrific day."

In her 17th year on the pro golf trail, Mrs. Rankin notched her 17th career win and second of the year to vault to the top of the 1976 LPGA money list with $42,891.

She turned in a four-under-par 68 on a cold and blustery day in the desert and finished three shots ahead of runnerup Betty Burfeindt, who earned $21,000.

In a sport where most of her competition is single, Mrs. Rankin has been able to combine golf and motherhood. Her husband, Walter, who was on hand to see her premier victory, is in the insurance business. Tuey Rankin is their only child.

"It's not always easy being both," she admitted. "But I sort of look at things in a certain order. My family is my forever. That's not to say I don't love what I'm doing and I want to keep doing it."

"But my husband and son are my forever thing. Golf is my work."

The Rankin's took their son out of school to accompany them to the first four tour events this year.

"Traveling is the biggest problem, of course," Mrs. Rankin said. "It wasn't a problem until my son got into school, but it will be a problem from now on."

"I'll just have to skip a few tournaments and Tuey will have to miss a little school. I missed him this week, though. I called him every night on the phone."

Mrs. Rankin said she feels marriage has made her a better player and the statistics back her up. Fifteen of her wins have been recorded since 1970.

"My life is difficult at times," she explained. "But it's more settled this way. I feel my life has a plan. It's decided. When you're young and single, you worry about what you're going to do that evening. I don't worry."

The LPGA trail now is idle until the $80,000 Karsten-King Open at Phoenix, Ariz., April 15-17. A new $200,000 tournament to be played at Calabasas Park Country Club near Los Angeles Sept. 23-26 will be announced at New York today.

Andy Is Shopping

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Andy Messersmith, who may wind up a pitcher without a team when the baseball season opens this week, is currently talking with the San Diego Padres, California Angels and a third unnamed club, but he would most like to hear from a fourth, his agent indicated Sunday.

"We wouldn't mind hearing from Peter O'Malley (Dodger president)," Herb Osmond said in an interview. "The Dodgers would like me to contact them but I haven't done that. We're waiting to hear from them."

"We've had good talks with other teams. Everything is still open."

Messersmith, a 30-year-old right-hander who is one of the few pitchers to boast 20-win seasons in both the American and National Leagues while playing with the Angels and Dodgers, was declared a free agent last Dec. 23.

He returned to his Newport Beach home this weekend following a near contract signing with the New York Yankees in an affair that turned into an embarrassment for both New York and Messersmith.

"Andy is back to his one-man spring training camp at home," Osmond said. "He's glad to be free from the New York situation. He'll just be happy when he gets signed with a team."

The agent confirmed he had been in contact with Padres' President E.J. "Buzze" Bavasi during the weekend, as well as the California Angels.

"I had a call from Osmond today and we discussed terms," said California General Manager Harry Dalton. "But there was nothing really definite. I hope to hear from Osmond again Monday."

In a taped interview on ABC's World of Sports, Bavasi said the Padres were prepared to offer Messersmith "a better deal than anyone in the majors" but would only do so after the all-star pitcher passes a physical examination.

The concern about Messersmith's health apparently stemmed from a report from two scouts, acting independently, who reported to their employers that Messersmith's arm may not be sound.

"There is absolutely no basis in fact for that story," Osmond said. "The last time anybody saw Andy pitch was on Sept. 26, 1975 when he gave up one unearned run and that's where it stands now."

"For someone to say now there is suspicion about the soundness of his arm, one has to suspect that the story was planted. We're trying to run down the sources of that report now. Andy himself says 'there's not a person alive who can say there is something wrong with my arm.'"

Lafleur Returns Ross Trophy to Montreal

By UPI

In 1961, Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion scored 50 goals for the only time in his life and added 45 assists to win the only Art Ross scoring title of his career.

After a 15-year lapse, another member of the high-scoring Montreal Canadiens has won the National Hockey League scoring crown—but it took him a few more points.

Guy Lafleur brought the Art Ross Trophy back to Montreal Sunday when he scored one goal and one assist to boost his season total to 125 points and win the scoring title by six points over Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia.

Lafleur, who is gradually breaking all the club scoring records set by fellow right wings Geoffrion and Maurice "Rocket" Richard, provided the game winning goal in a 4-3 victory over the Washington Capitals when he scored 24 seconds after Yvon Lambert tied the game with 2:17 remaining.

Not only did Lafleur's goal win the game for Montreal, it gave the Canadiens an NHL record 58 victories for the season and, correspondingly, a league record 127 points.

The 127 points assures Montreal the ultimate home ice advantage in the playoffs.

But Montreal will join Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago in taking a week's vacation before beginning the playoffs—a reward for winning their respective divisions. Chicago was the last of the four to clinch its title, beating St. Louis 7-2 Sunday to win the Smythe Division by one point over Vancouver.

In other games, the New York Rangers blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Vancouver downed Kansas City 5-2, Buffalo defeated Toronto 5-2, Pittsburgh nipped Detroit 6-5, Atlanta clipped the New York Islanders 5-2, Boston tied Minnesota 2-2 and California topped Los Angeles 5-2.

The eight other postseason qualifiers will open Stanley Cup play Tuesday night in best-of-three series, being paired by order of points: the most versus the least, second most versus second least and so on.

St. Louis will play at Buffalo, Vancouver will travel to the New York Islanders, Atlanta will be at Los Angeles and Pittsburgh will journey to Toronto.

If a third game is needed in a series, it will be played either Friday or Saturday, depending on the amount of travel time needed by the two paired teams. Two of the series involve coast-to-coast travel, New York-Vancouver and Atlanta-Los Angeles.

The survivors of those encounters plus the four division winners will comprise the quarterfinal round with the pairings again being based on total points.

In the World Hockey Association, Quebec beat Toronto 5-4, Cleveland dropped Cincinnati 6-3, Indianapolis dumped New England 4-2, Houston tripped San Diego 5-2 and Edmonton belted Winnipeg 5-2.

A Mellow Ending For Lowly Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers Sunday finished the season-long celebration of their 50th anniversary—and it was anything but golden.

It was hollow—an empty feeling from an empty season. The Rangers, for the first time in 10 years, failed to qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs, thus ending the longest active string of Cup appearances by any National Hockey League team.

Sunday's wrap-up was a mellow 2-0 victory over the defending Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, who used two goaltenders and every possible line combination in what appeared as much a casual skate as a season finale.

Despite the victory, the Rangers finished in last place of the Patrick Division, 51 points back of Philadelphia. The 29 victories marked the first time since the 1965-66 season New York has won less than 30 games.

The 333 goals this year were the most the Rangers have ever given up and the 262 goals scored was their lowest total since 1970-71.

"I guess if you wanted some consolation for the season, today's game wasn't bad," said New York goaltender John Davidson, who kicked out 38 shots, including 20 in the second period, to record his third shutout of the year.

"But that's all the game was—a small consolation."

The dismal play by the Rangers this season insured another anniversary that the New York team would just as soon forget: it has been 37 seasons since the Rangers last won the Stanley Cup, the longest span of futility by any team.

"A game like this won't affect my plans any," said New York General Manager-Coach John Ferguson, refusing to be snowed into believing he can actually go somewhere next season with the same team.

"I know what I need to win hockey games. It's not a lack of talent. We need a little extra ingredient. Philadelphia, for one, has that ingredient."

insure Kansas City its NHL record 27th consecutive game without a victory. The Scouts won just one game in 1976.

Sabres 5, Maple Leafs 2

Danny Gare scored the hat trick to reach the 50-goal plateau while Buffalo team mate Richard Martin, who was shooting for his third consecutive 50-goal season, was frustrated by Toronto and finished with 49.

Penguins 5, Red Wings 4

Flames 5, Islanders 2

The line of Tom Lysiak, Curt Bennett and Hillard Graves scored three goals to lift Atlanta past the Islanders and snap a string of four straight ties between the two teams.

Bruins 2, North Stars 2

Ken Hodge's goal at 6:52 of the third period capped a two-goal rally and provided Boston the third best record in the league with 113 points.

Black Hawks 7, Blues 2

Golden Seals 5, Kings 2

WHA

Making Plans

What goalie John Garrett and defenseman Jim Turkiewicz of the Toronto Toros are saying to each other during the WHA game is unknown, but since their 5-4 loss to the Quebec Nordiques wiped out the Toros playoff hopes, perhaps they are making plans for their summer vacation that will begin sooner than they would like it to. MONTICELLO—Jasmine Barmin came from behind to squeeze past Lonero and win the $6,000 feature handicap at Monticello Raceway Sunday in 2:03.2.

Wood's 44 Points Pace Lakers' Overtime Win

KINGSTON—Ted Wood racked up 44 points and Joyous Lake needed every one of them in a spectacular double overtime 97-96 squeaker over DeMico Motors in the A division of the YMCA Basketball League.

DeMico's rallied with a 23-20 edge in the fourth quarter to tie the regulation contest at 80-80. Each team scored 10 points in the first overtime period but Joyous Lake ground out a tough 7-6 margin in the second overtime to notch the victory.

Wood hauled in 16 rebounds in addition to his 44 points.

winner to payoffs of $41.40, $12.20 and $5.60. Drum Major N was third. It was the fourth win of the year for Jasmine Barmin who surprised its backers with mutual returns. In the daily double, a 3-2 combination paid $33.60. A crowd of 5,233 bet $527,084.

Joseph Green drove Drum Major to the front early cutting out a .29 3/5 quarter and went to the half in 1:00 3/5, but failed to hold off the furious assault in the final strides.

The matinee 3-5 daily double was made up of Valet Hanover (5.80) and Drums Echo (8.60) combining. The third race trifecta saw We Do Romeo ($6.60) lead home Trotwood Bud and Golden Dreamer for a 4-7-1 triple that cashed in for $300,000.

Still undergoing treatment at Monticello Community General Hospital Sunday was trainer driver George Sadosky, who was injured by a runaway horse on the Saturday night card. Sadosky is being treated for a pinched nerve that is immobilizing his right leg. Two other drivers were treated at the hospital and not held overnight.

Top Prospect

BERLIN (UPI)—Diminutive Russian electrician Alexander Voronin has emerged as a top prospect for Olympic weight lifting laurels in the flyweight category by setting two world records Saturday night at the European weight lifting championships in East Berlin.

Voronin, 25, who only stands 4 feet 9 1/2 inches in his shoes, won the allround flyweight title—snatch and clean-and-jerk combined—with a total of 528 pounds to come within 5.5 pounds of his own world record of 533.5 pounds he set last year. In addition he later posted world records in the two individual events of 238.7 pound in the snatch and 309.1 pound in the clean-and-jerk.

Clarkstown North Wins Section 9 Volleyball

NEW PALTZ—Clarkstown North High School girls volleyball team climaxed a perfect 24-0 season by defeating James I. O'Neill of Highland Falls 15-4, 5-15, 15-8 to capture the 1976 Section Nine Tournament championship at New Paltz High.

The Rockland PSAL champions advanced to the finals by trouncing Port Jervis 15-1 and 15-8 in the quarter finals and Red Hook of the UCL 15-5, 15-11 in the semifinals.

O'Neill, the Orange County League champions, eliminated Fallsburgh 15-6, 10-15 and 15-8 before topping Onteora 15-13 and 15-4 to move into the championship finals.

In Saturday's second round action, Onteora eliminated Marlboro 15-8, 15-4 in an all-UCAL encounter, while Red Hook took out Clarkstown South 13-15, 15-11 and 15-11.

Clarkstown North jumped to a 7-1 lead over sixth-seeded O'Neill in the championship finals but the Highland Falls team rallied to tie the score at 8-8. O'Neill lost its serve and Clarkstown reeled off six straight points to go ahead 14-8. The clincher was provided when Co-Captain Clare Kirby, unaware that O'Neill had used up its two allotted timeouts per match, signaled for a timeout and that cost O'Neill a point and ended the match.

The teams traded decisive wins in the first two games. O'Neill finished its season with a 16-2 record.

Judy Linn, 131 Average, Rolls Career First 603

KINGSTON Judy Linn, a 131 average bowler in the Thursday Afternoon League, wasn't thinking of 600 when she launched her weekly set. After all, 486 had been her highest series to date.

Her first game was a whopping 226. Then came a 201 and it was 427 after two. By that time, she must have had 600 on her mind and knew that it took 176 to do it. She continued right on marking and barely, but barely, spared on the 6-pin in the 10th frame for a career first 603. Of course, she is still looking for that first 500!

Betty Ann Eaton powered 213-577 for second place. Don Minkler powered 649 with 220-231 to lead he Saugerties Rollers where Joe Notarnicola had 221-603, Ted Wiands' 214-629 Percy Russell's 245-620 and Mike Dobbs' 222-609 were tops in Mannie's Barber Shop League.

Jake Crosswell decked 223, 236-651 in the Overlook League at Woodstock Lakes.

Marion Sherman powered 220-553 in the Ladies Independent and Anneliese Kime registered 213-585 in the Thursday Matinee.

There were some hefty totals in the women's Tri Major where Lorraine Ferraro toppled 212-597, Anne Hinkley 201-577, Betty Ann Eaton 203-575 and Arlene Wilson 203-544.

Anne Hinkley unloaded 572 in the Bowlerama Quads, as Barbara Van Keuren added 2-4-563, Karen Woodvine 559 and Gloria Nagle 512-557.

Marianne Szymanski led the women's Junior Major with 210-531.

Upcoming Bus Tour Geared for Train-watching Buffs

BRIDGE 48 ARKVILLE

MIDDLETOWN—If 1974 was a good year for lovers of leisurely railroad travel, 1976 will be a good year for train-watching. And, if it has been a long time since the last steam locomotive of the old O & W Railway puffed its majestic way across our area and out of the world of practical transportation, an upcoming Bus Tour will recall that time.

Gone forever are the days when every little boy's dream was to grow up to be Casey Jones, the man behind the iron horse. The magnetism of those powerful locomotives is gone—but the romance lingers on.

To recall the years of belching clouds of black smoke, wailing whistles, and cinders, the Middletown based Ontario & Western Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society invites one and all to climb aboard its bus tour of the Northern Division of the old O & W Railway on Saturday, April 24. The tour will cover the entire Northern Division in New York from Norwich to Oswego, including the Utica Branch.

To jog memories, the tour will visit all station, creamery and bridge sites, the Peckport Loop, and the existing terminal sites in Oswego. Both scenic and historic, the trip will feature photo stops, live commentary, and a look at the old right-of-way.

Life

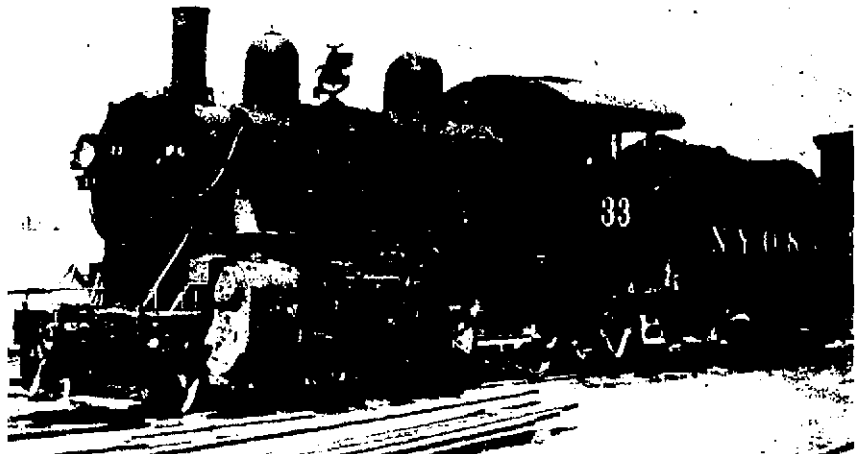

The all-day tour will depart from Norwich's Chenango Inn parking lot at 9 a.m., rain or shine. It will end Saturday evening with an "O & W Nite" for bus trippers at the Chenango County Historical Society building back in Norwich, where slides and films covering the entire O & W Railroad will be shown.

Those who take the trip should also be interested in the "O & W Day" festivities slated for the following day, Sunday, April 25. The day is being sponsored by the Chenango County Historical Society at their headquarters at Norwich. During the day, the O & W Museum will be open; there will be a dedication of two O & W Historical plaques at Norwich to commemorate the ground-breaking ceremonies of the old Oswego & Midland (the O & W's predecessor) more than 100 years ago in Norwich in 1868.

Round trip tickets for the motor bus tour (for which as many sections as needed will be run) are $16 each. Deadline for reservations on the first bus is April 17, and anyone interested should make checks or money orders payable to: O & W Chapter, Inc., N.R.H.S., P.O. Box 713, Middletown, N.Y. 10940.

The tour is the sixth in a series run by the railroad historical group. A previous tour brought bus trippers into the Kingston area when participants visited the Port Jervis, Monticello and Kingston Branch.

FLEISCHMANN'S FREIGHT HOUSE

Fund Raising Project Set To Feed and Clothe Orphans

NEW PALTZ—For the past four years, a group has been working to help feed and clothe children housed in the orphanage co-founded by Dr. Thomas A. Dooley III and Madame Vu Thi Ngai, director, in South Korea. Known as An Lac Supporters, they will continue to assist the Tom Dooley Heritage, Inc., in New York, but under a new name—the New Paltz Chapter of Tom Dooley Heritage, Inc. The An Lac orphanage closed in April of last year.

The Dooley organization funded An Lac and several other orphanages in South Vietnam. Now the emphasis of the organization will be to raise funds for a hospital to be built as a living memorial to Dr. Dooley.

Dr. Dooley's short life was spent serving the people of Southeast Asia. In 1945 he was involved in the Passage to Freedom when the Geneva Conference allowed people to leave North Vietnam at the close of the Indochina War.

A Navy man, he was chosen for the assignment because he was fluent in French. Before the program was finished, he was in complete charge of setting up facilities to handle the refugees and give them medical assistance. At the close of his introduction to a mass of humanity who, as one of his corpsmen put it, "ain't got it so good," Dr. Dooley decided he would return to Southeast Asia and take "19th Century medicine to a 15th Century area"—the upper reaches of Laos near the Chinese border. Dr. Dooley worked in the area until he died in 1961. He was only 34 years old.

The new hospital will not have all the trappings of an American hospital but it will be adequate and will be what Dr. Dooley would have wanted, the local committee indicates. Site location will be announced.

The first fund raising project for the New Paltz Chapter will be the sale of luncheon napkins. Details may be obtained from Mrs. Sandi DiDonna in the Kingston area, and Mrs. Maureen Burke in New Paltz.

NEW PALTZ — Thursday, April 8, is National Food Day. The observance is intended to focus national attention on critical worldwide food issues. On that date, people all over the country will gather together to study and discuss the problems and possible solutions.

In New Paltz, the film "Diet for a Small Planet" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building, Room 418, on the college campus. The film is presented as a public service by the Real Food Store, under the sponsorship of the Student Christian Center.

"Diet for a Small Planet," based on the best-selling book of the same name by Frances Moore Lappe, is a film about one of the most important topics of our time, the need to reduce our meat intake in order to free more protein for the world's starving peoples, and at the same time, how to get good quality protein from non-meat sources. The film features Author F.M. Lappe and Dr. Kendall King, nutritionist/biochemist.

In the film, three main topics will be explored: 1) the nutrition of protein; what it is, why we need it, and how we can get it; 2) the ecological cost of meat protein; the U.S. and Europe as a protein drain; 3) cooking with complementary proteins, preparation of dishes that exemplify the three main combinations of non-meat foods which produce high quality complete protein.

"Diet for a Small Planet" shows audiences who wish to explore the world of non-meat foods that an exciting culinary adventure lies ahead of them, one that will save them money and at the same time make better use of the earth's bountiful harvest.

The film is in color and is 28 minutes long. All are invited. There is no admission charge.

Local LWV Participates In Conference

SAUGERTIES — Delegates from the Saugerties League of Women Voters attended the recent 38th Annual Legislative Conference in Albany, heard Governor Hugh L. Carey address the opening session, met with Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, and heard an explanation from Dr. Donna Shilala of Columbia University on Municipal Assistance Corp. (Big Mac).

Representing the local group were Mrs. Joseph LaSusa, Mrs. Roy Ohno and Mrs. Robert Finger. More than 400 delegates from various parts of New York State attended the two-day conference.

In his address, Gov. Carey dealt with his budget which reflected an indirect attempt to influence the legislators who were considering it, according to one of the delegates. He described it as being "not a budget any longer but a prospectus," needed to impress the investment community whose cooperation is necessary to the State's economic recovery. In Carey's view, the budget is a document providing long overdue retrenchment accompanied by "reorganization to provide better delivery of services."

Carey said local governments should be prepared to provide their own share of such retrenchment in order for the State to regain a sound financial base.

Dr. Shilala, who is associate professor of politics and education at Columbia, gave background information on New York City's fiscal crisis as well as the State's current situation and its implications for human services. She emphasized "the new era of scarcity and the accompanying politics of scarcity." She stated "if new programs are wanted, we must be willing to delete some of the old programs."

Senator Edwyn Mason was unable to meet with the delegates but Assemblyman Hinchey discussed LWV concerns that are immediately before the Legislature.

These issues included legislation which would allow the appearance on the primary ballot of the presidential preferences of candidates for delegates to nominating conventions; maintenance in the budget of present levels for home relief recipients; and opposition to attempts at rescission of New York's ratification of the Federal Equal Rights Amendment.

The League also expressed strongly its support for prompt implementation of the provisions of the State Environmental Quality Review Act.

Saugerties LWV delegates also learned more about legislative procedures and how they really work when Al Abrams, secretary to the Senate since 1963, and Peg Breen, reporter for the weekly television program, "Inside Albany," addressed everyone at dinner.

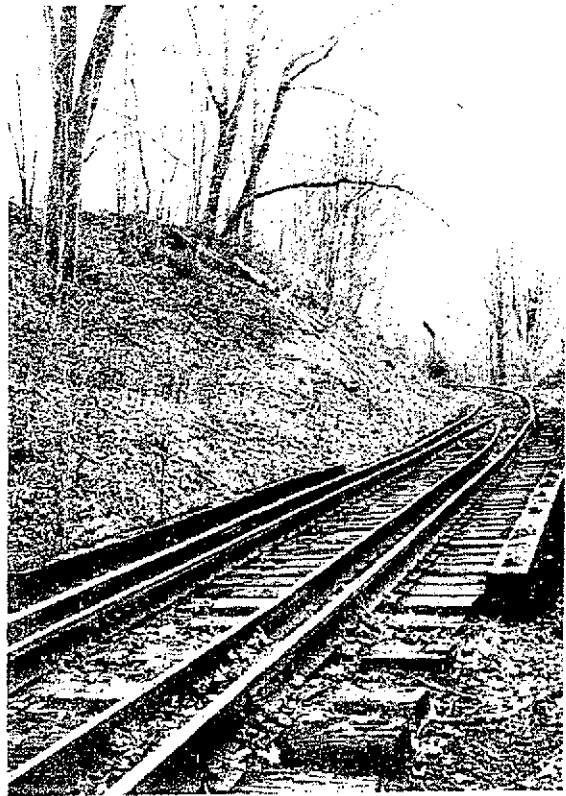

To Avoid Tennis Elbow

To avoid "tennis elbow," use a steel or aluminum racket and develop a two-handed backhand stroke, according to James D. Priest, MD.

In a study of 231 "average-caliber" players at the Palo Alto Tennis Club, in California, of the more than half who exhibited symptoms, 75 per cent were using rackets made of wood at the onset. Eleven players who were free of symptoms used the two-handed backhand stroke. One player who had had typical tennis elbow when doing the backhand one-handed switched to two hands and the problem disappeared.

Dr. Priest, now practicing in Minneapolis, points out that these results will have to be confirmed in a larger sample of players.

Film Discussion Scheduled

NEW PALTZ—A program of film and discussion will be featured at the first April event of the Tuesday Evening Concert Series at State University College at New Paltz. "Music from Europe: Past and Present" will be presented in the multi-purpose room of the Student Union Building at 8:30 p.m. on April 6.

The films are about Ludwig von Beethoven and the iconoclastic contemporary composer Karlheinz Stockhausen. The film about Beethoven is an amusing commemoration of the 200th anniversary of his birth. Stockhausen will be represented by a film of one of his most important works, "Momente."

Composers Richard Wilson of Vassar College and Gundaris Pone of New Paltz will share their insights about Beethoven, Stockhausen and related topics. Lance Premezzi will act as moderator, and participation of the audience is invited. The program is open to the public without charge.

Recital Wednesday at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE—Dutch Soprano Elly Ameling, with Dalton Baldwin at the piano, will give a recital in Skinner Recital Hall, Vassar College Wednesday, April 7 at 8:30 p.m. Since her American debut at Lincoln Center in 1968, Miss Ameling has made annual tours of this country and Canada. In New York City, she has appeared in Lincoln Center's Mostly Mozart Festival in Alice Tully Hall and in concert at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Pianist Baldwin studied at the Oberlin Conservatory and the Juillard School of Music. He has been Miss Ameling's accompanist since 1970.

Open House at Nursery School

KINGSTON—Open house at Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School was held today from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and will also take place Monday April 12 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Parents and children are invited to tour the school and learn about creative programs-in-action. The school will be offering both morning and afternoon three day sessions for the 1976-77 school year.

Mrs. Sharon Slotnick, teacher, heads the cooperative school which offers non-sectarian enrollment for three and four year olds. Visitors are welcome any time classes are in session.

Detailed information may be obtained by contacting Suzanne Eichhorn or Tom Phillips.

Bicentennial Quilt Slides

ROSENDALE—A slide program highlighting the Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt is scheduled to be shown in St. Peter's School on April 28.

Mrs. Hildegard Pleva, one of 42 women who created the quilt, will narrate the presentation in colonial costume.

The presentation was prepared with an aim to appeal to school, civic and social groups interested in meaningful, grassroots efforts to celebrate America's birthday.

During the month of May, the quilt will be exhibited along with an outstanding collection of antique and modern quilts in the Visual Arts Gallery, Vanderlyn Hall, Ulster County Community College.

Histroical Tour Scheduled

ROSENDALE—The Woman's Club of Rosendale is planning a historical tour October 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Planned in cooperation with the Historical Preservation Group of Rosendale, the tour will include old homes, Andrew Synder plants and historical sites in the area.

Buses will leave from Sportsmen's Park to the various locations. Public is invited to participate.

Members on the arrangements include Joan Zackeo, chairman, Emma Pezzello, president, Mrs. Bernadette Rabutlo, vice president.

A meeting of the club has been called for April 8.

DAR Rummage Sale

KINGSTON—Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, is planning to sponsor a rummage sale at the Crown Street Chapter House.

Sale dates will be: Wednesday, April 7, 5:30-8:30 p.m.; Thursday, April 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Friday, April 9, 9:30 a.m. to 12 o'clock.

Hamlet Theatre Sets Auditions

WEST HURLEY—The Hamlet Theatre on Route 28A, West Hurley, will hold open auditions for its June production of "The Painting" by Eugene Ionesco and "Picnic on the Battlefield" by Fernando Arrabal, during the week of April 5. Roles are available for two actresses and five actors. Those interested in auditioning should contact the theatre.

Classic Play at Paltz

NEW PALTZ—"Waiting for Godot," Samuel Beckett's classic play, will be presented at SUNY Sunday, April 11 at 8 p.m. Directed by Frank Kraat of the New Paltz Theatre Arts Department, the play is an important addition to the series of events at the college attending the 70th birthday of the Nobel Prize winning playwright.

Two films on Beckett's works, "The Goats," a mime for two players, and "Beginning to End," a dramatic interpretation of writings by him, will be seen on Monday, April 12.

"Eh Joe," the film rendition of a play originally written for BBC television, Beckett's only venture into film, starring Buster Keaton, and "Waiting for Godot," can be seen on Tuesday, April 13.

Both film offerings begin at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Center 100. There is no admission charge.

Garage, Plant Sale

RED HOOK—The Red Hook Chapter of American Field Service International Scholarships will hold a garage and plant sale Saturday, May 8 at the home of Mai Field, Route 9 North, Red Hook.

Funds raised at his sale will be used to bring a foreign student to Red Hook for the 1976-77 school year.

Cheese, Wine and Fun At Grist Mill Benefit

SAUGERTIES—It was cheese, wine and fun recently at the fourth annual fund raising event given by Little Sawyer Association for the restoration of the Grist Mill.

More than 200 gathered for the event made complete with colorful fruits, variety of breads, crackers and the music of Chuck Misasi of "Taste of

Honey."

Acting wine steward was William Ashmore, chairman of the event, while John Schauer assisted and Edward and Karen Jabs took care of the cheese board.

Little Sawyer Association members assisting with the event were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braitling, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cyr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fous, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greco, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Helmsmueller, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Loop, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaSusa, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McColi, Mrs. James Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Redder, the Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy Seuss and the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Shepherd.

Rev. Shepherd pours for William Ashmore, chairman of the fund raiser for the past four years.

Ericka Hinchey, wife of Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, in an animated conversation with Joan Zuckerman.

Foreign Language Week Set

KINGSTON—Governor Hugh L. Carey has officially proclaimed the week of April 4-10 as Foreign Language Week and Charles H. Beckwith, supervisor of foreign languages at Kingston School consolidated, is coordinating the program for the Hudson Region which includes Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Sullivan, Columbia, Greene, and Ulster Counties.

The national observance is sponsored here by the New York State Association of Foreign Language Teachers and this year's theme is, "Cultural Pluralism: The Strength of our Nation."

Foreign language students will be coordinating programs at Kingston High School and Myron J. Michaels, to include food tasting projects, plays, fairs, exhibits, folk dancing among others.

Posters have been distributed throughout the schools and NYSAFET has provided a light touch in one of them. It features King Kong cradling an anguished Faye Wray who is saying, "If only I could speak your language." The poster is also being used to call attention to individual schools' Foreign Language Week activities.

Bumper stickers, also being sorted around the state, bear the message "Kiss me, I'm bilingual."

Spring Concert

Kingston High School Orchestra presents its Annual Spring Concert Tuesday, April 6 at 8 p.m. in the school's auditorium. Featured during the musical evening will be the Kingston High School String Quartet composed of violinists Barbara Barz and Betty Larvasso, cellist Elissa Johanson, and Greg Barz, viola. Tickets are available to the public from all orchestra members in advance or at the door the night of the concert.

Palm Sunday Concert Slated

KINGSTON—The Mid-Hudson Madrigal Society, Inc., and a guest orchestra composed of local musicians, under the direction of Dr. Richard Olsen, will bring a memorable program of seasonal music to Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston, this Palm Sunday, April 11, at 8 p.m.

Works will include two pieces by Heinrich Schutz, a Kyrie by J.C. Bach, two movements from a Haydn symphony, featuring flautist Melissa Sweet, and a Handel trio sonata with oboists

Martin Leskow and Kathy Karlson, cellist Clare Meher, and harpsichordist Barbara Pickhardt.

J.S. Bach's Canata No. 4, "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison," begins with a driving first verse, features a haunting duet between soprano and alto sections in the second verse, and moves on to an affirmative choral conclusion, in spirit with approaching Easter.

Tickets are available in advance from Madrigal Society members and Holy Cross Church, or may be purchased at the door.

Arts Program Cut—But Not Crippled

NEW YORK—When the ax finally fell, it was not with the devastating whack many had feared. Still it was more than just a glancing blow—and as a result of the slash, both the New York State Council on the Arts and local arts groups will have to tighten their belts.

The State Legislature had been expected to cut the State Council on the Arts' budget from $30 million to $20 million. The $10 million slash would have had a crippling impact, since a record number of arts groups are expected by the Council to request state aid by the April 19 deadline for 1976-77 applications. Instead, during the fiscal year that began April 1, the men in Albany voted a grants budget to the Council of $27,350,000, a decrease of $2,650,000 from the $30 million recommended by Gov. Hugh

L. Carey. Additionally, the Council's administrative budget was cut nearly 10 per cent from $1,513,000 to $1,373,000, with seven professional jobs cited for elimination.

Notes Joan K. Davidson, Council chairman, "The 1976-77 grants budget is $2.7 million less than the budget of the year just ending (1975-76) and $6.8 million less than that of two years ago (1974-75)."

Mrs. Davidson considers the cut a significant reduction in our appropriation, says her group is at work on an intensive study of how best to distribute our diminished funds during the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Adds Mrs. Davidson, "Things cannot be the same as they were—either for the Council or for the hundreds of arts groups around the state whose financial needs and expectations now must inevitably be disappointed."

Among those groups are a considerable number in Ulster County to which more than $130,000 was appropriated during 1975-76.

The Council is endeavoring, says Mrs. Davidson, to figure out the most responsible and effective way of using our scaled-down appropriation to sustain the state's cultural resources. She notes that any policy changes resulting from the study will be made public as soon as the full Council has determined them.

Rising costs and increased demand beset arts groups across the state, Mrs. Davidson says. Established institutions are in financial straits and so are small and medium-sized groups in all disciplines. Sadly, the astonishing growth of the arts throughout the state—exemplified by the local arts council movement—was not reflected in the growth of state aid for the coming fiscal year. (Ulster County recently established its own local arts council with a grant of $18,000.)

In addition to its grants budget, other elements of the Council's 1976-77 legislation call for distribution of 35 cents per person in each county down from 75 cents per person in 1975-76. The legislation continues to mandate 50 per cent of all Council funds to be given to primary organizations.

"While the Council will have far less money next year, its concern for artists and arts organizations will remain as strong as ever," Mrs. Davidson said. "The agency will stretch its funds, continue to provide technical assistance, and help in all ways possible to preserve the arts contribution to the state's economy and to its spirit."

Paltz Dancer-Writer's Letters in New Volume

NEW PALTZ—Many readers of this paper may remember seeing Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and their Denishawn Dancers back in the twenties when these pioneers brought the first American modern dance to audiences across the U.S. They may therefore be interested to learn that now one of the few living Denishawn Dancers has written a book about her experiences fifty years ago as a member of that world famous group.

Entitled Soring: The Diary and Letters of A Denishawn Dancer in the Far East 1925-1926, it is by Jane Sherman, wife of retired schoolteacher and composer Ned Leach of New Paltz. Awarded the de la Torre Bueno Prize as the best unpublished book in the field of the dance for 1974-1975, the work has just been published by Wesleyan University Press, a firm that specializes in books on the dance and the theatre.

Jane Sherman was a girl of seventeen in the fall of 1925 when she joined the Denishawn dance company for their fifteen month tour of the Orient, the first serious American dancers ever to appear here. She was by far the youngest member of the troupe which included Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman who later became famous in their own right. (The title Soring, is borrowed from one of Doris Humphrey's most successful dance creations. Another, her extraordinary Hoop Dance, was first performed at the Academy of Music in Newburgh on October 6, 1924.)

Miss Sherman wrote voluminous letters to her family and kept both a photographic record and a detailed diary of her adventures, impressions and thoughts. They are set in an atmosphere that has vanished forever and reveal a young girl's dilemma as doubts and grow to maturity under the most unusual and trying circumstances. These documents were fortunately preserved through the years. They form the major portion of a story that is a vivid and often amusing description of Japan, China, India, Burma, Java and Ceylon half a century ago. (Imagine if you can what it must have been like to travel, perform, study and sight-see for almost a year and a half in temperate climates with at least one or two permanent wives, a bubble pin, no pins or zippers, Kleenex or wash, a wear antibiotics or intravenous inoculations, TV, radio, ball pens, paper backs, or air mail!)

After she stopped dancing, Jane Sherman published poetry, short stories and many children's books and she continues to write. But she feels that Soring is perhaps the culmination of her twin careers.

Art 'Our Town' At SUNY

Our Town, the final production of the 1975-76 Season by the Department of Theatre Arts at New Paltz, opens April 7 at 8:30 p.m. for five performances, April 7 through 10 at 8:30 p.m. and April 11 at 2:00 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Box Office in Moore Theatre, 310-2777, or by mail to the Department of Theatre Arts, SUNY, New Paltz, N.Y. 12561.

Our Town, Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize winning play about the deep valley of the smallest and most ordinary aspects of everyday life, is set in the small town of Grover's Corners which is similar to any small town in this area. The play was first produced on Broadway in 1938 and was hailed as being revolutionary in its style because of its realistic, relaxed nature and the use of minimal scenery.

The Department of Theatre Arts Chairman John C. Morrow is the director of this New Paltz production of Our Town, which is the first in a series of four distinguished American plays being produced in honor of the Bicentennial Year.

Lee Myczkowski

Artist Fungus

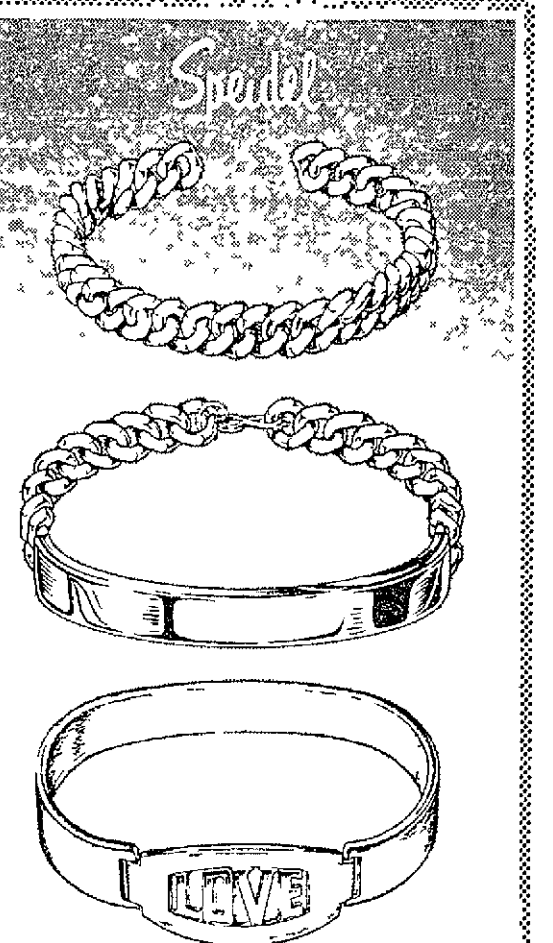

WOODSTOCK—Multi-talented Woodstock Artist Lee Myczkowski, will demonstrate etching and painting on Artist Fungus for the Ulster County Art Association on Tuesday, April 6th, at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA on Kingston's Clinton Avenue.

several botanists informed me that although they can loosely be included in the wild mushroom variety they are not a true mushroom.

Although Art is my first love, History is my second and I have put together a collection of etchings and paintings done on my Tree Shells including maps of the major Revolutionary battles and portraits of some of the famous leaders of that time of which I'm particularly proud. I have an exhibit scheduled in late spring in the Schenectady Museum and hope to have some of them on display in the Smithsonian Institute. My problem is transporting them to Washington, D.C.

Myczkowski is a native New Yorker who started drawing and painting at an early age in the family farm in Satatoga. He studied watercolor with Evelyn DeQuilfeld on Long Island. Myczkowski is a member of several Art Leagues including the Woodstock Artists Association, Flushing Art League, American Watercolor Society and the youngest member of the Shimagundi Club in New York City. He has won many awards and his work hangs in many prominent Art Collections in the country and abroad. Recently Myczkowski had three of his pieces accepted by the Albany Museum of History and Art.

THE ALVIN AILEY REPERTORY WORKSHOP will perform at the Poughkeepsie High School on Saturday, April 24 at 8 p.m. The young company, established in 1974 by the American Dance Center, the official school for the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Center, to develop and use the talents of its young dancers and choreographers. The Ailey "second" company has met with unanimous critical acclaim wherever it has performed, including an appearance on national television in a salute to Duke Ellington, and has recently been signed by Columbia Artists Management. The 11 dancers, under the artistic direction of Sylvia Waters, a former Ailey soloist, perform works from the Ailey repertoire as well as those of Gus Solomon and Donald McKayle. The Ailey concert is the last performance of the dance series presented this season by the Performing Arts Festival, a cooperative venture of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and the Poughkeepsie Ballet Theatre, aimed at bringing professional dance to the Mid Hudson region. Tickets may be ordered from the Hudson Valley Philharmonic box office.

'Of Thee I Sing' at RVHS

ROUNDOUT VALLEY—A play described as the happiest and most successful native music stage lampoon that has thus far come the way of the American theatre will be staged April 8-10 in the auditorium of Roundout Valley High School by the Teachers Association.

Of Thee I Sing, with Jerome O'Donnell as director, Phyllis Rose producer, Kathlyn Thomas vocal director and Jean Rardau art director.

The story follows John P. Wintergreen's campaign for President using the winning slogan "Put Love in the White House."

Hal Ross, who is taking the comic part of Alexander vice presidential candidate, appeared in the first Roundout Valley Teachers Association production in 1962 and last year recreated his role of character man Dirk Sneath in the melodrama I Love Rides. He Rides or Will the Mail Train Run Tonight.

Tom Sheldon is in the role of presidential candidate. In the play it is decided he shall marry the winner of a beauty contest after proposing to her in every state in the Union. He falls in love with the prettiest and demure Mary Turner played by Mary Gardner and it all causes international complications.

Other members of the cast are Wendell Rapp, Richard Murphy, Linda Resnev, Robert Kuster, Roland Mayberry, Gus Constantineau, Gary Bartie, Rostman, Rydant, Eleanor Knudsen, Larry Skalla and Al Pavata and Elaine Decker.

Also Peter Gaspar, Barry Green, Jay Martin, Steve Sage, Ralph Swanson, Harriet Miller, Julie Maceo, Carol Schleiter, Sandra Zerbe, Marilyn Eldridge, Mike Johnson, Jackie Kottie, Austin Mayberry, Linda Resnev and Wendy Rose.

Working on the production also are Wendell Rapp, poster design, Sue Auble, graphics.

Vince Fisher, scenery; Ted and Mayberry and Rod Bisten tickets. In charge of props are Barbara Ross, Pat Berling, Ruth Marshall, Mike Polam and Nancy Sack.

Handling publicity are Phyllis Rose, Judy Rupp, Elaine Decker, Michele Palmer, Joe Prevail, Judy Rockwell, Marie Rouse, Ruth Stubbins, Pat Sullivan and Austin Mayberry.

PAW: 'Reynard the Fox'

WOODSTOCK—Scheduled for a mid-April opening on the Town Hall stage is Reynard the Fox, the latest production of Performance Arts of Woodstock. Translated from the French original, Reynard is a children's fantasy centered on the misadventures of mischievous Reynard the king's own knight and a practical joker extraordinaire.

The fox knight barely avoids the hangman's noose on a charge of treachery and finds himself in disrespect throughout the corrupt kingdom. But with Reynard wins his freedom when he saves the king's life. Michael Crutchank of PAW will direct the cast of seven young people in the play and will also design its sets. Among youthful thespians involved are Hilbard Mac Donald is Lucien the Crow, Michael Norden as Brun the Bear, Ken White as Yseugrin the Wolf and Paul Washington in the title role. Washington is no newcomer to PAW, previously appearing in A Month in the Country for the group last spring.

Others in the cast are Scott Gagnon is Reverend Epiphany the Hedghog, Bryce Manieri is Noble the Lion and Hillary Weim, as Lendore the Marmot.

The Right to Die

By Abigail VanBuren
DEAR READERS: As I have stated in a previous column, I have signed the Living Will. It is simply a document that a person signs stating that he does not want to have his life prolonged artificially after his physician decides that there is no reasonable hope for recovery. I have given copies of this document to my physician, lawyer, clergyman and to members of my family.

On February 23rd I published the official Jewish view on the right to die with dignity, submitted by Rabbi Bernard S. Raskas. On March 15th I published a statement from the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale concerning the Protestant view.

The following letter was received from the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen:

My dear Abby:

What a joy it was to hear from you. Having not had the pleasure of seeing you for such a long while!

In answer to your question: What is the official Catholic view on the right to die with dignity? It is not necessary to use extraordinary artificial means to keep a person alive. Wishing you every blessing and with the warmest of personal greetings, I am, Sincerely yours in our Lord, FULTON J. SHEEN.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and considered very pretty. I am going steady with a great guy who is 32. We really love

To The Ulster County React:

I would really like to thank all of you of the Ulster County React for the beautiful flowers that you sent me in the hospital. I was very surprised.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

Your birthday today: Self-reliance is essential as demands for your personal efforts and additional skills increase. Thrift is urgent; spend every cent carefully. A quiet spell at year's end brings a respite from major ventures. Old ties become stronger; new ones result in overcommitments. Today's natives excel at sharp distinctions. Many are known in the sciences or some form of the popular arts.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Nobody is gratuitously going to help in the things you can do for yourself. Improve desired relationships; resist breaking off annoying ties prematurely.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Avoid unnecessary changes and shortcuts in your work. Communication channels to far places are open; use them. Add to your savings.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: If you think that people are impulsive or erratic, consider how you appear to others. Correspondence is important; a lively letter brings excellent results.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You explain where no explanation is called for. Come to terms with technical experts early in the day. Recent influences pep up home life.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Be cooperative, since individual enterprises thrive along with group and corporate programs. Notebooks are in order as you take in interesting details.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Meet business competition with vigor. Inspiration shows how to protect financial prospects. Be sure your work is seen in true perspective.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Following a natural course finds you doing things a little differently. Personal goals and romance compete against necessary routine.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Today is great for settling accounts and making long-awaited purchases. Quit on time. Skip shoptalk tonight; see what you can do for your home.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Switch schedules early, and substitute for friends socially. Clear off outstanding routines. An urgent opportunity is near; be free to respond.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Listen to someone who is trying to tell you something. Cooperation is at hand; attend to business, it's your initiative that makes the difference.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Stop, look, listen. When you have the latest word, decide what you're after. Balance work with efforts to get what you really want. Avoid promises.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Accept skepticism in others as a natural phenomenon. You needn't explain what you're doing. Complete some long-drawn-out unsatisfying deal.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, PhD.

DIFFERENT (Q.) I was going with a foreign guy. (I am American). But everyone told me that he's no good, so I don't go with him anymore. I think people are people and should live together like people and not bother about colors and accents. I know I can't make people stop talking about it, but I think people shouldn't have a prejudiced attitude. I still love him and he loves me. What should I do? He is 20 years old and I am 13 years old. I don't look my age. I look older.—Sad in Pennsylvania

(A.) You have a positive attitude about people in general. But you give two details about yourself and your friend that I think are important.

First you say he is 20 and you are 13. Even if he lived across the street from you and lived the same kind of life you live and talked as you talk and had the same skin color, I would advise you that he is much too old for you.

Second, you say that everyone told you he is no good. You do not deny this, so apparently you agree with these people. A person with your own background can be no good. Or a person with a different background can be no good. Either way, you would be wise to avoid being too close to such a person.

Continue to avoid this man.

CHOICE (Q.) I'm 13 and I'm going out with Mark, who is 13 too. I like him, but not a lot. I really like Rob. He's 14 and in ninth grade. He's really cute, and nice too.

His sister said he likes me but can't ask me out because two of his friends don't like me and if he asked me out they would rank him out. What should I do?—Unhappy in Connecticut

(A.) I do not know why Bob's friends don't like you. But I do know that they have no right to dictate to him that he must not like you or see you.

If he does genuinely like you and wants to be with you, and if he is as decent as you seem to think he is, I believe he will find a way.

Continue to be friendly with him.

Jim: "Today's hand is simple enough. South is in three notrump and is going to make three, four or five depending on how the spade suit works out for him. He was the heart lead and plays a spade at trick two."

Oswald: "West plays low and obviously South start proceedings by playing the Jack from dummy, losing to East's king. A heart comes back and South leads a second spade. Again West plays low. As you can see the winning play is the queen. It is also the correct play."

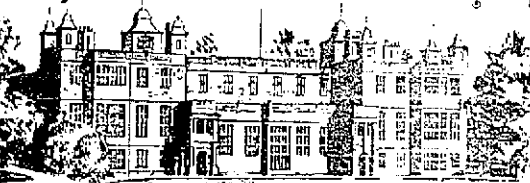

Jim: "The reason for the play is that if East had held both the ace and the king, he might well have won the first spade with the ace. In other words, the king was an automatic play from king-10. It wouldn't have been automatic from ace-king."

Intrastate 'Fratricide' Deplored by FitzPatrick

POTSDAM (UPI) — James A. FitzPatrick, chairman of the State Power Authority, says "upstate versus downstate" bickering is hampering efforts to ease a statewide shortage of electricity.

"I have grown weary of bickering, of mistrust, and of demagogic appeals to intrastate fratricide," FitzPatrick said Saturday. He was sharply critical of "sectionalism, divisiveness and upstate versus downstate" attitudes.

The state's electric system is interconnected and there are plans requiring all parts of the state to share an electrical deficiency in any other section, he said.

"If the lights go out in New York City, it won't be long before Ogdensburg, Massena, Canton and Potsdam are plunged into darkness as well," he said.

FitzPatrick addressed the annual dinner of the St. Lawrence County Chamber of Commerce here.

The county, he said, can guarantee its prosperity and progress by helping to ensure an adequate supply of electricity through New York State.

The chairman asked for cooperation from that area in the authority's efforts to build a 765,000-volt transmission line from Massena to Marcy, near Utica.

"Each year's delay in completion of the line will cost New York State consumers more than $60 million," he said. The estimated cost of the project is about $200 million.

PINE HILL.—A young Pine Hill man faces a possible life prison sentence following his arrest early Sunday for the sale of cocaine to an Ulster County Sheriff's Department detective.

Charged with third degree criminal sale of a controlled substance was Ronald Dunham, 22.

Detectives said they began an investigation in the Pine Hill area after obtaining information that cocaine was being sold. Dunham was arrested immediately after making the sale in a local tavern in the Pine Hill area, detectives said.

The charge of third degree criminal sale of a controlled substance carries a mandatory prison sentence with a minimum term of one year to life upon conviction.

Arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Richard Alberstadt, Dunham was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bail pending further court action.

Burned Down

Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a one-story residence off Elting Road in the Town of Rosendale early today.

Rosendale firemen were dispatched to the Grover Dunn residence shortly before 12:30 a.m. after a neighbor called Ulster County Control headquarters, fire officials said.

When firemen reached the scene two walls of the house were already down and flames had burned through the roof, firemen said.

Rosendale GOP to Elect

ROSENDALE — William Curran, chairman of the Town of Rosendale Republican Club, reports that a meeting of the club will be held Thursday, April 8, 7:30 p.m. at the Community Building, Old Maple Hill School, LeFever Falls Road.

Curran reports that the purpose of the meeting is to draft a new constitution, by-laws and elect new officers.

The district GOP committeemen and committeewomen and the nominating committee members are hopeful of a large turnout of both young and old Republicans.

Police Beat

Fire officials said no one was home when the blaze broke out.

Fire officials said winds fanned the flames and started a brush fire nearby, Bloomington and Tillson volunteers assisted Rosendale firemen at the scene.

No injuries were reported. Fire fighters remained at the scene of the blaze until nearly 6:30 a.m. today.

Young Burglars

Ulster County Sheriff's Department detectives arrested two Tillson teenagers on Saturday and Sunday in connection with a burglary last Wednesday at a Springtown Road house.

According to detectives, about $300 in cash taken in the burglary was not recovered. Arrested were a 13-year-old and a 14-year-old who were not identified because of their ages. Both will be petitioned into family court.

Back to Court

Kingston attorney and Special City Judge George A. Beck was scheduled to be arraigned today in U.S. District Court in Albany, where charges have been filed against him by the U.S. Attorney's office for four counts of willful failure to file federal income tax returns on income of nearly $200,000 for the years 1969-72.

Each count of the misdemeanor charge is punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000 and a one-year prison term.

Force-Off

Three members of a Kingston family were treated and released at Kingston Hospital Sunday night after their car slammed into a parked car on Hasbrouck Avenue after reportedly being forced off the road by an unknown oncoming car.

Taken to the hospital were the driver, John V. Quick, 29; Christine Quick, 22; and Heidi Quick, 3, all of Rondout Gardens.

No tickets were issued to Quick by Kingston Police fol-

Adjourned

A case against Robert Medley, 21, of 19 Hone Street, Kingston, who was charged with attempted burglary, was adjourned Friday in City Court for six months in contemplation of dismissal. Such an adjournment means that if Medley gets in no trouble during the six-month period the charge will be dismissed.

Medley was charged Feb. 8 with attempting to break into the Yacht Club Restaurant, 334 Abeel Street.
